B M S

SEVERAL OCCASIONS.

MATTHEW PRIOR, Efg.

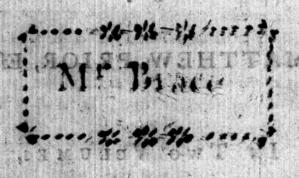

IN Two VOLUMES.

VOL I

ABERDEEN: Printed and fold by F. Douglass and W. MURRAT. M, DCC, LIV.

SEVERALL OCCASIONS.

Principal Ville C. D. B. E. M. Report of the Control of the Contro

To the Right Honourable

L I O N E L,

fielig es maement des parties es is es in en ente line inte

EARL, OF you but were a secured to the second

DORSET and MIDDLESEX.

I T looks like no great compliment to your Lordship, that I presix your name to this epistle; when, in the presace, I declare the book is published almost against my inclination. But, in all cases, my Lord, you have an hereditary right to whatever may be called mine. Many of the following pieces were written by the command of your excellent father; and most of the rest, under his protection and patronage.

The particular felicity of your birth, My Lord; the natural endowments of your mind, which, without suspicion of flattery, I may tell you, are very great; the good education with which these parts have been improved; and your coming into the world, and seeing men very early; make us expect from your Lordship all the good, which our hopes can form in favour of a young nobleman. 'Tu Marcellus eris,'——our eyes and our hearts are turned on you. You must be a judge and master of polite learning; a friend and patron to men of letters and merit; a faithful and able counsellor to your prince; a true patriot to your country; an ornament and honour to the titles you posses; and in one word, a worthy son to the great Earl of Dorset.

agreenbly

It is as impossible to mention that name, without defiring to commend the person; as it is to give him the commendations which his virtues deserved. But I assure myself, the most agreeable compliment I can bring your Lordship, is to pay a grateful respect to your father's memory. And my own obligations to him were such; that the world must pardon my endeavouring at his character, however I may misearry in the attempt,

A thousand ornaments and graces met in the composition of this great man; and contributed to make him univerfally beloved and effeemed. The figure of his body was strong, proportionable, beautiful: and were his picture well drawn, it must deserve the praise given to the portraits of RAPHABL; and, at once, create love and respect. While the greatness of his mien inform'd men, they were approaching the Nobleman; the fweetness of it invited them to come nearer to the Patron. There was in his look and gesture something that is more eafily conceived than defcribed; that gained upon you in his favour, before he spake one word. His behaviour was easy and courteous to all; but diffinguished and adapted to each man in particular, according to his station and quality. His civility was free from the formality of rule, and flowed immediately from his good fenfe.

Such were the natural faculties and strength of his mind, that he had occasion to borrow very little from education; and he owed those advantages to his own good parts, which others acquire by study and imitation. His wit was abundant, noble, bold. Wit in most writers is like a fountain in a garden, supplied by several streams brought thro' artful pipes, and playing sometimes agreeably agreeably: but the Earl of Dorser's was a fource rising from the top of a mountain, which forced its own way, and with inexhaustible supplies, delighted and inriched the country thro' which it passed. This extraordinary genius was accompanied with so true a judgment in all parts of fine learning, that whatever subject was before him, he discoursed as properly of it, as if the peculiar bent of his study had been applied that way; and he perfected his judgment by reading and digesting the best authors, tho' he quoted them very seldom, and rather seemed to draw his knowledge from his own fores, than to owe it to any foreign assistance.

Contemnebat potius literas, quam nesciebat:

The brightness of his parts, the folidity of his judge ment, and the candour and generofity of his temper distinguished him in an age of great politeness, and at a court abounding with men of the finest fense and learning. The most eminent masters in their several ways appealed to his determination. WALLER thought it an honour to confult him in the foftnels and harmony of his verfet and Dr. SPRAT, in the delicacy and turn of his profe. DRYDEN determines by him, under the character of Eugenius, as to the laws of dramatic poetry. Burler owed it to him, that the court casted his Hudibras: WICHERLEY, that the town liked his Plain Dealer: and the late Duke of BUCKINGHAM deferred to publish his Rehearfal; 'till he was fure (as he expressed it) that my Lord DORSET would not Rehearle upon him again. If we wanted foreign testimony; LA FONTAINE and ST. EVERMONT have acknowleded, that he was a perfect master in the beauty and fineness of their language, and of all that they call les Belles Lettres. Nor was this nicety of his judgment confined only to books and literature; but was the same in statuary, painting, and all other parts of art. Beanini would have taken his opinion upon the beauty and attitude of a sigure; and King Charles did not agree with Lely, that my Lady Cleveland's picture was sinished, 'till it had the approbation of my Lord Buckhurst.

As the judgment which he made of others writings, could not be refuted; the manner in which he wrote, will hardly ever be equalled. Every one of his pieces is an ingot of gold, intrinsically and folidly valuable; such as, wrought or beaten thinner, would shine thro' a whole book of any other author. His thought was always new: and the expression of it so particularly happy, that every body knew immediately, it could only be my Lord Do Rser's: and yet it was fo eafy too, that every body was ready to imagine himself capable of writing it. There a luftre in his verses, like that of the fun in CLAUDE LORAINE'S landskips; it looks natural; and is inimitable. His love verses have a mixture of delicacy and strength: they convey the wit of PETRONIUS in the foftness of TIBULEUS, His fatyr indeed is to feverely pointed, that in it he appears, what his great friend the Earl of ROCHESTER (that other prodigy of the age) fays he the late Duke of Bucksnith and delered to read the

The best good man, with the worst natur'd muse, yet even here, that character may justly be applied to him,

him, which PERSIUS gives of the belt writer in this kind, that ever lived:

Omne vafer vitium ridenti Flaccus amico

Tangit, et admissus circum praecordia ludit.

and the gentleman had always so much the better of the satyrist, that the persons touched did not know where to six their resentments; and were forced to appear rather ashamed than angry. Yet so far was this great author from valuing himself upon his works, that he cared not what became of them, though every body else did. There are many things of his not extant in writing, which however are always repeated: like the verses and sayings of the ancient DRUIDS, they retain an universal veneration; they they are preserved only by memory.

As it is often feen, that those men who are least qualified for business, love it most; my Lord Dorser's character was, that he certainly understood it, but did not care for it.

Coming very young to the possession of two plentiful estates, and in an age when pleasure was more in fashion than business; he turned his parts rather to books and conversation, than to politicks, and what more immediately related to the public. But whenever the safety of his country demanded his assistance, he readily entered into the most active parts of life; and underwent the greatest dangers, with a constancy of mind, which shewed, that he had not only read the rules of philosophy, but understood the practice of them.

In the first Dutch war he went a volunteer under the Duke of Your: his behaviour, during that campaign, master in the beauty and fineness of their language, and of all that they call les Belles Lettres. Nor was this nicety of his judgment confined only to books and literature; but was the same in statuary, painting, and all other parts of art. Bernini would have taken his opinion upon the beauty and attitude of a sigure; and King Charles did not agree with Lely, that my Lady Cleveland's picture was sinished, 'till it had the approbation of my Lord Buckhurst.

As the judgment which he made of others writings, could not be refuted; the manner in which he wrote, will hardly ever be equalled. Every one of his pieces is an ingot of gold, intrinsically and folidly valuable; such as, wrought or beaten thinner, would shine thro' a whole book of any other author. His thought was always new: and the expression of it so particularly happy, that every body knew immediately, it could only be my Lord Donser's: and yet it was fo cafy too, that every body was ready to imagine himself capable of writing it. There is a luftre in his verses, like that of the fun in CLAUDE LORAINE's landskips; it looks natural; and is inimitable. His love verses have a mixture of delicacy and strength: they convey the wit of PETRONIUS in the foftness of TIBULEUS, His fatyr indeed is fo feverely pointed. that in it he appears, what his great friend the Earl of ROCHESTER (that other prodigy of the age) fays he the larg Dake of Buckyneway defeated to mable tar him, which Persons gives of the bell writer in this kind, that ever lived:

The best good man, with the worst natur'd muse, yet even here, that character may justly be applied to him,

Omne vafer vitium ridenti Flaccus amico

Tangit, et admissus circum praecordia ludit.

and the gentleman had always so much the better of the satyrist, that the persons touched did not know where to six their resentments; and were forced to appear rather ashamed than angry. Yet so far was this great author from valuing himself upon his works, that he cared not what became of them, though every body else did. There are many things of his not extant in writing, which however are always repeated: like the verses and sayings of the ancient Druids, they retain an universal veneration; they they are preserved only by memory.

As it is often seen, that those men who are least qualified for business, love it most; my Lord Dorser's character was, that he certainly understood it, but did not care for it.

Coming very young to the possession of two plentiful estates, and in an age when pleasure was more in fashion than business; he turned his parts rather to books and conversation, than to politicks, and what more immediately related to the public. But whenever the safety of his country demanded his assistance, he readily entered into the most active parts of life; and underwent the greatest dangers, with a constancy of mind, which shewed, that he had not only read the rules of philosophy, but understood the practice of them.

In the first Dutch war he went a volunteer under the Duke of Your: his behaviour, during that campaign,

EUST.

was fuch, as diffinguished the SACKVILLE descended from that HILDEBRAND of the name, who was one of the greatest captains that came into ENGLAND with the Conqueror. But his making a fong the night before the engagement (and it was one of the prettieft that ever was made) carries with it fo fedate a presence of mind, and fuch an unufual gallantry, that it deserves as much to be recorded, as ALEXANDER's jesting with his foldiers, before he past the GRANICUS: OF WILLIAM the first of ORANGE, giving order over night for a battle, and defiring to be called in the morning, left he should happen to fleep too long.

FROM hence, during the remaining part of King CHARLES's reign, he continued to live in honourable leifure, he was of the bed-chamber to the King, and polseffed not only his master's favour, but (in a great degree) his familiarity; never leaving the court, but when he was fent to that of FRANCE, on some short commissions and embassies of compliment: as if the King designed to show the FRENCH, (who would be thought the politest nation) that one of the finest gentleman in EUROPE was his subject; and that we had a Prince who underflood his worth so well, as not to suffer him to be long out of his presence.

THE fucceeding reign neither relished my Lord's wit, nor approved his maxims: so he retired altogether from court. But as the irretrievable mistakes of that unhappy government went on to threaten the nation with fomething more terrible than a Dutch war: he thought it became him to resume the courage of his youth, and once more to engage himself in defending the liberty of his country.

He entred into the Prince of Onances interest; and carried on his part of that great enterprise here in London, and under the eye of the court; with the same resolution, as his friend and fellow-patriot the late Duke of Devonshire did in open arms at Northugham; 'till the dangers of those times increased to extremity; and just apprehensions arose for the safety of the Princess, our present glorious Queen: then the Earl of Donsor was thought the properest guide of her necessary flight, and the person under whose courage and direction the nation might most safely trust a charge so precious and important.

AFTER the establishment of their late majesties upon the throne; there was room again at court for men of my Lord's character. He had a part in the councils of those princes, a great share in their friendship; and all the marks of distinction, with which a good government could reward a patriot. He was made chamberlain of their majesties houshold; a place which he so eminently adorned by the grace of his person, and the sineness of his breeding, and the knowledge and practice of what was decent and magnificent; that he could only be rivalled in these qualiscations by one great man, who has since held the same staff.

THE last honours he received from his fovereign, (and indeed they were the greatest which a subject could receive) were, that he was made a Knight of the garter, and constituted one of the regents of the kingdom, during his majesty's absence. But his health, about that time, sensibly declining; and the publick affairs not threatened by any imminent danger; he left the business to those who delighted more in the state of it; and appeared only sometimes at council, to shew his respect to the commission: giving as much leisure as he could to the relief of those pains, with which it pleased God to afflict him; and indulging the reslections of a mind, that had looked thro' the world with too piercing an eye, and was grown weary of the prospect. Upon the whole, it may very justly be said of this great man, with regard to the public, that thro' the course of his life, he acted like an able pilot in a long voyage; contented to sit quiet in the cabin, when the winds were allayed, and the waters smooth; but vigilant and ready to resume the helm, when the storm arose, and the sea grew tumultuous.

I ask your pardon, my Lord, if I look yet a little more nearly into the late Lord Dorser's character: if I examine it not without some intention of finding fault; and (which is an odd way of making a panegyric) set his blemishes and impersections in open view.

The fire of his youth carried him to some excesses:
but they were accompanied with a most lively invention, and true humour. The little violences and easy mistakes of a night too gayly spent, (and that too in the beginning of life) were always set right the next day, with great humanity, and ample retribution. His faults brought their excuse with them, and his very failingshad their beauties. So much sweetness accompanied what be said, and so great generosity what he did; that people were always prepossessed in his savour: and it was in sact true, what the late Earl of ROCHESTER said in jest, to King GHARLES; that he did not know how it was, but my bord Donser might do any thing, yet

He was naturally very subject to passion; but the short gust was soon over, and served only to set off the charms of his temper, when more composed. That very passion broke out with a sorce of wir, which made even anger agreeable: while it lasted, he said and forgot a thousand things, which other men would have been glad to have studied and wrote: but the impetuosity was corrected upon a moment's resection; and the measure altered with such grace and delicacy, that you could scarce perceive where the key was changed.

Hs was very sharp in his reflections; but never in the wrong place. His darts were sure to wound; but they were sure too to hit none, but those whose sollies gave him very fair aim. And when he allowed no quarter; he had certainly been provoked by more than common error: by men's tedions and circumstantial recitals of their affairs; or by their multiply'd questions about his own: by extreme ignorance and impertinence; or the mixture of these, an ill-judg'd and never-ecasing civility: or lastly, by the two things which were his utter aversion; the infinuation of a statterer, and the whisper of a tale-bearer.

If therefore we fet the piece in its worst position; if its faults be most exposed; the shades will still appear very finely join'd with their lights; and every impersection will be diminished by the lustre of some neighbouring virtue. But if we turn the great drawings and wonderful colourings to their true light; the whole must appear beautiful, noble, admirable.

His possessed all those virtues in the highest degree, upon which the pleasure of society, and the bappiness of life depend: and he exercised them with the greatest decency, and best manners. As good nature is said, by a great * author, to belong more particularly to the ENGLISH, than any other nation; it may again be said, that it belonged more particularly to the late Earl of Donest, than to any other ENGLISH manner.

A kind hulband he was, without fondness: and an indulgent father, without partiality. So extraordinary good a mafter, that this quality ought indeed to have been number'd among his defects: for he was often ferved worfe than became his fation; from his unwillingness to assume an authority too severe. And, during those little transports of passion, to which I just now faid he was subject; I have known his servants get into his way, that they might make a merit of it immediately after: for he that had the good fortune to be chid, was sure of being rewarded for it.

He stable was one of the last, that gave us an example of the old house-keeping of an English nobleman. A freedom reigned at it, which made every one of his guests think himself at home: and an abundance, which shewed that the master's hospitality extended to many more, than those who had the honour to sit at table with him-

In his dealings with others; his care and exactness, that every man should have his due, was such, that you would think he had never seen a court: the politeness and ^{*} Sprat. Hift, of the Royal Society.

and civility with which this justice was administred, would convince you he never had lived out of one.

HE was so strict an observer of his word, that no consideration whatever could make him break it; vet so cautious, left the merit of his act should arise from that obligation only; that he usually did the greatest favours, without making any previous promife. So inviolable was he in his friendship, and so kind to the character of those, whom he had once honoured with a more intimate acquaintance; that nothing lefs than a demonstration of fome effential fault, could make him break with them: and then too, his good-nature did not confent to it, without the greatest reluctance and difficulty. Let me give one instance of this amongst many. When as Lord Chamberlain, he was obliged to take the King's pension from Mr. DRYDEN, who had long before put himself out of a possibility of receiving any favour from the court: my Lord allowed him an equivalent, out of his own estate. However displeased with the conduct of his old acquaintance, he relieved his necessities; and while he gave him his affiftance in private; in public, he extenuated and pitied his error.

THE foundation indeed of these excellent qualities, and the persection of my Lord Dorser's character, was that unbounded charity which run through the whole tenor of his life; and sat as visibly predominant over the other faculties of his soul; as she is said to do in heaven, above her sister virtues.

CROUD'S of poor daily thronged his gates, expeding thence their bread: and were still lessened by his fending the most proper objects of his bounty to apprenticeships, or hospitals. The lazar and the fick, as he accidentally faw them, were removed from the street to the physis cian, and many of them not only restored to health, but supplied with what might enable them to resume their former callings, and make their future life happy. The prisoner has often been released, by my Lord's paying the debt; and the condemned has been faved by his intercession with the sovereign; where he thought the letter of the law too rigid. To those whose circumstances were fuch as made them ashamed of their poverty, he knew how to bestow his munificence, without offending their modesty: and under the notion of frequent prefents, gave them what amounted to a subsistence. Many yet alive know this to be true, though he told it to none, nor ever was more uneafy, than when any one mentioned it to him.

WE may find among the Greeks and Latins, TIBUL-LUS, and GALLUS; the noblemen that writ poetry: AUGUSTUS and MECENAS; the protectors of learning: ARISTIDES, the good citizen; and ATTICUS, the well-bred friend: and bring them in as examples of my Lord DORSET'S wit; his judgment; his justice; and his civility. But for his charity, my Lord, we can scarce find a parallel in history itself.

Tirus was not more the Deliciæ Humani generis, on this account, than my Lord Dorser was. And, without any exaggeration, that Prince did not do more good in proportion out of the revenue of the Roman empire, than your father out of the income of a private effate. Let this, my Lord, remain to you and your posterity a possession.

possession for ever; to be imitated, and if possible, to be excelled.

As to my own particular, I scarce knew what life was, sooner than I sound myself obliged to his favour; nor have had reason to seel any sorrow, so sensibly as that of his death.

Ille dies—quem semper acerbum
Semper honoratum (sie Di voluistis) habebo.

Mens as could not reflect upon the loss of his own father with greater piety, my Lord, than I must recall the memory of yours: and when I think whose son I am writing to, the least I promise myself from your goodness is an uninterrupted continuance of favour, and a friendship for life. To which, that I may with some justice intitle myself, I send your Lordship a dedication, not filled with a long detail of your praises, but with my sincerest wishes that you may deserve them. That you may employ those extraordinary parts and abilities with which heaven has blessed you, to the honour of your family, the benefit of your friends, and the good of your country; that all your actions may be great, open and noble, such as may tell the world whose son and whose successor

What I now offer to your Lordship is a collection of poetry, a kind of garland of good will. If any verses of my writing should appear in print, under another name and patronage, than that of an Earl of Dorset, people might suspect them not to be genuine. I have attained my present end, if these poems prove the diver-

fion of fome of your youthful hours, as they have been occasionaly the amusement of some of mine; and I humbly hope, that as I may hereafter bind up my fuller sheaf, and lay some pieces of a very different nature (the product of my severer studies) at your Lordship's feet, I shall engage your more ferious reflection: happy, if in all my endeavours I may contribute to your delight, or to your instruction, I am, with all duty and respect,

My LORD,

Your Lordship's

most Obedient, and most Humble Servant.

he footune and the agreement of the state of the state of the best of the

MAT. PRIOR.

was treatly express of the 48 fo

Post R E F A C E

PREFACE

DHE greatest part of what I have written having been already published, either singly or in some of the miscellanies, it would be too late for me to make any excuse for appearing in print. But a collection o poems has lately appeared under my name, tho' without my knowledge, in which the publisher has given me the honour of some things that did not belong to me; and has transcribed others so imperfectly, that I hardly knew them to be mine. This has obliged me, in my own defence, to look back upon some of those lighter studies, which I ought long since to have quitted, and to publish an indifferent collection of poems, for sear of being thought the author of a worse.

THUS I beg pardon of the public for reprinting some pieces, which, as they came singly from their first impression, have (I fancy) lain long and quietly in Mr. Tonson's shop; and adding others to them, which were never before printed, and might have lain as quietly, and perhaps more safely, in a corner of my own study.

THE reader will, I hope, make allowance for their having been written at very distant times, and on very different occasions; and take them as they happen to come, publick panegyrics, amorous odes, serious restections, or idle tales, the product of his leisure hours, who had business enough upon his hands, and was only a poet by accident.

I

I take this occasion to thank my good friend and school-fellow Mr. DIBBEN, for his excellent version of the Carmen Seculare, though my gratitude may justly carry a little envy with it; for I believe the most accurate judges will find the translation exceed the original.

I must likewise own myself obliged to Mrs. SINGER, who has given me leave to print a pastoral of her writing; that poem having produced the verses immediately sollowing it. I wish she might be prevailed with to publish some other pieces of that kind, in which the softness of her sex, and the sineness of her genius, conspire to give her a very distinguishing character.

They be a self-the fitter than began in the staget owner to be and

AND A SECOND CONTRACTOR OF THE PARTY OF

White the few terms of the few terms of the first that the second of the first that the second of the few terms of the few te

A STATE OF THE STA

ender kartisk, oster morres vestige Kannot eriktet vin to the best ere

Who ever been country by the constitution of the Sa tour made cheer as each of the contraction

AND SOME THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY.

and plants of the second extension in POST-

POSTSCRIPT.

T Must help my preface by a postscript to tell the reader, that there is ten years distance between my writing the one and the other; and that (whatever I thought then, and have fomewhere faid, that I would publish no more poetry) he will find several copies of verses scattered through this edition, which were not printed in the first. Those relating to the public stand in the order they did before, and according to the leveral years, in which they were written; however the difpolition of our national affairs, the actions, or the fortunes of fome men, and the opinions of others may have Profe and other human things may take what turn they can; but poetry, which pretends to have fomething of divinity in it, is to be more permanent. Odes once printed cannot well be altered, when the author has already faid that he expects his works should live for ever. And it had been very foolish in my friend HORACE, if some years after his Exegi Monumentum, he should have defired to see his building taken down again.

THE dedication likewise is reprinted to the Earl of DORSET, in the foregoing leaves, without any alteration; though I had the fairest opportunity, and the strongest inclination to have added a great deal to it. The blooming hopes, which I said the world expected from my then very young patron, have been confirmed by most noble and distinguished first-fruits; and his life is going on towards a plentiful harvest of all accumulated virtues. He has, in fact, exceeded whatever the fondness of my wishes could invent in his favour: his equally good and beautiful Lady enjoys in him an indulgent and obliging husband; his children, a kind and careful father; and his acquaintance, a faithful, generous, and polite friend. His fellow-peers have attended to the persuasion of his eloquence; and have been convinced by the folidity of his reasoning. He has, long since, deferved and attained the honour of the garter. managed some of the charges of the kingdom with known ability; and laid them down with entire difinteressment. And as he continues the exercises of these eminent virtues (which that he may to a very old age, shall be my perpetual wish) he may be one of the greatest men that our age, or possibly our nation has bred; and leave materials for a panegyric, not unworthy the pen of some cuture PLINY.

FROM so noble a subject as the Earl of DORSET, to so mean a one as myself, is (I confess) a very Pindaric transition. I shall only say one word, and trouble the reader no surther. I published my poems formerly as Monsieur Jourdain sold his silk: he would not be thought a tradesman; but ordered some pieces to be measured out to his particular friends. Now I give up my shop, and dispose of all my poetical goods at once: I must therefore desire; that the public would please to take them in the gross; and that every body would turn over what he does not like.

handeness ha is hoven induction

1722217

POEMS

7 0 - 2 2 3 9

ON

The street of the County of the A

SEVERAL OCCASIONS.

On Exodus iii. 14. I am that I am.

ANODE.

Written 1688, as an Exercise at St. John's College,

Conservation of the state of th

MAN! foolish man!

Scarce know'st thou how thyself began!

Scarce hast thou thought enough to prove thou art;

Yet steel'd with study'd boldness, thou dar'st try

To send thy doubting reason's dazled eye

Through the mysterious gulph of vast immensity.

Much thou canst there discern, much thence impart.

Vain wretch! suppress thy knowing pride;

Mortise thy learned lust:

Vain are thy thoughts, while thou thyself art dust.

11.

Let wit her fails, her oars let wisdom lend.

The helm let politic experience guide:
Yet cease to hope thy short-liv'd bark shall ride

Down spreading fate's unnavigable tide.

What, tho' still it farther tend?

Still 'tis farther from its end;

And, in the bosom of that boundless sea,

Still finds its error lengthen with its way.

III. With

With daring pride and infolent delight Your doubts refolv'd you boaft, your labours crown'd; And, "ETPHKA! your God forfooth is found Incomprehensible and infinite. But is he therefore found? vain fearcher! no: Let your imperfect definition show, That nothing you, the weak definer, know.

Say, why should the collected main Itself within itself contain? Why to its caverns shou'd it sometimes creep. And with delighted filence fleep On the lov'd bosom of its parent deep? Why shou'd its num'rous waters stay In comely discipline, and fair array. "Till winds and tides exert their high command? Then prompt and ready to obey, Why do the rifing furges spread Their op'ning ranks o'er earth's submissive head, Marching thro' different paths to different lands?

South a group of the first through the state of

Why does the confrant fun With measur'd steps his radiant journeys run? Why does he order the diurnal hours To leave earth's other part, and rife in ours? Why does he wake the correspondent moon, And fill her lamp with liquid light, Commanding her with delegated pow'rs To beautifie the world and bless the night? Why does each animated flar Love the just limits of its proper sphere? Why does each confenting fign and and and and and With prudent harmony combine In turns to move, and subsequent appear, To gird the globe, and regulate the year? that to firther from its ced;

Acoust III

Man does with dangerous curiofity These unfathom'd wonders try: With fancy'd rules and arbitrary laws Matter and motion he restrains: And study'd lines and fictious circles draws: Then with imagin'd foveraignty Lord of his new hypothesis he reigns. He reigns: how long? 'till fome usurper rise; And he too, mighty thoughtful, mighty wife, Studies new lines, and other circles feigns, From this last toil again what knowledge flows? Just as much, perhaps, as shows, That all his predeceffors rules Were empty cant, all jargon of the schools: That he on t'other's ruin rears his throne: [own. And shows his friend's mistake, and thence confirms his

On earth, in air, amidst the seas and skies, Mountainous heaps of wonder rife: Whose tow'ring strength will ne'er submit To reason's batteries, or the mines of wit: Yet still enquiring, still mistaking man, Each hour repuls'd, each hour dare onward press; And levelling at GOD his wandring guess, (That feeble engine of his reasoning war, Which guides his doubts, and combats his despair) Laws to his Maker the learn'd wretch can give: Can bound that nature, and prescribe that will, Whose pregnant word did either ocean fill: Can tell us whence all beings are, and how they move Thro' either ocean, foolish man! Tand live. That pregnant word fent forth again, Might to a world extend each atom there;

For every drop call forth a fea, a heav'n for ev'ry flar.

Let cunning earth her fruitful wonders hide; And only lift thy staggering reason up

To trembling Calvary's aftonish'd top;
Then mock thy knowledge, and confound thy pride,
Explaining how perfection suffer'd pain,
Almighty languish'd, and Eternal dy'd:
How by her patient victor death was slain;
And earth profan'd, yet bless'd with deicide.
Then down with all thy boasted volumes, down;
Only reserve the sacred one:

Only referve the facred one; Low, reverently low,

Make thy stubborn knowledge bow;
Weep out thy reason's, and thy body's eyes;
Deject thyself, that thou may'st rise;
To look to heav'n, be blind to all below.

IX

Then faith, for reason's glimmering light, shall give
Her immortal perspective;
And grace's presence nature's loss retrieve:
Then thy enliven'd soul shall see,
That all the volumes of philosophy,
With all their comments, never cou'd invent
So politic an instrument,
To reach the heav'n of heav'ns, the high abode,
Where Moses places his mysterious God,
As was that ladder which old Jacob rear'd,
When light divine had human darkness clear'd;
And his enlarg'd ideas found the road,
Which faith had dictated, and angels trod.

To the Countefs of EXETER, playing on the Lute.

forung,

Have been the pleasing subjects of my song:

Unskill'd and young, yet something still I writ,

Of Ca'ndish beauty join'd to Cecil's wit.

But when you please to show the lab'ring muse,

What greater theme your music can produce;

My babling praises I repeat no more, But hear, rejoice, stand filent, and adore.

The Persians thus first gazing on the fun, Admir'd how high 'twas plac'd, how bright it shone: But, as his pow'r was known, their thoughts were rais'd; And foon they worship'd, what at first they prais'd.

Eliza's glory lives in Spencer's fong; And Cowley's verse keeps fair Orinda young. That as in birth, in beauty you excell, The muse might dictate, and the poet tell: Your art no other art can speak; and you, To show how well you play, must play anew: Your music's pow'r your music must disclose; For what light is, 'tis only light that shows.

Strange force of harmony, that thus controuls Our thoughts, and turns and fanctifies our fouls: While with its utmost art your fex cou'd move Our wonder only, or at best our love: You far above both these your god did place, That your high pow'r might worldly thoughts destroy That with your numbers you our zeal might raife. And, like himself, communicate your joy.

When to your native heav'n you shall repair, And with your presence crown the bleffings there. Your lute may wind its strings but little higher, To tune their notes to that immortal quire. Your art is perfect here; your numbers do, More than our books, make the rude atheift know, That there's a heav'n, by what he hears below.

As in some piece, while Luke his skill exprest, A cunning angel came, and drew the reft: So when you play, some godhead does impart Harmonious aid, divinity helps art; Some cherub finishes what you begun, And to a miracle improves a tune. To burning Rome when frantic Nero play'd, Viewing that face, no more he had furvey'd The raging flames; but struck with strange surprise, Confess'd them less than those of Anna's eyes: Vol.-If yodo kopt 1 , a C 1 ber 13woq

But, had he heard thy lute, he foon had found
His rage eluded, and his crimes aton'd:
Thine, like Amphion's hand, had wak'd the ftone,
And from destruction call'd the rising town:
Malice to music had been forc'd to yield;
Nor could he burn so fast, as thou con'dst build.

PICTURE of SENECA dying in a Bath. By JOR-DAIN. At the right honourable the Earl of Exeter's at Burleigh-house.

The west was of

W HILE eruel Nero only drains
The moral Spaniard's ebbing veins,
By study worn, and slack with age,
How dull, how thoughtless is his rage?
Heighten'd revenge he should have took;
He should have burnt his tutor's book;
And long have reign'd supream in vice:
One nobler wretch can only rise;
'Tis he whose sury shall deface
The Stoic's image in this piece.
For while unhurt, divine Jordain,
Thy work and Seneca's remain,
He still has body, still has soul,
And lives and speaks, restor'd and whole

stord leads A N O D E.

as pringre pieces while I keeple all a concil.

W HILE blooming youth, and gay delight
Sit on thy rofy cheeks confest,
Thou hast, my dear, undoubted right
To triumph o'er this destin'd breast.
My reason bends to what thy eyes ordain;
For I was born to love, and thou to reign.

II.

On power, you know, I must obey?

Exert a legal tyrranny;
And do an ill, because you may?
Still must I thee, as athicsts heav'n adore;
Not see thy mercy, and yet dread thy power?

Take heed, my dear, youth flies apace;
As well as Cupid, Time is blind:
Soon must those glories of thy face
The face of vulgar beauty find:
The thousand loves, that arm thy potent eye,
Must drop their quivers, flag their wings, and die.

IV.

Then wilt thou ligh, when in each frown
A hateful wrinkle more appears;
And putting peevish humours on,
Seems but the fad effect of years:
Kindness itself too weak a charm will prove,
To raise the seeble fires of aged love.

V.

Forc'd compliments, and formal bows
Will shew thee just above neglect:
The heat with which thy lover glows,
Will settle into cold respect:
A talking dull Platonic I shall turn;
Learn to be civil, when I cease to burn.

VI.

Then shun the ill, and know, my dear,
Kindness and constancy will prove
The only pillar sit to bear
So vast a weight, as that of love.

If thow canst wish to make my stames endure,
Thine must be very sierce, and very pure.

WIL

Haste, Celia, haste, while youth invites,
Obey kind Cupid's present voice;
Fill ev'ry sense with soft delights,
And give thy soul a loose to joys:

Let millions of repeated bliffes prove, That thou all kindness art, and I all love.

state of VIII signs on the first Street Late

Be mine, and only mine; take care Thy looks, thy thoughts, thy dreams to guide To me alone: nor come so far, As liking any youth belide: What men e'er court thee, fly 'em, and believe They're serpents all, and thou the tempted Eve. IX. and sort bar cut

So shall I court thy dearest truth. When beauty ceases to engage; So thinking on thy charming youth, I'll love it o'er again in age; So Time itself our raptures shall improve, While still we wake to joy and live to love.

An EPISTLE to FLEETWOOD SHEPHARD, Efgi Burleigh, May 14, 1689.

or much a lakest oot halu

Porc'd corollarents, and formal bows

SIR.

Tell frew three full above nor left : S once a twelvemonth to the prieft, wall of T Holy at Rome, here antichrift. The Spanish king presents a Jennet, To shew his love; That's all that's in it: For if his Holiness would thump His reverend bum 'gainst horse's rump, He might b'equipt from his own stable With one more white, and eke more able.

Or as with Gondola's and men, his Good excellence the Duke of Venice (I wish for rhime, t'had been the king) Sails out, and gives the gulph a ring; Which trick of state, he wifely maintains, Keeps kindness up 'twixt old acquaintance: For elfe, in hopest truth, the sea, Has much less need of gold, than he. And are needed about a both on

Or, not to rove, and pump one's fancy
For Popish similies beyond sea;
As folks from mud-wall'd tenement
Bring landlords pepper-corn for rent;
Present a turkey, or a hen
To those might better spare them ten:
Ev'n so, with all submission, I
(For first men instance, then apply)
Send you each year a homely letter,
Who may return me much a better.

Then take it, Sir, as it was writ,
To pay respect, and not show wit:
Nor look askew at what it faith;
There's no petition in it,——'faith:
Here some would scratch their heads, and try
What they should write, and how, and why;
But I conceive, such folks are quite in Mistakes, in theory of writing.
If once for principle 'tis laid,
That thought is trouble to the head;
I argue thus: the world agrees,
That he writes well, who writes with ease:
Then he, by sequel logical,
Writes best, who never thinks at all.

Verse comes from heav'n, like inward light; .

Mere human pains can ne'er come by't;

The god, not we, the poem makes;

We only tell folks what he speaks.

Hence, when anatomists discourse,

How like brutes organs are to ours;

They grant, if higher powers think sit,

A bear might soon be made a wit,

And that, for any thing in nature,

Pigs might squeak love-odes, dogs bark satyr.

Memnon, tho' stone, was counted vocal;
But 'twas the god, mean while, that spoke all.
Rome oft has heard a cross haranguing;
With prompting priest behind the hanging;
The wooden head resolv'd the question;
While you and Pettis help'd the jest on.

C 3

Your crabbed rogues that read Lucretius,
Are against gods, you know; and teach us,
The god makes not the poet; but
The thesis, Vice-versa put,
Should Hebrew-wise be understood;
And means, the poet makes the god.
Ægyptian gard'ners thus are faid to Have set the leeks they after pray'd to;
And Romish bakers praise the deity
They chipp'd, while yet in its paniety.

That when you poets fwear and cry,
The god inspires; I rave, I die;
If inward wind does truly fwell ye,
'T must be the cholick in your belly:
That writing is but just like dice;
And lucky mains make people wise:
That jumbled words, if fortune throw cm,
Shall, well as Dryden, form a poem;
Or make a speech, correct and witty,
As yow know who—at the committee.

So atoms dancing round the center, They urge, made all things at a venture.

But granting matters shou'd be spoke A tribe about By method, rather than by luck; This may confine their younger stiles, Whom Dryden pedagogues at Wilks: But never cou'd be meant to tye Authentic wits, like you and I : All alle glad and For as young children, who are try'd in Go-carts, to keep their steps from fliding; When members knit, and legs grow ftronger, Make use of such machine no longer; But leap Prolibitu, and fcout On horse call'd hobby, or without: So when at school we first declaim. Old Busbey walks us in a theme, Whose props support our infant vein, And help the rickets in the brain: But when our fouls their force dilate, And thoughts grow up to wit's effate:

In verse or prose, we write or chat,

Tis not how well an author fays;
But 'tis how much, that gathers praife.
Tonson, who is himself a wit,
Counts writers merits by the sheet.
Thus each should down with all he thinks,
As boys eat bread, to fill up chinks.

Kind Sir, I should be glad to see you;
I hope y'are well; so God be wi' you;
Was all I thought at first to write:
But things since then, are alter'd quite;
Fancies flow in, and muse sies high:
So God knows when my clack will lye:
I must, Sir, prattle on, as afore.

And beg your pardon yet this half hour.

So at pure barn of loud Non-con. Where with my granam I have gone, When Lobb had fifted all his text. And I well hop'd the pudding next: Now to apply, has plagu'd me more, Than all his villain cant before. For your religion, first, of her Your friends do fav'ry things aver: TERES AUGUST TO They fay, she's honest, as your diaret. lowis list and Not fowr'd with cant, nor flum'd with merit: Your chamber is the fole retreat Of chaplains ev'ry Sunday night: Of grace, no doubt, a certain fign, When lay-man herds with man divine: For if their fame be justly great, Who would no Popilh nuncio treat; That his is greater, we must grant, Who will treat nuncio's protestant. One fingle positive weighs more,

You know than negatives a fcore.

In politics, I hear, you're ftanch,
Directly bent against the French;
Deny to have your free-born toe
Dragoon'd into a wooden shoe:

north ad or brooks

Are in no plots; but fairly drive at
The public welfare, in your private:
And will, for England's glory try
Turks, Jews, and Jesuits to defy,
And keep your places 'till you die.

For me, whom wandring fortune threw From what I lov'd, the town and you:

Let me just tell you how my time is Past in a country life.—Imprimis,

As soon as Phœbus' rays inspect us.

First, Sir, I read, and then I breakfast;

So on, 'till foresaid god does set I sometimes study, sometimes eat.

Thus, of your heroes, and brave boys,

With whom old Homer makes such noise,

The greatest actions I can find.

Are, that they did their work, and din'd.

The books of which I'm chiefly fond,
Are such as you have whilom con'd;
That treat of China's civil law,
And subject's right in Golconda;
Of high way-elephants at Ceylan,
That rob in clans, like men o' th' Highland;
Of apes that storm, or keep a town,
As well almost as Count Lauzun;
Of unicorns and alligators,
Elks, mermaids, mummies, witches, satyrs,
And twenty other stranger matters;
Which, tho' they're things I've no concern in,
Make all our grooms admire my learning.

Critics I read on other men,
And hypers upon them again;
From whose remarks I give opinion.
On twenty books, yet ne'er look in one,

Then all your wits that flear and sham, Down from Don Quixot to Tom Tram; From whom I jests and puns purloin, And slily put 'em off for mine: Fond to be thought a country wit: The rest,—when fate and you think sit,

Sometimes

Sometimes I climb my mare, and kick her
To bottl'd ale, and neighbouring vicar;
Sometimes at Stamford take a quart,
Squire Shephard's health,——With all my heart,

Thus, without much delight, or grief,
I fool away an idle life;
'Till Shadwell from the town retires,
(Choak'd up with fame and fea-coal fires,)
To blefs the wood with peaceful lyric;
Then hey for praife and panegyric;
Justice restor'd, and nations freed,
And wreaths round William's glorious head.

To the Countess of DORSET. Written in ber MIL-TON By Mr. BRADBURY.

SEE here how bright the first-born virgin Shone,
And how the first fond lover was undone.
Such charming words, our beauteous mother spoke,
As Milton wrote, and such as yours her look.
Yours, the best copy of th' original face,
Whose beauty was to furnish all the race:
Such chains no author could escape but he;
There's no way to be safe, but not to see.

To the Lady DURSLEY, on the same Subject.

ERE reading how fond Adam was betray'd,
And how by fin Eve's blafted charms decay'd;
Our common lofs unjustly you complain;
So fmall that part of it, which you fustain.

You still, fair mother, in your ofspring trace The stock of beauty destin'd for the race: Kind nature, forming them, the pattern took From heav'n's first work, and Eve's original look.

You, happy faint, the ferpent's pow'r controul: Scarce any actual guile defiles your foul:

And

And hell does o'er that mind vain triumph boaft, Which gains a heav'n, for earthly Eden loft.

With virtue strong as yours had Eve been arm'd,
In vain the fruit had blush'd or serpent charm'd;
Nor had our bliss by penisence been bought;
Nor had frail Adam fall'n, nor Milton wrote.

To my Lord BUCKHURST, very young, playing with a Gat.

THE am'rous youth whose tender breast
Was by his darling cat possess,
Obtain'd of Venus his desire,
Howe'er irregular his fire:
Nature the pow'r of love obey'd:
The cat became a blushing maid;
And, on the happy change, the boy
Imploy'd his wonder, and his jay.

Take care, O beauteous child, take care,
Left thou prefer to raft a pray'r:
Nor vainly hope, the quien of leve
Will e'er thy fav'rite's charms improve.
O quickly from her firms settest;
Or tremble for thy dasling's fate.
The queen of love, who foon will fee

The queen of love, who foon will fee

Her own Adonis live in thee,

Will lightly her first loss deplore;

Will easily forgive the boar:

Her eyes with tears no more will flow;

With jealous rage her breast will glow:

And on her tabby sival's face

She deep will mark her new differace.

The tiers of peanty dellied for the ever

For, happy fine, the herpent's pow'r centrool: Scores are a wast guile defice, your load:

Wist nature, surming incut, the parties cool -

A Nie 9 E.E. ben every bestell to the compact of the same of the Ciculoda costor mascos a

HILE from our looks, fair nymph, you guess The fecret passions of our mind: My heavy eyes, you fay, confess, A heart to love and grief inclin'd. of id in the second file of the left of th

There needs, alas! but little art, To have this fatal fecret found: With the same ease you threw the dart, 'Tis certain you may show the wound.

His aries to be pity, others alline

How can I fee you, and not love; While you as opining cast are fair? While cold as northren blaffs you prove; How can I love and not despair?

The wretch in double fetters bound Your potent mercy may release : and how have Soon, if my love but once were crownid, and bisha add Fair prophetels, my grief would ceafe. the field the much to know the

A SONG.

N vain you tell your parting lover, You wish fair winds may waft him over. Alas! what winds can happy prove, That bear me far from what I love? Alas! what dangers on the main Can equal those that I sustain, and air town I and aft From flighted vows, and cold difdain? Be gentle, and in pity choose To wish the wildest tempests loofe, That thrown again upon the coast, Where first my shipwreckt heart was lost,

I may once more repeat my pain; Once more in dying notes complain Of flighted vows and cold difdain.

The DESPAIRING SHEPHERD.

LEXIS shun'd his fellow-swains, Their rural fports, and jocund strains: (Heav'n guard us all from Cupid's bow!) He loft his crook, he left his flocks; e intended and i And wand'ring thro' the lonely rocks, He nourish'd endless woe.

The nymphs and shepherds round him came: His grief some pity, others blame: The fatal cause all kindly seek. He mingled his concern with theirs; He gave 'em back their friendly tears; He figh'd, but would not speak.

Clorinda came among the rest; And the too kind concern exprest, And ask'd the reason of his woe: She ask'd, but with an air and mein, That made it eafily forefeen, She fear'd too much to know.

The Shepherd rais'd his mournful head; And will you pardon me, he faid, While I the cruel truth reveal? Which nothing from my breaft should tear; Which never shou'd offend your ear, But that you bid me tell, it was and is a serie and in the Mary was descers on the state

'Tis thus I rove, 'tis thus complain, Since you appear'd upon the plain; You are the cause of all my care: Your eyes ten thousand dangers dart; that an each nings award Ten day may freely been was list

Ten thousand torments vex my heart: of some self on self I love, and I despair desire on the purchase !

Too much, Alexis, I have heard: 'Tis what I thought; 'tis what I fear'd: And yet, I pardon you, fhe cry'd: But you shall promise ne'er again To breathe your vows, or speak your pain: He bow'd, obey'd, and dy'd.

To the Honourable CHARLES MONTAGUE, (Shel oc) balk SW

OWE'ER, 'tis well, that while mankind Thro' fate's perverse Mæander errs, He can imagin'd pleasures find, To combate against real cares. d bes b'ou no 3

II.

Fancies and notions he purfues, Which ne'er had being but in thought: Each like the Grecian artiff, woo's The image he himself has wrought. Which all I

We weath'd flood Again experience he believes; He argues against demonstration Pleas'd, when his reason he deceives: And fets his judgment by his passion,

The hoary fool, who many days Has struggl'd with continu'd forrow. Renews his hope, and blindly lays The desp'rate bett upon to-morrow.

I G H To of the world. Vanua unlet et the vest

To-morrow comes; 'tis noon, 'tis night; This day like all the former flees: Through every differt climate own,

VOL. I.

Yet on he runs to feek delight

To-morrow, 'till to-night he dies:

VI.

Our hopes, like tow'ring falcons, aim
At objects in an airy height:
The little pleasure of the game
Is from afar to view the flight.

VII.

To breakle assure

Our anxious pains we, all the day, In fearch of what we like, employ; Scorning at night the worthless prey, We find the labour gave the joy.

VIII.

At distance thro' an artful glass

To the mind's eye things well appear:

They lose their forms, and make a mais

Confus'd and black, if brought too near.

IX.

If we see right, we see our woes:

Then what avails it to have eyes?

From ignorance our comfort flows;

The only wretched are the wife.

lane month sell eftential x.

We weary'd should lie down in death:

This cheat of life would take no more;

If you thought same but empty breath;

I, Phillis but a perjur'd whore.

HYMN to the SUN. Set by Dr. Purcet, and fung before their Majestins on New-years-day, 1694.

The delprise beington of I

I GHT of the world, thou ruler of the year,
With happy speed begin thy great career;
And, as thou dost thy radiant journies run,
Through every distant climate own,
That

That in fair Albion thou half seen
The greatest Prince, the brightest Queen,
That ever sav'd a land, or blest a throne,
Since first thy beams were spread, or genial power was known.

II.

So may the godhead be confest,
So the returning year be blest,
As his infant months bestow
Springing wreaths for William's brow;
As his summer's youth shall shed
Eternal sweets around Maria's head.
From the blessings they bestow,
Our times are dated, and our aera's move:
They govern, and enlighten all below,
As thou dost all above.

114

Let our hero in the war
Active and fierce, like thee, appear:
Like thee, great fon of Jove, like thee
When clad in rifing majesty,
Thou marchest down o'er Delos' hills confest,
With all thy arrows arm'd, in all thy glory drest.
Like thee, the hero does his arms employ,

The raging Python to destroy, And give the injur'd nations peace and joy.

IV

From fairest years, and time's more happy stores,
Gather all the smiling hours;
Such as with friendly care have guarded
Patriots and kings in rightful wars;
Such as with conquest have rewarded
Triumphant victors happy cares;
Such as story has recorded
Sacred to Nassau's long renown;
For countries sav'd, and battles won

r and find the war and find a red T

March them again in fair array,
And bid them form the happy day,
The happy day design'd to wait
On William's fame, and Europe's fate.

Let the happy day be crown'd
With great event, and fair fuccess;
No brighter in the year be found,
But that which brings the victor home in peace.

Series of the VI. Harman galerines.

Again thy godhead we implore,
Great in wisdom as in power;
Again, for good Maria's sake, and ours,
Choose our other smiling hours;
Such as with joyous wings have sled,
When happy counsels were advising;
Such as have lucky omens shed
O'er forming laws and empires rising;
Such as many coursers ran,
Hand in hand, a goodly train,
To bless the great Eliza's reign;
And in the typic glory show,
What suller bliss Maria shall bestow.

VII. ob prod bis solf said

As the folemn hours advance,
Mingled fend into the dance
Many fraught with all the treasures,
Which thy eastern travel views;
Many wing'd with all the pleasures,
Man can ask, or heav'n diffuse:
That great Maria all those joys may know,
Which, from her cares, upon her subjects flow.

i appende VIII. To be a series in a

For thy own glory fing our fov'reign's praife,
God of verses and of days:
Let all thy tuneful sons adorn
Their lasting works with William's name;
Let chosen muses yet unborn

Take great Maria for their future theme:

Eternal structures let them raise,
On William and Maria's praise:
Nor want new subect for the song;
Nor fear they can exhaust the store;
'Till nature's music lies unstrung;
'Till thou great God, shalt lose thy double pow'r;
And touch thy lyre, and shoot thy beams no more.

The LADY'S LOOKING-GLASS.

Walk'd o'er the fand hills to the fea:
The fetting fun adorn'd the coast,
His beams intire, his fierceness lost:
And, on the furface of the deep,
The winds lay only not asteep:
The nymph did like the scene appear,
Serenely pleasant, calmly fair:
Soft fell her words, as slew the air.
With secret joy I heard her say,
That she would never miss one day
A walk so fine, a sight so gay.

But, oh the change! the winds grow high: Impending tempests charge the sky; The lightning slies, the thunder roars; And big waves lash the frightn'd shoars. Struck with the horror of the sight She turns her head, and wings her slight; And trembling vows, she'll ne'er again Approach the shoar, or view the main.

Once more at least look back. said I,
Thyself in that large glass descry:
When thou art in good humour drest
When gentle reason rules thy breast;
The sun upon the calmest fea
Appears not half so bright as thee:
'Tis then that with delight I rove
Upon the boundless depth of love:

D 3

I bless my chain; I hand my oar; Nor think on all I left on shoar.

But when vain doubt, and groundless fear
Do that dear foolish bosom tear;
When the big lip and wat'ry eye
Tell me, the rising storm is nigh:
'Tis then, thou art yon' angry main,
Deform'd by winds and dash'd by rain;
And the poor sailor that must try
Its fury, labours less than I.

Shipwreck'd, in vain to land I make;
While love and fate still drive me back:
Forc'd to doat on thee thy own way,
I chide thee first, and then obey.
Wretched when from thee, vex'd when nigh,

I with thee, or without thee, die.

LOVE and FRIENDSHIP: a PASTORAL.

By Mrs. ELIZABETH SINGER.

AMARYLIS.

WHILE from the skies the ruddy sun descends:
And rising night the evening shade extends;
While pearly dews o'erspread the fruitful field;
And closing slowers reviving odours yield:
Let us, beneath these spreading trees, recite
What from our hearts, our muses may indite.
Nor need we, in this close retirement, fear,
Lest any swain our am'rous secrets hear.

SILVIA.

To ev'ry shepherd I would mine proclaim; Since fair Aminta is my fostest theme: A stranger to the loose delights of love, My thoughts the nubler warmth of friendship prove: And, while its pure and facred fire I fing, Chaste goddess of the groves, thy succour bring.

AMARYLLIS.

Propitious god of love, my breaft inspire
With all thy charms, with all thy pleasing fire:
Propitious god of love, thy succour bring;
Whilst I thy darling, thy Alexis sing,
Alexis, as the opining blossoms fair,
Lovely as light, and soft as yielding air.
For him each virgin sighs: and on the plains
The happy youth above each rival reigns.
Nor to the echoing groves, and whispiring spring,
In sweeter strains does artful Conon sing;
When loud applauses fill the clouded groves;
And Phoebus the superior song approves.

SILVIA.

Beauteous Aminta is as early light,
Breaking the melancholy shades of night.
When she is near, all anxious trouble slies;
And our reviving hearts confess her eyes.
Young love, and blooming joy, and gay desires,
In ev'ry breast the beauteous nymph inspires;
And on the plain when she no more appears;
The plain a dark and gloomy prospect wears
In vain the streams roll on: the eastern breeze
Dances in vain among the trembling trees.
In vain the birds begin their ev'ning song,
And to the silent night their notes prolong:
Nor groves nor crystal streams, nor verdant field
Does wonted pleasure in her absence yield.

AMARYLLIS.

And in his absence, all the pensive day,
In some obscure retreat I lonely stray;
All day to the repeating caves complain
In mournful accents, and a dying strain.
Dear lovely youth, I cry to all around;
Dear lovely youth, the flattering vales resound.

SILVIA

On flow'ry banks, by ev'ry murm'ring stream, Aminta is my muse's softest theme: 'Tis she that does my artful notes refine : With fair Aminta's name my noblest verse shall shine

AMARYLLIS.

I'll twine fresh garlands for Alexis' brows, And consecrate to him eternal vows: The charming youth shall my Apollo prove: He shall adorn my songs, and tune my voice to love.

To the Author of the foregoing PASTORAL.

By Silvia if thy charming felf be meant;
If friendship be thy virgin vows extent;
O! let me in Aminta's praises join:
Her's my esteem shall be, my passion thine.
When for thy head the garland I prepare;
A second wreath shall bind Aminta's hair;
And when my choicest songs thy worth proclaim,
Alternate verse shall bless Aminta's name:
My heart shall own the justice of her cause:
And love himself submit to friendship's laws.

But, if beneath thy numbers foft disguise,
Some favour'd swain, some true Alexis lies;
If Amaryllis breathes thy secret pains;
And thy fond heart beates measures to thy strains:
May'st thou, howe'er I grieve, for ever find
The slame propitious, and the lover kind:
May Venus long exert her happy pow'r,
And make thy beauty, like thy verse, endure:
May ev'ry god his friendly aid afford;
Pan guard thy slock, and Geres bless thy board.

But, if by chance the series of thy joys
Permit one thought less chearful to arise;
Piteous transfer it to the mournful swain,
Who loving much, who not belov'd again,
Feels an ill-fated passion's last excess;
And dies in woe, that thou may'st live in peace.

mand the liber of the first as all the

To LADY: she refusing to continue a dispute with me, and leaving me in the argument.

ANODE.

scieles Cornario de la ma CPARE, gen'rous victor, spare the flave, Who did unequal war purfue; That more than triumph he might have, In being overcome by you,

In the dispute whate'er I said, My heart was by my tongue bely'd; And in my looks you might have read, How much I argu'd on your fide.

You, far from danger as from fear, Might have fustain'd an open fight: For feldom your opinions err; Your eyes are always in the right, Deany reciped has shears our he had

Why fair one, wou'd you not rely On reason's force with beauty's join'd? Cou'd I their prevalence deny, I must at once be deaf and blind.

al sat stay grad V. sid

Alas! not hoping to fubdue, I only to the fight afpir'd: To keep the beauteous foe in view, Was all the glory I defir'd,

But she, howe'er of vict'ry sure, Contemns the wreath too long delay'd: 1802 at 1852 And, arm'd with more immediate pow'r, Calls cruel filence to her aid.

15

VII.

Deeper to wound, the thuns the fight: She drops her arms, to gain the field: Secures her conquest by her flight; And triumphs, when the feems to yield.

VIII.

So when the Parthian turn'd his steed, And from the hostile camp withdrew; With cruel skill the backward reed He fent; and as he fled, he flew,

Seeing the Duke of ORMOND's Picture at Sir GODFREY KNELLER's.

Our from the injur'd canvas, Kneller, strike.

These lines too faint: the picture is not like. Exalt thy thought, and try thy toil again: Dreadful in arms, on Landen's glorious plain Place Ormond's Duke: impendent in the air Let his keen fabre, comet-like, appear, Where-e'er it points, denouncing death: below Draw routed squadrons, and the num'rous foe Falling beneath, or flying from his blow: 'Till weak with wounds, and cover'd o'er with blood, Which from the patriot's breaft in torrents flow'd, He faints: his steed no longer bears the rein; But stumbles o'er the heap, his hand had flain. And now exhausted, bleeding, pale he lies; Lovely, fad object! in his half-clos'd eyes Stern vengeance yet, and hosfile terror stand: His front yet threatens; and his frowns command, The Gallick chiefs their troops around him call; Fear to approach him, tho' they fee him fall. O Kneller, could thy shades and lights express The perfect hero in that glorious drefs; Ages to come might Ormand's picture know: And palms for thee beneath his laurels grow: ni -Calla cresi stence to her In spite of time thy work might ever shine: Nor Homer's colours last so long as thine.

CELIA to DAMON.

Atque in amore mala has proprio, fummeque fecundo Inveniuntur—— Lucret, Lib. 4.

WHAT can I fay, what arguments can prove
My truth, what colours can deferibe my love;
If its excels and fury be not known,
In what thy Celia has already done?

Thy infant flames, whilft yet they were conceal'd In tim'rous doubts, with pity I beheld; With eafy finites dispell'd the filent fear, That durft not tell me, what I dy'd to hear: In vain I strove to check my growing flame; Or factor passion under friendship's name: You saw my heart, how it my tongue bely'd; And when you press'd, how faintly I deny'd—

Ere guardian thought cou'd bring its featter'd aid;
Ere reason could support the doubting maid;
My soul support the doubting maid;
My soul support the doubting maid;
Left all reserve, and all the sex behind:
From your command her motions she receiv'd:
And not for me, but you, the breath'd and liv'd.

But ever bleft be Cytherea's fhine;
And fires eternal on her altars fhine;
Since thy dear breaft has felt an equal wound;
Since in thy kindness my defires are crown'd.
By thy each look, and thought, and care, 'tis shown,
Thy joys are center'd all in me alone;
And sure I am, thou wouldst not change this hour
For all the white ones, fate has in its pow'r.——

Yet thus belov'd, thus loving to excess, Yet thus receiving and returning blifs, In this great moment, in this golden now, When ey'ry trace of what, or when, or how,

Shou'd

Shou'd from my foul by raging love be torn;
And far on fwelling feas of rapture born;
A melancholy tear afflicts my eye;
And my heart labours with a fudden figh:
Invading fears repel my coward joy;
And ills foreseen the present bliss destroy.

Poor as it is, this beauty was the cause,
That with first sighs your panting bosom rose:
But with no owner beauty long will stay,
Upon the wings of time born swift away:
Pass but some fleeting years and these poor eyes
(Where now without a boast some lustre lyes)
No longer shall their little honours keep;
Shall only be of use to read or weep;
And on this forehead, where your verse has said,
The Loves delighted, and the Graces play'd;
Insulting age will trace his cruel way,
And leave sad marks of his destructive sway.

Mov'd by my charms, with them your love may cease.

And as the fuel sinks, the slame decrease:

Or angry heav'n may quicker darts prepare;

And sickness strike what time a while wou'd spare.

Then will my swain his glowing vows renew?

Then will his throbbing heart to mine be true?

When my own face deters me from my glass;

And Kneller only shews what Celia was.

Fantastic Fame may sound her wild alarms.
Your country, as you think, may want your arms.
You may neglect, or quench, or hate the slame,
Whose smoke too long obscur'd your rising name?
And quickly cold indiff'rence will ensue;
When you love's joys thro' honour's optic view.

Then Celia's loudest pray'r will prove too weak,
To this abandon'd breast to bring you back;
When my lost lover the tall ship alcends,
With musick gay, and met with jovial friends;
The tender accent of a womans cry
Will pass unheard, will unregarded die;

When

When the rough feaman's louder shouts prevail;
When fair occasion shews the springing gale; [fail.]
And int'rest guides the helm; and honour swells the

Some wretched lines from this neglected hand,
May find my hero on the foreign strand,
Warm with new fires, and pleas'd with new command:
While she who wrote 'em, of all joy bereft,
To the rude censure of the world is left;
Her mangl'd fame in barb'rous pastime lost,
The coxcomb's novel, and the drunkard's toast.

But nearer care (O pardon it!) fupplies Sighs to my breaft, and forrow to my eyes. Love, love himself (the only friend I have) May forn his triumph, having bound his flave. That tyrant god, that restless conqueror May quit his pleasure, to affert his pow'r; Forfake the provinces that bless his fway, To vanquish those that will not yet obey. Another nymph with fatal pow'r may rife. To damp the finking beams of Celia's eyes: With haughty pride may hear her charms confest: And forn the ardent vows that I have bleft: You ev'ry night may figh for her in vain; And rife each morning to some fresh disdain: While Celia's foftest look may cease to charm: And her embraces want the pow'r to warm: While these fond arms, thus circling you, may prove More heavy chains, than those of hopeless love.

Just gods! all other things their like produces.
The vine arises from her mother's juice:
When seeble plants or tender flow'rs decay;
They to their seed their images convey:
Where the old myrtle her good influence sheds;
Springs of like leaf erect their filial heads:
And when the parent rose decays, and dies;
With a resembling face the daughter-buds arise.
That product only which our passions bear,
Eludes the planter's miserable care:

E

While blooming love affures us golden fruit; Some inborn poison taints the secret root: Soon fall the flow'rs of joy; foon feeds of hatred shoot.

Say, shepherd, fay, are these reflections true? Or was it but the woman's fear, that drew This cruel scene, unjust to love and you? Will you be only, and for ever mine? Shall neither time, nor age our fouls disjoin? From this dear bosom shall I ne'er be torn? Or you grow cold, respectful, or forsworn? And can you not for her you love do more, Than any youth for any nymph before?

ANODE

Presented to the KING, on his Majesty's arrival in HOLLAND after the QUEEN's death. 1695.

Quis defiderio sit pudor aut modus Tam cari capitis? pracipe lugubres Cantus Melpomene.

T Mary's tomb, (fad, facred place!) The virtues shall their vigils keep: And every muse and every grace In folemn state shall ever weep.

sephery manafalt and I condra de-

The future, pious, mournful fair, Oft as the rolling years return, With fragrant wreaths, and flowing hair, Shall vifit her diffinguish'd urn. springs of like teat tredition while the strends was

For her the wife and great shall mourn; What late records her deeds repeat, Ages to come, and men unborn Shall bless her name, and sigh her fate.

IV.

Fair Albion shall, with faithful trust,

Her holy Queen's sad reliques guard;

'Till heav'n awakes the precious dust,

and gives the saint her full reward.

V.

But let the king dismiss his woes,

Reflecting on her fair renown;

And take the cypress from his brows,

To put his wonted laurels on.

VI.

If prest by grief our monarch stoops;
In vain the British lions roar;
If he, whose hand sustain'd them droops;
The Belgic darts will wound no more.

VI

Embattel'd princes wait the chief,

Whose voice thou'd rule, whose arm shou'd lead;

And, in kind murmurs, chide that grief,

Which hinders Europe being freed.

VIII.

The great example they demand,
Who still to conquest led the way;
Wishing him present to command,
As they stand ready to obey

IX.

They seek that joy, which us'd to glow !

Expanded on the hero's face;

When the thick squadrons press the soc.

And William led the glorious chace.

X.

To give the mourning nations joy.

Restore them thy auspicious light.

Great sun with radiant beams destroy

Those clouds, which keep thee from our light.

XI. Let

XI.

For Mary's feting rays atone:
Our lustre with redoubl'd force,
Must now proceed from thee alone:

XII.

See, pious king. with diff'rent strife

Thy struggling Albion's bosom torn:

So much she fears for William's life,

That Mary's fate she dare not mourn.

XHI.

Burry'd and loft, the ought to grieve:

But let her strength in thee be safe:

And let her weep; but let her live,

XIV.

From thy own grief, her fiercest foe:

Lest Britain, rescu'd by thy hand,

Should bend and fink beneath thy woe.

XV

Mer former triumphs all are vain
Unless new trophies still be sought;
And hoary majesty sustain
The battels, which the youth has sought.

XVI.

Where now is all that fearful love,
Which made her hate the war's alarms?
That foft excess, with which she strove to keep her hero in her arms!

XVII.

While still she chid the coming spring, which call'd him o'er his subject seas and are still while, for the safety of the king, state of the king,

Tis XVIII.

XVIII.

'Tis chang'd; 'tis gone: fad Britain now
Haftens her lord to foreign wars;
Happy, if toils may break his woe;
Or dangers may divert his cares.

XIX.

In martial din she drowns her sighs,

Lest he the rising grief shou'd hear?

She pulls her helmet o'er her eyes,

Lest he should see the falling tear.

XX.

Go, mighty prince, let France be taught,

How constant minds by grief are try'd;

How great the land, that wept and fought,

When William led, and Mary dy'd.

XXI.

Fierce in the battle make it known,

Where death with all his darts is feen,

That he can touch thy heart with none,

But that which struck the beauteous queen.

XXII.

Belgia indulg'd her open grief,
While yet her master was not near;
With sullen pride refus'd relief,
And sat obdurate in despair.

XXIII.

As waters from her strices, flow'd

Unbounded forrow from her eyes:

To earth her bended front she bow'd,

And sent her wailings to the skies.

XXIV.

But when her anxious lord return'd;
Rais'd is her head; her eyes are dry'de
She smiles, as William ne'er had mourn'd:
She looks as Mary ne'er had dy'd.

O

Π.

E 3

That

XXV.

That freedom which all forrows claim,

She does for thy content refign:

Her piety itself would blame;

If her regrets should waken thine.

XXVI.

To cure thy woe, she shews thy fame:

Lest the great mourner should forget,

That all the race, whence Orange came,

Made virtue triumph over fate.

XXVII.

William his country's cause cou'd fight,
And with his blood her freedom seal:
Maurice and Henry guard that right,
For which their pious parents fell.

XXVIII.

How heroes rife, how patriots fet,

Thy father's bloom and death may tell:

Excelling others these were great:

Thou, greater still must these excell.

XXIX.

The last fair instance thou must give,
Whence Nassau's virtue can be try'd;
And shew the world, that thou canst live
Intrepid, as thy confort dy'd.

Thy virtue, whose resistless force
No dire event could ever stay,
Must carry on its destin'd course;
Tho' death and envy stop the way.

XXXI.

For Britian's fake, for Belgia's, live:

Pierc'd by their grief forget thy own:

New toils endure; new conquest give;

And bring them ease, tho' thou hast none.

Vanquish

XXXII.

Vanquish again; tho' she be gone,
Whose garland crown'd the victor's hair;
And reign; tho she has left the throne,
Who made thy glory worth thy care.

XXXIII.

Fair Britian never yet before
Breath'd to her king a useless pray'r;
Fond Belgia never did implore,
While William turn'd averse his car.

XXXIV.

But should the weeping hero now
Relentless to their wishes prove;
Should he recal, with pleasing woe,
The object of his grief and love;

XXXV.

Her face with thousand beauties blest,
Her mind with thousand virtues stor'd,
Her pow'r with boundless joy confest,
Her person only not ador'd:

XXXVI.

Yet ought this forrow to be checkt; Yet ought his passions to abate; If the great mourner would reslect, Her glory in her death compleat

XXXVII.

She was instructed to command,
Great king, by long obeying thee:
Her scepter guided by thy hand,
Preserv'd the isles, and rul'd the sea.

XXXVIII.

But oh! 'twas little, that her life
O'er earth and water bears thy fame
In death, 'twas worthy William's wife,
Amidst the stars to fix his name.

XXXIX.

Beyond where matter moves, or place Receives its forms, thy virtues roll: From Mary's glory, angels trace The beauty of her partner's foul.

XL.

Wife fate, which does in heaven decree
The heroes, when they yield their breath.
Haftens thy triumph. half of thee
Is deify'd before thy death.

XLL.

Alone to thy renown 'fis giv'n,

Uubounded thro' all worlds to go :

While she great faint rejoices heav'n;

Aud thou sustain's the orb below.

IMITATION of ANACREON.

The herd of criticks I defy.

Let the wretches know, I write

Regardless of their grace, or spite,

No, no: the fair, the gay, the young

Govern the numbers of my song.

All that they approve is sweet:

And all is sense, that they repeat.

Bid the warbling nine retire:

Venus string thy servant's lyre:

Love shall be my endless theme:

Pleasure shall triumph o'er fame:

And when these maxims I decline,

Apollo, may thy fate be mine:

May I grasp at empty praise;

And lose the nymph, to gain the bays

Mary S.

ANODE

Bur la brile de Namena our les comer HE merchant, to secure his treasure, Conveys it in a borrow'd name: Euphelia ferves to grace my measure; But Cloe is my real flame.

My foftest verse, my darling lyre Upon Euphelia's toilet lay ; ist and tradoin A That I should fing, that I should play- and so-lin if

III. s nicht wie ermiert Chumora A

My lyre I tune, my voice I raife; But with my numbers mix my fight; And whilft I fing Euphelia's praife,

I fix my foul on Cloe's eyes. le vais parlet du Ludie.

Sting, d mn fidele leiten i genen ihren eine beiten Si, dans Pardeur qui ca malaire, . Il vi vi vi un Tu peux fuivie mes unal fage; Leet chemes de morasile. (hesce) - se principal

Fair Cloe blush'd: Euphelia frown'd: I fung and gaz'd : I play'd and trembl'd ; add and trembl'd ; And Venus to the Loves around Remark'd, how ill we all diffembl'd. The second of th

beard G

N'out rien oui, true ne chace, La doucene de un accorda

11-ce / polica et biegtinat. Qui sur ces rece some illeux One, compagons, designed to Balti dis more oquedillant?

O D E.

Sur la prise de Namun; par les armes du Roy.

Par Monfieur Boyleav Desparavx.

L

OUELLE docte et fainse yvresse

Aujourd'huy me fais la loy?

Chastes nymphes du Permesse, and beson sell mod W
N'est-ce pas vous que je voy?

Accourez, troupe sçavante: II

De sons que ma lyre ensante;

Ces arbres sont réjoins:

Marquez en bien la cadence s

Et vous, vents, faites silence;

Je vais parler de Louis.

Foir Clos black'd : Euphelis Cown'd :-

Dans ses chanson immortelles, and I is by the good I.

Comme un aigle audacieux, and a service point I.

Pindare étendant ses aisles, and a service point I.

Puit loin des vulgaires yeux.

Mais, ò ma sidele lyre,

Si, dans l'ardeur qui m'inspire,

Tu peux suivre mes transports;

Les chesnes de monts de Thrace

N'ont rien oiii, que ne'efface.

La douceur de tes accords.

III.

Est-ce Apollon et Neptune, Qui sur ces rocs sourcilleux Ont, compagons de fortune, Basti ces murs orgueilleux? De leur enceinte sameuse La Sambre unie a la Meuse,

AN ENGLISH BALLAD,

physical of brokers

On the taking of NAMUR by the King of GREAT BRITAIN, 1695.

Dulce est desipere in loco.

I. and II.

So might not Bacchus give you law?
Was it a muse, O lofty poet,
Or virgin of St. Cyr, you saw?
Why all this fury? what's the matter,
That oaks must come from Thrace to dance?
Must stupid stocks be taught to flatter?
And is there no such wood in France?
Why must the winds all hold their tongue?
If they a little breath should raise;
Would that have spoil'd the poet's song;
Or puff'd away the monarch's praise?

Pindar, that eagle, mounts the skies:

While virtue leads the noble way:

Too like a vultur Boileau slies,

Where fordid int'rest shews the prey.

When once the poet's honour ceases,

From reason far his transports rove:

And Boileau, for eight hundred pieces,

Makes Louis take the wall of Jove.

HII.

Neptune and Sol came from above,
Shap'd like Megrigny and Vauban:
They armed these rocks; then show'd old Jove
Of Marli wood, the wood'rous plan.
Such walls, these three wise gods agreed,
By human force could ne'er be shaken;
But you and I in Homer read
Of gods, as well as men, mistaken.

Defend le fatal abord; Et par cent bouches horribles L'airain sur ces monts terribles Vomit le fer, et la mort.

IV.

Dix mille vaillans Alcides
Les bordant de toutes parts,
D'éclair au loin homicides
Font petiller leurs remparts:
Et dans fon fein infidele
Par tout la terre y recele
Un feu prest à s'élancer
Qui foudain perçant fon goufre,
Ouvre un sepulchre de foufre,
A quiconque ofe avancer.

V.

Namur, devant tes murailles
Jadis la Grece eust vingt ans
Sans fruit veu les functailles
De se plus siers combattans.
Quelle effroyable puissance
Aujourd'huy pourtant s'avance,
Preste à foudroyer tes monts?
Quelle bruit, quel seu l'environne?
C'est Jupiter en personne;
Ou c'est le vainqueur de Mons.

VI.

to well at case, and to leave to

N'en doute point: c'est luy-mesme.
Tout brille en luy; tout est roy.

Dans Bruxelles Nassau blême
Commence à trembler pour toy.
En vain il voit Je Batâve,
Desormais docile esclâve,

STREETS.

a especies des chons Dos marcan de la S

Sambre and Maese their waves may join;
But ne'er can William's force restrain:
He'll pass them both, who pass'd the Boyn;
Remember this, and arm the Sein.

IV-

Full fifteen thousand lusty fellows

With fire and sword the fort maintain:

Each was a Heroules, you tell us;

Yet out they march'd like common men.

Cannons above, and mines below

Did death and tombs for foes contrive:

Yet matters have been order'd so,

That most of us are still alive.

V

If Namur be compar'd to Troy;

Then Britain's boy's excell'd the Greeks:
Their fiege did ten long years employ;

We've done our bus'ness in ten weeks.
What godhead does so fast advance,

What dreadful pow'r those hills to gain?
'Tis little Will, the scourge of France;

No godhead but the first of men.
His mortal arm exerts the pow'r

To keep ev'n Mons's victor under:
And that same Jupiter no more

Shall fright the world with impious thunder.

VI.

Our king thus trembles at Namur,
Whilst Villeroy who never assaud is,
To Bruxelles marches on secure,
To bomb the monks, and scare the ladice.
After this glorious expedition,
One battle makes the marshal great:
He must perform the king's commission:
Who knows, but Orange may retreat?
Vol. I.

Rangé

South Start Mine ordered

He'll pain train both, as author section 1 South of Life

Bizhloven restly

the er of our than in so not

Rangé sous ses étendars: En vain au lion Belgique Il voit l'aigle Germanique Uni fous les leopards.

A vittle konsont action to be Plein de la frayeur nouvelle, Dont ses sens sont agités, A fon fecours il appelle and b'entre de la la Les peuples les plus vantéz, com hat senda en en al Ceux-là viennent du rivage, re admor the durch inc Ou s'enorgueillit le Tage De l'or, qui roule en ses eaux; Ceux-ci des champs, où la neige Des marais de la Norvége Neuf mois couvre les rofeaux.

Mais qui fait enfler la Sambre? Sous les Jumeaux effrayéz, Des froids Torrens de Decembre Le champs par tout Tont noyéz. Ceres s'enfuit, éplorée De voir en proye à Borce Ses guerets d'epics chargéz Et sous les urnes fangeuses Des Hyades orageuses Tous ses trésors submergéz.

Ong king this water been saxt

the spirit of the residence of the spirit of Déployez toutes vos rages, Princes, vents, peuples, frimats; Ramaffez tous vos nuages; in house per and production Raffemblez tous vos foldats. Malgré vous Namur en poudre S'en va tomber fous la foudre Kings

Kings are allow'd to feign the gout, Or be prevail'd with not to fight : And mighty Louis hop'd, no doubt, That William wou'd preserve that right.

From Sein and Loyre, to Rhone and Po, See ev'ry mother's fon appear : 101301 1 2016 1 25 4 In fuch a case ne'er blame a foe; which are the state of the If he betrays some little fear-He comes, the mighty Villeroy comes ; Finds a finall river in his way : 100 and his attention So waves his colours, beats his drums and home a particle And thinks it proper there to flay, and endand and the The Gallic troops breath blood and war: 100 000 000 100 100 The marshal cares not to march faster : donne significant Poor Vill'roy moves fo flowly here, and haven's motion . We fancy'd all, it was his master.

VIII.

Will no kind flood, no friendly rain Disguise the marshal's plain disgrace ! A coureed d'une No torrents swell the low Mehayne? The world will fay, he durft not pals. title assistation. Why will no Hyades appear, Dear poet, on the banks of Sambre ? Just as they did that mighty year, When you turn'd June into December. In such a ziter A Me clams bes cause The water-nymph's are too unkind To Vill'roy; are the land-nymphs fo? And fly they all, at once combin'd To shame a general, and a beau?

Contemples dans, it sempelix Truth, justice, sense, religion, same lood and ab moting May join to finish William's story: of the ign antily ad Nations fet free may blefs his name gragor and acon prote And France in secret own his glory stables soft 320 A F picarovil and an preor But

到时先

Mall

ing by present

adolog a file of

Qui domta Lille, Courtray, Gand la superbe Espagnole, Saint Omer, Bezancon, Dofe, Ypres, Mastricht, et Cambray.

Mes prélages s'accomplifient: Il commence à chanceler: Sous les coups qui retentifient Ses murs s'en vont s'écrouler. Mars en feu qui les domine, Soufile a grand bruit leur ruine, Et les bombes dans les ains partir parent per character la Allant chercher le sonnere, Semblent tombant for le terre, Vouloir s'ouvrir les cofere.

MARKET SEED OF THE SALE

Accourez, Naffau, Baviere, De ces mars l'unique espoir: A couvert d'une riviere Venez: vous pouvez tout voir. Confiderez ces approches: Voyez grimper fur ces roches Ces athletes belliqueux; Et dans les eaux, dans la flame, Louis a tout donnant l'ame. Marcher, courir avecque eux.

Contemplez dans la tempelte, Qui fort de ces boulevars, La plume qui fur fa telle Attire tous les regards A cet aftre redoutable! Tobjours un sort favorable

The water teymor

Fr for less mon

But Ipres, Mastricht, and Cambray, 00 est to b addate ? Belançon, Ghent, St. Omers, Lyfle, Courtray, and Dole—Ye critics, fay, How poor to this was Pindar's ftile? With eke's and also's tack thy strain, Great bard; and fing the deathless prince, and shows Who lost Namur the same campaign,
He bought Dixmude, and plunder'd Deynse

Yolla vos densemb Rores Allo V I'll hold ten pound my dream is out : I'd tell it you, but for the rattle Of those confounded drums : no doubt Yon' bloody rogues intend a battle. in toosh worden Dear me! a hundred thousand French or assume see T With terror fill the neighb'ring field: While William carries on the trench, Till both the town and castle yield. Vill'roy to Boufflers should advance Says Mars, thro' cannons mouths in fire; Id est, one mareschal of France

Of fant of chefs plained at IX Regain the lines the shortest way, Vill'roy; or to Verfailles take post: For, having feen it, thou canst fay The steps by which Namur was lost. The smoak and flame may vex thy fight: Look not once back; but as thou goeft, Quicken the fquadrons in their flight; And bid the D-1 take the flowest. Think not what reason to produce, From Louis to conceal thy fear: He'll own the strength of thy excuse; Tell him that William was but there.

Tells t'other, he can come no nigher.

Now let us look for Louis' feather, De corps mora, des That us'd to shine so like a star : and sould see a readle The gen'rals could not get together, Wanting that influence, great in war.

S'attache dans les combats:

Et toûjours avec la gloire

Mars amenant la victoire

Vole, et le suit à grands pas.

With clock and allo's ten HIX can.

Grands deffenieurs de l'Espagne,
Montrez-vous: il en est temps:
Courage; vers la Mahagne
Voilà vos drapeaux flottans.
Jamais ses ondes craintives
N'ont veû sur leur foibles rives
Tant de guerriers s'amasser:
Courez donc: qui vous retarde?
Tout l'univers vous regarde.
N'osez vous la traverser?

While William carries on VIX the Loin de fermer le passage.

A vos nombreux bataillons,

Luxembourg a du rivage

Reculé ses pavillons.

Quoy ! leur seul aspect vous glace !

Où sont ces chess pleins d'audace,

Jadis si prompts à marcher,

Qui devoient de la Tamise,

Et de la Drâve soûmise,

Jusqu'à Paris nous chercher!

Los Front, and fland over the Loss the control but IN all of the manual of the XVI. C'en

Cependant l'effroy redouble.

Sur les remparts de Namur.

Son gouverneur qui se trouble.

S'enfuit sous son dernier mur.

Déja jusques à ses portes.

Je voy monter nos cohortes,

La flame et le fer en main:

Et sur les monceaux de piques,

De corps morts, de rocs, de briques,

S'ouvrir un large chemin.

O poet! thou had'st been discreeter,
Hanging the monarch's hat so high;
If thou had'st dubb'd thy star a meteor,
That did but blaze, and rove, and die.

Let feet cette, the tone sendillX

Namur in vain expects that ray:

In vain France hopes, the fickly light

Should shine near William's fuller day,

It knows Verfailles, its proper station;

Nor cares for any foreign sphere:

Where you see Boileau's constellation,

Be sure no danger can be near.

XIV.

The French had gather'd all their force;
And William met them in their way:
Yet off they brush'd, both soot and horse.
What has friend Boileau lest to say?
When his high muse is bent upon't,
To sing her king,—that great commander,
Or on the shores of Hellespont,
Or in the valleys near Scamander;
Wou'd it not spoil his noble task,
If any soolish Phrygian there is,
Impertinent enough to ask,
How far Namur may be from Paris.

XV.

Two stanzas more before we end,
Of death, pikes, rocks, arms, bricks, and fire:
Leave 'em behind you, honest friend:
And with your country-men retire.
Your ode is spoilt; Namur is freed;
For Dixmuyd something yet is due:
So good Count Guiscard may proceed;
But Bousslers, Sir, one word with you.———

C'en est fait. Je viens d'entendre
Sur ces rochers éperdus
Battre un fignal pour se rendre:
Le feu cesse. Ils sont rendus.

Dépouillez vôtre arrogance.

Fiers ennemis de la France,

Et desormais gracient,

Allez à Leige à Bruxelles,

Porter les humbles nonvelles.

De Namur pris à vos yeux.

James of the state of a factor of a state of the state of the de la constante de la companya de la

The French had garber'd all their force:

And William nice throw in Whir very:

Yet off they beach to be him and hards, where the said.

The dog her king — that gleat continueday. The doctor of the last of the continueday. The doctor of the continueday of the continueday. The continueday of the contin

Such the constant was the from the factor of the constant of t

Everal mote before, we noted atom enters and everal and everal and everal and everal and everal of the contract of the contract and everal and

e de la composition della comp

XVI.

Tis done. In fight of these commanders, Who neither fight, nor raife the fiege, The foes of France march fafe thro' Flanders; Divide to Bruxelles, or to Liege.

Send, Fame, this news to Trianon,
That Boufflers may new honours gain: He the same play by land has shewn,

As Tourville did upon the main.

Yet is the marshal made a peer: O William, may thy arms advance;

That he may lose Dinant next year,
And so be constable of France. Your facety and religious moderning own the burnet mo? When full they meets, then along he thib set

But typhological pro. We want put themes.

. See reicord mound or wrote allain tous : s deres have been some some size of the byte

Phat fill her axer and her rock tapper. The judge's flower, and grate the stella colores That law with all its pompons certor dands.

stand o'schair odi mort temph an flare, o'l' Last the first that the state was the state of the ball

The control of the co

That, impose rate charm'd, the live and reight, for the live and reight, for the live and reight.

Discontinuity the live above the live and the liv is the perfect affect Device thought become A Bridge Bridge State St

But the state of the state of the state of the but Thy later care of er William's complex held,

On Boyn's prophical backs, the beaviery day daile, When pow'r divine did for cours myet decisie;

And counge marked, whose clay were tell to fiche,

Presented to the KING, at his arrival in HOLLAND, after the Discovery of the Conspiracy 1696.

Serus in culum redeas; diuque Latus interfis populo Quirioi: Neve te nostris vitiis iniquum Ocyor aura

Tollat-

Hor. ad Augustum.

TE careful angels, whom eternal fate Ordains, on earth and human acts to wait; Who turn with secret pow'r this restless ball, And bid predeftin'd empires rife and fall: Your facred aid religious monarchs own; When first they merit, then ascend the throne: But tyrants dread ye, lest your just decree Transfer the pow'r, and fet the people free: See rescu'd Britain at your altars bow: And hear her hymns your happy care avow: That still her axes and her rods support The judge's frown, and grace the awful court: That law with all its pompous terror stands, To wrest the dagger from the traitor's hands: And rigid justice reads the fatal word; Poises the ballance first, then draws the sword.

Britain her safety to your guidance owns, That she can sep'rate parricides from sons; That, impious rage disarm'd, she lives and reigns, Her freedom kept by him, who broke her chains,

And thou, great minister, above the rest,
Of guardian spirits, be thou for ever blest:
Thou, who of old wert sent to Israel's court,
With secret aid great David's strong support;
To mock the frantick rage of cruel Saul,
And strike the useless jav'lin to the wall.
Thy later care o'er William's temples held,
On Boyn's propitious banks, the heav'nly shield;
When pow'r divine did sov'reign right declare;
And cannons mark'd, whom they were bid to spare.

Still,

Walls III.

美国的政治主要企

MC Walk to

Still, bleffed angel, be thy care the fame: Be William's life untouch'd, as is his fame: Let him own thine, as Britain owns his hand: Save thou the king, as he has fav'd the land.

dismost a We angels forms in pious monarchs view: We reverence William; for he acts like you; And then Like you, commission'd to chastise and bless, He must avenge the world, and give it peace.

Indulgent fate our potent pray'r receives; And still Britannia smiles, and William lives : The hero dear to earth, by heav'n belov'd, By troubles must be vex'd, by dangers prov'd: His foes must aid to make his fame compleat. And fix his throne fecure on their defeat.

So, tho' with fudden rage the tempelt-comes; Tho' the winds roar; and tho' the water foams: Imperial Britain on the fea looks down. And fmiling fees her rebel fubject frown: Striking her cliff, the form confirms her pow'r The waves but whiten her triumphant shore: In vain they wou'd advance, in vain retreat : Broken they dash and parish at her feet,

For William still new wonders shall be shown: The pow'rs that rescu'd, shall preserve the throne. Safe on his darling Britain's joyful fea. Behold, the monarch plows his liquid way: His fleets in thunder thro' the world declare, Whose empire they obey, whose arms they bear. Bles'd by aspiring winds, he finds the strand Blacken'd with crouds; he fees the nations stand Bleffing his fafety, proud of his command. In various tongues he hears the captains dwell On their great leader's praise; by turns they tell, And liften, each with emulous glory fir'd, How William conquer'd, and how France retir'd: How Belgia freed the hero's arm confess'd. But trembl'd for the courage which she bless.

O Louis, from this great example know, To be at once a hero, and a foe:

By founding trumpets, hear, and ratling drums, When William to the open vengeance comes: And fee the foldier plead the monarch's right, Heading his troops, and foremost in the fight.

Hence then closs ambush and persidious war,
Down to your native seats of night repair.
And thou, Bellona, weep thy cruel pride
Restrain'd, behind the victor's chariot ty'd
In brazen knots, and everlasting chains.
(So Europe's peace, so William's sate ordains.)
While on the iv'ry chair, in happy state
He sits, secure in innocence, and great
In regal clemency; and views beneath
Averted darts of rage, and pointless arms of death.

To CLOE weeping.

sevolume efficiency and a mouth back.

One k mid bis in the office of the Asset To SEE, whilf thou weep'st, fair Cloe, see

The world in sympathy with thee.
The chearful birds no longer sing,
Each droops his head, and hangs his wing.
The clouds have bent their bosom lower,
And shed their forrows in a show'r.
The brooks beyond their limits flow;
And louder murmurs speak their woe.
The nymphs and swains adopt thy cares:
They heave thy sighs, and weep thy tears.
Fantastic nymph! that grief should move
Thy heart obdurate against love.
Strange tears! whose pow'r can soften all,
But that dear breast on which they fall.

To Mr. HOWARD.

the water and systems and AN ODE

EAR Howard, from the foft affaults of love, Poets and painters never are fecure: Can I untouch'd the fair ones passions move? Or thou draw beauty, and not feel its pow'r?

To great Apelles when young Ammon brought The darling idol of his captive heart; And the pleas'd nymph with kind attention fat, To have her charms recorded by his art:

ш.

Andre of recognition for the

The am'rous master own'd her potent eyes; Sigh'd when he look'd, and trembl'd as he drew: Each flowing line confirm'd his first furprife, And as the piece advanc'd, the passion grew.

IV.

While Philip's fon, while Venus' fon was near. What different tortures does his bosom feel? Great was the rival, and the God fevere: Nor could he hide his flame, nor durft reveal.

The prince renown'd in bounty as in arms, With pity faw the ill-conceal'd diffres: Quitted his title to Campalpe's charms, And gave the fair one to the friend's embrace.

Thus the more beauteous Cloe fat to thee, Good Howard, emulous of the Grecian art : But happy thou, from Cupid's arrow free, And flames that pierc'd thy predecessors's heart.

VOL. I.

VII.

Had thy poor breast receiv'd in equal pain;
Had I been vested with the monarch's pow'r;
Thou must have sigh'd, unlucky youth, in vain;
Nor from my bounty hadst thou found a cure.

VIII.

Tho' to convince thee, that the friend did feel
A kind concern for thy ill-fated care,
I would have footh'd the flame, I could not heal;
Giv'n thee the world; tho' I with-held the fair.

LOVE difarm'd.

B Eneath a myrtle's verdant shade

As Cloe half asleep was laid,

Cupid perch'd lightly on her breast,

And in that heav'n desir'd to rest:

Over her paps his wings he spread:

Between he found a downy bed,

And nestl'd in his little head.

Still lay the god, the nymph furpris'd,
Yet miltress of herself, devis'd,
How she the vagrant might inthral,
And captive him, who captives all.

Her bodice half way she unlac'd About his arms she slily cast The silken bond, and held him fast.

The god awak'd; and thrice in vain. He strove to break the cruel chain; And thrice in vain he shook his wing. Incumber'd in the silken string.

Flutt'sing the god, and weeping faid,
Pity poor Cupid, generous maid,
Who happen'd, being blind, to stray,
And on thy belom lost his way.
Who stray'd, alas! but knew too well,
He never there must hope to dwell.

is a comment of Get 72 a a na cartailion A total division

The meaning of the mens bos sell

sale from the sale of the season of The

Wiener and the state the Set an unhappy pris'ner free, Who ne'er intended harm to thee, he had a beauty to all

To me pertains not, the replies, To know or eare where cupid flies; What'are his haunts, or which his way; Where he would dwell, or whither ftray: Yet will I never fet thee free; For harm was meant, and harm to me, - 11 at the Vain fears that vex thy virgin heart: I'll give thee up my bow and dart: Untangle but this cruel chain, And freely let me fly again.

Agreed: fecure my virgin hearts Instant give up thy bow and dart: The chain I'll in return unty; And freely thou again shalt fly.

Thus she the captive did deliver; The captive thus gave up his quiver. The god difarm'd e'er fince that day Ill Henred gereine. Passes his life in harmless play: Flies round, or fits upon her breaft, A little, flutt'ring, idle gueft.

E'er since that day the beauteous maid Miliso High Sect Governs the world in Cupid's stead; Directs his arrow as she wills; esecut thost of Gives grief, or pleasure; spares, or kills.

Rubbin, all mentil dails dispersion its preduct CLOB HUNTING:

D Ehind her neck her comely treffes ty'd Her iv'ry quiver graceful by her fide, A hunting Cloe went: the loft her way, And thro' the woods uncertain chanc'd to firay. Apollo passing by beheld the maid; And, fifter dear, bright Cynthia turn, he faid: The hunted hind lies close in yonder brake, Loud Cupid laugh'd, to fee the god's miltake; And, laughing cry'd, learn better, great divine, To know thy kindred, and to honour mine. has say the Those I

Rightly

Rightly advis'd, far hence thy fifter feek,
Or on Meander's bank, or Latmus' peak.

But in this nymph, my friend, my fifter know:
She draws my arrows, and she bends my bow:
Fair Thames she haunts, and ev'ry neighb'ring grove
Sacred to soft recess, and gentle love.
Go, with thy Cynthia, hurl thy pointed spear
At the rough boar; or chase the slying deer:
I and my Cloe take a nobler aim:
At human hearts we sling, nor ever miss the game.

CUPID and GANYMEDE.

In wife Anacreon, Ganymede
Drew heedless Cupid in, to throw
A main, to pass an hour, or so.
The little Trojan by the way,
By Hermes taught, play'd all the play.

The god unhappily engag'd, By nature rash, by play enrag'd, Camplain'd, and figh'd, and cry'd, and fretted; Loft ev'ry earthly thing he betted: In ready money, all the store Pick'd up long fince from Danz's show'r; A Inuff-box, fet with bleeding hearts, Rubies, all pierc'd with diamond darts; His nine-pins, made of myrtle wood; (The tree in Ida's forest stood) His bowl pure gold, the very fame Which Paris gave the Cyprian dame; Two table-books in shagreen covers; Fill'd with good verse from real lovers; Merchandise rare! a billet doux, the adjust block Its matter passionate, yet true; Heaps of hair rings, and cypher'd feals; had be und so Rich trifles; ferious bagatelles.

What fad disorders play begets?

SEVERAL OCCASIONS Those darts, whose points make gods adose it a s'ver?
His might, and depresate his poster a range and your roll. Those darts, whence all our joy and pain 17 only of T Arife: those darts -comep feven othermain, word 19Y Cries Ganymede: the until tricks I should be the Seven flur a fix; eleven: a nick, and and a seven flur Ill news goes fast: 'twas quiekly known; " 1011 101 That simple Cupid was undone.

Swifter than lightning Venus flews Too late the found the thing too true thin thor nam bank Guels how the goddels greets her for the high story Come hither, firrah; no, begon; list to mant som but And, hark ye, is it so indeed? A comrade you for Ganymede? An imp as wicked, for his age, I T As any earthly lady's page; A scandal and a scourge to Troy: A prince's fon? a black-guard boy soon renta ? A sharper that with box and dice at boost suns V Draws in young deities to vice, it more pristoodles bisuo All heav'n is by the cars together, wed sid quarti-west Since first that little rogue came hither:

Since first that little rogue came hither:
Juno herself has had no peace:
And truly I've been favour'd less; if some standard to the for Jove, as Fame reports, (but Fame and its day Says things not fit for me to name)
Has acted ill for such a god,
And taken ways extremely odd.

And thou, unhappy child, she said

(Her anger by her grief allay'a)

Unhappy child, who thus has lost
All the estate we e'er could hoast;

Whither, O whither wilt thou run,

Thy name despis'd, thy weakness known?

Not shall thy shrine on earth be crown'd:

Nor shall thy pow'r in heav'n be own'd;

When thou, nor man, nor god can'st wound.

Obedient Cupid kneeling cry'd, 100 101 100 2001 1. Cease, dearest mother, cease to chide:

Gany's a chest, and I'm a bubble: a storier and storier Yet why this great excels of trouble? The dice were false; the darks are gone;

Yet how are you, of I undone?

The loss of these I can supply:

With keener shafts from Clos's eye:

Fear not, we e'er can be disgrae'd;

While that bright magazine shall laste

Your crouded altars still shall smoke;

And man your friendly aid invoke;

Jove shall again revers your pow'r,

And rife a swan, or fall a show'r.

d U P I D mistaken.

A fearcal and a fenerge world by any hereal we have I are

A Safter noon, one summer's day,

Venus stood bathing in a river;

Cupid a-shooting went that way,

New-strung his bow, new fill d his quiver.

11.

With skill he chose his sharpest dart:

With all his might his bow he drew.

Swift to his beauteous parent's heart.

The too weel guided arrow slew.

And tellion lyang cutted the bullet

I faint I die! the goddels cry'd:
O cruel, could'st thou find none other,
To wreck thy spleen on? parricide!
Like Nero, thou hast slain thy mother.

Typology structed acres 161

Cosing drown and bender a state of the belief and the second

Poor Cupid fobbing scarce could speak;
Indeed, Mamma, I did not know ye:
Alas! how easy my mistake?
I took you for your likeness Clos.

windows and read of the design to

V E N U'S millaken.

WHEN Cloe's picture was to Venus shown;
Surpriz'd, the goddess took it for her own And what, faid she, does this bold painter mean? When was I bathing thus, and naked feen ! I will all Pleas'd Cupid heard, and check'd his mother's pride: And who's blind now, Mamma? the urchin cry'd, 'Tis Cloes eye, and cheek, and lip, and breaft: Friend Howard's genius fancy'd all the reft.

the fither found a what are restricted and a fitting and a fitting And SON Grand bill same sale

His Vests rept the hild de hits F wine and mulick have the pow'red and grand to To ease the sickness of the foul: Let Phoebus ev'ry ftring explore; And Bachus fill the sprightly bowl. In constillation was Let them their friendly aid employ, To make my Cloe's ablence light; And feek for pleafure to deffroy The forrows of this live long night,

But the to mortow will return an adl hist soon feel?" Venus, be thou to morrow great ; - college of word I Thy myrtles ftrow, thy odours burn ste about the toll And meet thy fav'rite nymph in flates Kind goddefs, to no other pow'rs Let us to morrow's bleffings own: Thy darling loves shall guide the hours;
And all the day be thine alone.

VIII. Account

Ber leg ikebald

Boorla Mastern, a content of the content

The sentence of the particular and the cold

Very with later. The DOWES Y

Tantaene animis enleftible irae ? VILG. Sugarite'd, the goldette took it for her over to Act what, but the, does in book mentacement to be N Virgil's facred verice we find, at south to I have not the That passion can depress or raise The heavenly as the human mind : "on build a of a ball Who dare deny what Virgil fays? Liced Howard's canne

Bury Constant will be a Spell

But if they should; what our great master Has thus laid down, my tale shall prove. Fair Venus wept the fad disafter Of having loft her fav'rite Dove, Album bas anim

. To esse the sickness of me l

In complaifance poor Cupid mourn'd;
His grief reliev'd his mother's pain;
He vow'd he'd leave no flone unturn'd,

Pur the floudd have her Dove again. But the should have her Dove again,

The forces of this the stored at T

Tho' none, faid the shall yet be nam'd, out or the said a I know the fellon well enough worth of north ad acrost But be the not, Mamma, condemn'd would entry by the Without a fair and legal proof. The war day som both

Let us to though the With that his longest dart he took, As conftable would take his ftaff: That gods defire like men to look, Wou'd make ev'n Heraclitus laugh.

Love's subaltern, a duteous band, Like watchmen roun'd their cheif appear : Each had his lanthorn in his hand: And Venus mask'd brought up the rear.

VII, Accounted

End could be as as a

Accounted thus, their eager flep To Cloe's lodging they directed: (At once I write, alas! and weep, and wol withher sale That Cloe is of theft suspected.)

VIII.

Late they fet out, had far to go : St. Dunstan's as they pas'd, struck one. Cloe for reasons good, you know, Lives at the fober end o'th' town.

With one great peal they rap the door, which are V Like footmen on a visiting day, larged a sirrengeral Folks at her house at such an hour! Lord! what will all the neighbours fay?

The door is open'd up they run to construction soul said Nor prayers nor threats divert their speed some 10 Thieves! thieves! cries Sufan we're undone; They'll kill my miltress in her bed.

XI.X

In bed indeed the nymph had been there may no Holl Three long hours : for hillorians fay, She commonly went up at ten, asserted and land sidT Unless Piquet was in the way.

XII.

She wak'd, be fure, with ftrange furprize. O Cupid, is this right or law, how addume as yet me Thus to diffurb the brightest eyes, add b moting avail no Y That ever-flept, or ever faw ? no from you doint at

Have you observ'd a sitting have, of side sood maidfuld told Liftning, and fearful of the form; svods hat b'sing Of horns and hounds, clap back her ear, and sour should Afraid to keep, or leave her form to: change now.

XIV.

Or have you mark'd a partridge quake;
Viewing the tow'ring fauleon nigh?
She cuddles low behind the brake:
Nor wou'd the stay nor dares the fly

XV

Then have you feen the beauteous maid;
When gazing on her midnight foes,
She turn'd each way her frighted head,
Then funk it deep beneath the cloaths.

XVI.

Venus this while was in the chamber
Incognotio: for Sulan faid,
It finelt fo ftrong of myrrh and amber
And Sulan is no lying maid.

XVII.

Of Venus for an epifode;
With Cupid let us e'en proceed:
And thus to Cloe spoke the god:

XVIII.

Hold up your head: hold up your hand:

Wou'd it were not my lot to show ye.

This cruel Writ, wherein ye stand.

Indicted by the name of Cloe:

XIX.

For by that secret malice stirr'd,

Or by an emulous pride invited,

You have pursoin'd the fav'rite bird,

In which my mother mest delighted,

KOX

Rais'd just above the milk white sheet.

A role tree in a lilly bed,

Nor glows so red, nor breathes so sweet.

XXI. Are

XXL

Are you not he whom virgins fear,
And widows court? is not your name
Cupid? if so, pray come not near Fair maiden, I'm the very same.

XXII.

Then what have I, good Sir, to fay,
Or do with her, you call your mother?
If I should meet her in my way,
We hardly court'y to each other.

XXIII.

Diana chaste, and Hebe sweet,

Witness that what I speak is true:

I wou'd not give my paroquet

For all the Doves that ever flew.

XXIV.

Yet, to compose this midnight noise,
Go freely search where'er you please:
(The rage that rais'd, adorn her voice)
Upon yon' toilet lie my keys.

XXV.

Her keys he takes; her doors unlocks;
Thro' wardrobe, and thro' closet bounces;
Peeps into ev'ry chest and box;
Turns all her furbeloes and flounces.

XXVI.

But Dove, depend on't, finds he none;
So to the bed returns again:
And now the maiden, bolder grown,
Begins to treat him with difdain,

TXXVIII. A FAR AND A LOUIS TO A SEED TO

I marvel much, the smiling faid,
Your poultry cannot yet be found:
Lies he in youder slipper dead,
Or may be, in the tea-pot drown'd.

XXVIII. No.

XXVIII.

No, traytor, angry love replies,

He's hid fomewhere about your breaft;

A place, nor god, nor man denies,

For Venus' Dove the proper neft.

XXIX.

Search then, she said, put in your hand,
And Cynthia, dear protectress, guard me:
As guilty I, or free may stand,
Do thou, or punish, or reward me.

XXX.

But ah! what maid to love can trust,

He scorns, and breaks all legal power;

Into her breast his hand he thrust;

And in a moment forc'd it lower,

XXXI.

O, whither do those fingers rove,
Cries Cloe, treacherous urchin, whither?

Venus! I shall find thy Dove,
Says he; for fure I touch his feather.

ALOVER'S ANGER.

A S Cloe came into the room t'other day,
I peevish began; where so long cou'd you stay?
In your life-time you never regarded your hour:
You promis'd at two; and (pray look child) 'tis four.
A lady's watch needs neither sigures nor wheels:
'Tis enough, that 'tis loaded with baubles and seals.
A temper so heedless no mortal can bear—
Thus far I went on with a resolute air.
Lord bless, me said she; let a body but speak:
Here's an ugly hard rose bud fallen into my neck:
It has hurt me, and vext me to such a degree—
See here; for you never believe me pray see,

On the left fide my breast what a mark it has made, So faying, her bosom the careless display'd. That feat of delight I with wonder furvey'd; And forgot ev'ry word I defign'd to have faid.

MERCURY and CUPID.

Weater their waterica early TN fullen humour one day Jove as much vil there say a. Sent Hermes down to Ida's grove, Commanding Cupid to deliver .! and rinds 'add agrees out. His store of darts, his total quiver; That Hermes shou'd the weapons break, 'day and the Or throw 'em into Lethe's lake. no hand shrive oil and and Hermes, you know, must do his errand: He found his man, produc'd his warrant: Cupid, your darts—this very hour— There's no contending against power. I show than success!

How fullen Jupiter, just now, will no soon boot bak I think I faid: and you'll allow, soldier in the state of the That Cupid was as bad as he: 100 Hold with and thick Hear but the youngster's repartee.

Come kinfman (faid the little god) Put off your wings, lay by your rod; a more a deres have Retire with me to yonder bower; 111 had a see well And rest yourself for half an hour: 'Tis far indeed from hence to heav'n: And you fly falt: and 'tis but feven. We'll take one cooling cup of nectar: And drink to this celestial Hector-

He break my darts, or hurt my pow'r! He, Leda's fwan, and Danæ's show'r! Go, bid him his wife's tongue restrain; And mind his thunder, and his rain. My darts? O certainly I'll give 'em: and b' and more los From Cloe's eyes he shall receive 'em: There's one, the best in all my quiver, Twang! thro' his very heart and liver, to 200 2 stobast He then shall pine, and figh, and rave state and law! Good Lord! what buffle shall we have ! I doubt to lead to VOL. I. H

Neptune

Neptune must straight be fent to feat vin the feet at One must find thells, and t'ether flow're, For cooling grotts, and fragrant bow'rs, with the land land That Cloe may be ferv'd in state: The hours must at her toilet wait: Whilst all the reasoning fools below, Wonder their watches go too flow. Lybs must fly fouth, and Burus cast For jewels for her hair and breaft:
No matter tho' their cruel haite Sink cities, and lay forests walle, No matter tho' this feet be loft : " S'acid the said see !! Or that lie wind-bound on the coaft, with the winds to What whilp ring in my mother's car! What care, that Jono thou'd not bear ! What work among you scholar gods! Phœbus must write him am'rous odes And thou, poor coulin, must compesse His letters in fubmiffive profet Whilst haughty Cloe, to fustain The honour of my mystick reign, Shall all his gifts and vows dildate; And laugh at your old bully boain. I stress they lie in the

Dear couz, faid Hermes in a fright,

For heav'n fake keep your darts a good night.

On BEAUTY. ARIDDLE.

R ESOLVE me, Gloe, what is this;

Or forfeit me one precious kife.

Tis the first off-spring of the graces;
Bears diff'rent forms in diff'rent places;
Acknowledg'd fine, where-e'er beheld;
Yet fancy'd finer, when conceal'd.

Twas Flora's wealth, and Girce's charm;
Pandora's box of good and harm:

Twas Mars's wish, Endymion's dream;
Apelles' draught, and Ovid's theme.

Ticy road

This guided Thefeus thro' the maze; And fent him home with life and praise. But this undid the Phrygian boy; And blew the flames that ruin'd Troy. This shew'd great kindness to old Greece, And help'd rich Jason to the fleece. This thro' the east just vengeance hurl'd, And loft poor Anthony the world. Injur'd, tho' Lucrece found her doom; This banish'd tyranny from Rome. Appaes'd, tho' Lais gain'd her hire This fet Persepolis on fire, For this, Alcides learn'd to fpin: His club laid down, and lion's Ikin. For this, Apollo deign'd to keep, With fervile care, a mortal's facep. For this the father of the gods, Content to leave his high abodes, In borrow'd figures loofely ran, Europa's bull, and Leda's fwan, For this he reaffumes the nod, (While Semele commands the god) Launces the bolt, and shakes the poles; Tho' Momus laughs, and Juno foolds.

Here lift'ning Cloe fmiles and faid; Your riddle is not hard to read: I guess it - Fair one, if you do: Need I, alas! the theme purfue? For this thou fee'ft, for this I leave, Whate'er the world thinks wife or grave, Ambition, business, friendship, news, My useful books, and serious muse. For this I willingly decline The mirth of fealts, and joys of wine; And chuse to sit and talk with thee, (As thy great orders may decree) Of cocks and bulls, of flutes and fiddles, Of idle tales, and foolish riddles.

i to slummid

The QUESTION, to LISETTA.

What nymph shou'd I admire, or trust,
But Cloe beauteous, Cloe just?
What nymph shou'd I desire to see,
But her who leaves the plain for me?
To whom shou'd I compose the lay,
But her who listens when I play!
To whom in song repeat my cares,
But her who in my forrow shares?
For whom should I the garland make,
But her who joys the gift to take,
And boasts she wears it for my sake?
In love am I not fully blest?
Listeta, pr'ythee tell the rest.

LISETTA'S REPLY IN D' Warred al

CURE Cloe just, and Cloe fair Deserves to be your only care: Ligace vice belt. But when you and fhe to day The Mosmolands Far into the wood did stray, Here latterated And I happen'd to pass by; Which way did you cast your eye? But when your cares to her you fing, Yet dare not tell her whence they fpring; Does it not more afflict your heart, That in those cares she bears a part? When you the flow'rs for Cloe twine. Why do you to her garland join gent Live & leady to The meanest bud that falls from mine: Simplest of swains! the world may see Whom Cloe loves, and who loves me.

See, friend, in lone few fleeting hours, a service See youdes with GARLAND about sel

Abmel the blooming in HE pride of ev'ry grove I chole, die hall hall The violet sweet, and lilly fair, it died works 14. The dappl'd pink and blufhing rofe, gove to about dies. To deck my charming Cloe's hair.

At dawn poor Stella At morn the nymph wouchfaft to place Upon her brow the various wreath; The flow'rs less blooming than her face, The scent less fragrant than her breath.

Sach as the is, who do'd telley The flow'rs the wore along the day: no ! sais . I nous ! And ev'ry nymph and thepherd faid, bid annual ... That in her hair they look'd more gay, to saile and I Than glowing in their native bed.

The LAD Mentine all all Undrest at evening, when she found Their odours loft, their colours past; She chang'd her look, and on the ground Her garland and her eye she cast.

What from this day I had Ve

That eye dropt sense distinct and clear, a sense was As any Muse's tongue cou'd speak : When from its lid a pearly tear Ran trickling down her beauteous cheek.

Diffembling what I knew too well-mails of the deal My love, my life, faid I, explain This change of humour: pr'ythee tell : wa you lot all ! That falling tear what does it mean?

She figh'd; the fmil'd: and to the flow'rs Pointing, the lovely moralist faid:

See, friend, in some few fleeting hours, See yonder, what a thange is made.

Ah me! the blooming pride of May, And that of beauty are but one:

At morn both flourish bright and gay, Both fade at evening, pule, and gone.

At dawn poor Stella dane'd and fung : The am'rous youth around her bowd; and along the At night her fatal knell was rung; and wood the coell I faw, and kist her in her arowd. dele a soll of I

Such as she is, who dy'd to day, Such I, alas! may be to morrow to sell a with so T Go, Damon, bid the mule display a man with but. The justice of the Gloc's forrow.

> The LADY who offers her looking-glass to WE WOS L'armbo nisd'i svinn with a name past I

ENUS, take my votive glass; Since I am not what I was: What from this day I shall be, Venus let me never fec.

CLOE JEALOUS.

F Orbear to ask me, why I weep;
Vext Cloe to her shepherd faid;
'Tis for my two poor straggling sheep
Perhaps, or for my squired dead.

For mind I what you late have writ? Your fubtile queltions, and replies;

1997

Emblems.

Emblems, to teach a female well stone b'manis Tare I The ways, where changing Capid fies. and bak

III

Your riddle purpos'd to reheard a door I mais vitw The general pow'r that beauty has: Cathacona list.
But why did no peculiar verfe who as an anoma O'O Describe one charm of Cloe's face? The tay lava I

The glass, which was at Venus farine, With fuch mysterious forrow laid The garland (and you call it mine) and conor via no real Which show'd how youth and beauty fade.

Ten thousand trifles light as thefe Nor can my rage, nor anger move : She shou'd be humble, who wou'd please: And the must fuffer, who can love.

ES, fairell proof of sentry's now'r,

When in my glafe I chane d to look; Of Venus what did I implore? That ev'ry grace which thence I took, Shou'd know to charm my Damon more.

while now I take my line of the Reading thy verie; who heeds, faid La don't sought If here or there his glances flew? ned win few flam. I O free for ever be his eye. Whose heart to me is always true.

VIEW COLUMN A COLUMN TO THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF THE

My bloom indeed, my little flow's the same and the Trail Of beauty quickly lolt its pride: For fever'd from its native bow'r, It on thy glowing bosom dy'd.

Yet car'd I not, what might prefage Or withering wreath, or fleeting youth:

vid vid some not me

Love I elteem'd more ftrong than age, may or smaldar! And time less permanent than truth to least add

Why then I weep, forbear to know comprodiction may Fall uncontroul'd my tears, and free:

O Damon, 'tis the only woe, and the only to he I ever yet conceal'd from thee.

The fecret wound with which I bleed daily , alie and T Shall lie wrapt up, ev'n in my herie; But on my tomb-flone thou shalt read, bus bouling and I My answer to thy dubious verse. of b work as a w

Answer to CLOE jealous, in the same stiles The Author fick. will am no lost

She fleet d be hereble, who would please:

And the malt juster, west can love. 7'ES, fairest proof of beauty's pow'r. Dear idol of my panting heart, date was at many Nature points this my fatal hour; And I have liv'd; and we must part.

Shou'd know to chemin and Dainen moral While now I take my last adieu, Heave thou no figh, nor fhed a tear; Least yet my half-clos'd eye may view On earth an object worth its care.

ш.

so se treat Swilled ...

in yathad k)

will be speed his

From jealoufy's termenting strife For ever by thy bosom freed: That nothing may disturb thy life, a bashui model with Content I halten to the dead.

Yet when some better-fated youth Shall with his am'rous parly move thee; Reflect one moment on his truth Who dying thus, perfifts to love thee.

A BETTER ANSWER

For that are a girl as much he paker than her

EAR Cloe, how blubber'd is that pretty face? Thy cheek all on fire, and thy hair all uncurl'd; Pr'ythee quit this caprice; and (as old Falstaff fays) Let us e'en talk a little like folks of this world.

And beauty's gow the man'd the golden traits

How can'st thou prefume, thou halt leave to destroy The beauties, which Venus but lent to thy keeping Those looks were defign'd to inspire love and joy: More ord'nary eyes may ferve people for weeping.

To be vext at a trifle or two that I writ, sail , lalbeard Your judgment at once and my passion you wrong: You take that for fact, which will fearce be found wit: Od's life! must one swear to the truth of a song?

And Vends (if 'is politicate vents."

What I speak, my fair Cloe, and what I write, shows The difference there is betwixt nature and art: I court others in verie; but I love thee in profe; And they have my whimfies, but thou haft my heart,

The god of us verle-men (you know child) the Sun, How after his journeys he fets up his rest: If at morning o'er earth 'tis his fancy to run; At night he reclines on his Thetis's breaft.

So when I am weary'd with wand'ring all day; and sale a To thee my delight in the evening I come; No matter what beauties I faw in my way; They were but my vilits, but thou art my home. None that clor, but Lore the

Then finish, dear Cloe, this pastoral war; horning o'T And let us like Horace and Lydia agree: attal viscoil

38.3

For thou art a girl as much brighter than her, As he was a poet fublimer than me.

PALLAS and VENUS. and received when the s

The Hand La A BPIGRAM

HE Trojan Swain had judg d the great dispute And beauty's pow'r ubtain'd the golden fruit; When Venus, loofe in all her naked charms, Met Joves great daughter clad in shining arms, From head to foot; and muntingly she said: Yield, sister; rival, yeild: naked, you see,

I vanquish: guess how potent I should be:

If to the field I came in armour dreft;
Dreadful, like thine, my fhield and terrible my creft.

The warrior goddefe with dildnin reply'd;

Thy folly, child, is equal to thy pride:

Let a brave enemy for once devife, And Venue (if 'tis possible) be wife. Thou so be strong must put of every dress:
Thy only armour is thy nakedness:
And more than once, (or thou art much bely'd)
By Mars himself that armour has been try'd.

To a young GENTLEMAN in LOVE.

Hor miter ber citte til til til til

ROM publick notice and factious strife. From all the bufy ills of life, Take me, my Calia, to thy breaft;
And lull my wearied foul to raft;
For ever in this humble cell, Let thee and I, my fair one, dwell and he None enter elfe, but Love—and he Shall bar the door, and keep the key.

while how I with post

To painted toofs, and thining foires while all industrict (Uncally leats of high defines) approach while the but

Let the unthinking many groud, market entired tell ac of That dare be covetous and proud a woon and he to meet all In golden bondage let them wait, the state of slow to And barter happiness for state; the best done to mound But oh! my Celia, when thy fwain Defires to fee a court again? May heaven around this deftin'd head The choicest of its curses shed a trans a drawn and To fum up all the rage of fate.

In the two things I dread and hate; May'ft thou be falle, and I be great.

Thus, on his Celia's panting breaft, the continue of Fond Celadon his foul exprest; While with delight the lovely maid Receiv'd the vows, she thus repaid:

Hope of my age, joy of my youth, Bleft miracle of love and truth All that cou'd e'er be counted mine, My love and life, long fince are thine; A real joy I never knew gr to those we not now look A real grief I ne'er can find go minth hope in a feet ben 'Till thou prov'ft perjur'd or unkind. s out to lesein sales Contempt, and poverty, and care, the same tot whom All we abhor, and all we fear, and they obove the deal (1) Bleft with thy prefence, I can bear Thro' water, and thro' flames I'll go, Suff'rer and folace of thy woe : Trace me some yet unheard-of way, That I thy ardour may repay; And make thy constant passion known, By more than woman yet has done. Had I a wish that did not bear The stamp and image of my dear: I'd pierce my heart thro' ev'ry vein, And die to let it out again. No: Venus shall my witness be, (If Venus ever lov'd like me) That for one hour I wou'd not quit My shepherd's arms, and this retreat, nd ren blad

By doors of lice

inid live al bed

For, give that w

Partner of all his pow'r and pride;
Or rule in regal state above,
Mother of gods, and wife of Jove.

O happy these of human race!

But soon alas! our pleasures pass.

He thank'd her on his bended knee;

Then drank a quart of milk and tea;

And leaving her ador'd embrace,

Hasten'd to court to beg a place,

While she his absence to bemoan,

The very moment he was gone,

Call'd Thyrsis from beneath the bed;

Where all this time he had been hid.

Received the voves the case setting: Hope of my age, joy of nev could Bielt margie of love all Au 8 O M

WHILE men have these ambitious fancies; vol vide And wanton wenches read romances; and A Our sex will—what? out with it. Lye; And theirs in equal strains reply.

And theirs in equal strains reply.

The moral of the tale I sing (A posy for a wedding ring) and their in this short verse will be consinted:

An ENGLISH PADLOCK.

Thro' water, and thro' flames I'll go.

MISS Danz, when fair and young

(As Horace has divinely fung)

Cou'd not be kept from Jove's embrace

By doors of steel, and walls of brass.

The reason of the thing is clear;

Wou'd Jove the naked truth aver:

Cupid was with him of the party;

And shew'd himself sincere and hearty:

For, give that whipster but his errand;

He takes my lord chief justice' warrant:

Dauntless

abol) was call

Charles & Colored

out that work nat Dauntless as death away he walks; incomplete and a sould be Breaks the doors open; inaps the locks; Searches the parlour, chamber, fludy; Nor stops 'till he has Culprit's body.

Lich

d I ni.

Anc

BILL

toc

re M

dT

OT

ומ נ

May

dVIT

Rec

Blef

. ILA

NEW

A re

LIT

21 A

WT:

Com

LLA

Bleff

nd F

Aug

11111

ZE A

bnA

n ve

DELL

The

gb I

bnA

: OM

7 HI)

sal T L WEN

ticis

T Fos

al wid injure to call Since this has been authentick truth; By age deliver'd down to youth; your on count of Tell us, mistaken husband, tell us, has pula production of Why fo mysterious, why so jealous? closs and his third if Does the restraint, the bolt, the bar seng ledadlen Make us less curious, her less fair? to a dolf fictor. The ipy, which does this treasure keep, Does the ne'er fay her prayers, nor fleep? Does she to no excess encline? de alliant communication of Does she fly music, mirth, and wine? Or have not gold and flatt'ry pow'r, ata re sant local To purchase one unguarded hour?

more all and L Your care does further yet extend: at he executed at T That fpy is guarded by your friend.-But has this friend nor eye, nor heart? think five as spit thinks May he not feel the cruel dart, the beat batton th Which, foon or late, all mortals feel? one material with May he not, with too tender zeal, 山田台 。 如果等一种点, Give the fair pris'ner cause to see, blic would to the How much he wishes, she were free! december assistable May he not craftily infer and anomaring The rules of friendship too fevere, the state of the state of Which chain him to a hated trust; 山北 和50月 55年 20年 Which make him wretched, to be just? And may not she, this darling she,

Youthful and healthy, flesh and blood, Easie with him, ill us'd by thee, Lut I they and brok Allow this logic to be good? Sir, will your questions never end? I trust to neither spy nor friend. In short, I keep her from the fight Of ev'ry human face, --- She'll write. From pen and paper the's debar'd. Has the a bodkin and a card? descharact changing She'll prick her mind. She will you fay:

VOL. I

But how shall she that mind convey?

I keep her in one room: I lock it:

The key (look here) is in this pocket.

The key-hole, is that left? Most certain.

She'll thrust her letter thro'———Sir Martin.

Dear angry friend, what must be done? Is there no way? --- There is but one. Send her abroad; and let her fee, That all this mingled mais, which she Being forbidden longs to know, Is a dull farce, an empty show, Powder, and Pocket-glass, and beau; A staple of romance and lies, False tears, and real perjuries: Where fighs and looks are bought and fold; And love is made but to be told: Where the fat bawd, and lavish heir The spoils of ruin'd beauty share: And youth feduc'd from friends and fame, Must give up age to want and shame. Let her behold the frantic scene, The women wretched, false the men: And when, these certain ills to shun, She would to thy embraces run; Receive her with extended arms: Seem more delighted with her charms: Wait on her to the park and play: Put on good humour; make her gay: Be to her virtues very kind: Be to her faults a little blind:
Let all her ways be unconfin'd: And clap your Padlock—on her mind.

HANS CARYEL.

Time to the agnitisup sand buy

Handsome? enough; extremly gay:
Lov'd music, company, and play:

rational copy in Assist

Republic of I

NUMBER OF STREET

confane should

25年10年11日

13 L 541 L 5 1 1 5

collegated the total sast

: 10 ft fresh car a

Your same, Sir.

to shock foot book un

a colone il non

High flights she had, and wit at will: And so her tongue lay seldom still: For in all visits who but she; To argue, or to repartee?

She made it plain, that human passion Was order'd by predestination; That if weak women went altray, Their stars were more in fault then they: Whole tragedies she had by heart; Enter'd into Roxana's part: To triumph in her rival's blood, The action certainly was good. How like a vine young Ammon curl'd! O that dear conqu'ror of the world! She pity'd Betterton in age, That ridicul'd the god-like rage.

She, first of all the town, was told, Where newest India things were sold: So in a morning, without bodice, Slipt fometimes out to Mrs. Thody's To cheapen tea, to buy a fcreen: What elfe cou'd fo much virtue mean? For to prevent the least reproach, Betty went with her in the coach.

But when no very great affair Excited her peculiar care; She without fail was wak'd at ten; Drank chocolate, then slept again: At twelve she rose with much ado Her cloaths were huddl'd on by two; Then, does my lady dine at home? Yes fure; but is the colonel come; Next, how to fpend the afternoon, And not come home again too foon; The change, the city, or the play, As each was proper for the day; A turn in fummer to Hyde-park, When it grew tolerably dark.

Wife's pleasure causes husband's pain: Strange fancies come in Hans's brain:

mon'd

e garli

Suc II

4.2.

7.0 30

LET VER

or let woll

SALES.

: 11 /

MINT.

He thought of what he did not name; And would reform; but durst not blame. At first he therefore preach'd his wife The comforts of a pious life: Told her, how transient beauty was: That all must die, and flesh was grass: He bought her fermons, pfalms and graces; And doubl'd down the ufeful places. But still the weight of wordly care Allow'd her little time for pray'r: And Cleopatra was read o'er, While Scot, and Wake, and twenty more, That teach one to deny one's felf, Stood unmolested on the shelf. An untouch'd bible grac'd her toilet: No fear that thumb of her's shou'd spoil it. In short, the trade was still the same: The dame went out, the colonel came.

What's to be done? poor Garvel cry'd:
Another batt'ry must be try'd:
What if to spells I had recourse?
'Tis but to hinder something worse.
The end must justify the means:
He only sins who ill intends:
Since therefore 'tis to combat evil;
'Tis lawfull to employ the devil.

Forthwith the devil did appear
(For name him and he's always near)
Not in the shape in which he plies
At Miss's elbow when she lies;
Or stands before the nurs'ry doors,
To take the naughty boy that roars;
But without sawcer eye or claw,
Like a grave barrister at law.

Hans Carvel, lay aside your grief,
The devil says; I bring relief,
Relief, says Hans: pray let me crave
Your name, Sir,—Satan.—Sir, your slave;
I did not look upon your feet:
You'll pardon me:—Ay now I see't:

And pray, Sir, when came you from hell? Our friends there, did you leave them well? All well: but pr'y thee, honest Hans, (Says Satan) leave your complaifance: The truth is this: I cannot stay Flaring in fun-shine all the day: For, entre nous, we helish sprites, Love more the fresco of the nights; And oft'ner our receipts convey In dreams, than any other way: I tell you therefore as a friend. Ere morning dawn, your fears shall end: Go then this evening, Master Carvel, Lay down your fowls, and broach your barrel; Let friends and wine dissolve your care;
Whilst I the great receipt prepare:
To night I'll bring it, by my faith; Believe for once what Satan faith.

10.0

U 27

Seil .

(1)

D NO

心度*

-

HO

HIR

21135 tine.

518

215 h

dVI

nd

Away went Hans: glad? not a little; Obey'd the devil too a tittle; Invited friends some half a dozen, The colonel, and my lady's coufin. The meat was ferv'd; the bowls were crown'd; Catches were fung; and healths went round: Barbadoes waters for the close: 'Till Hans had farely got his dose : The colonel toafted to the best: The dam mov'd off, to be undrest: The chimes went twelve; the guests withdrew; But when, or how, Hans hardly knew. Some modern anecdotes aver, He nodded in his elbow chair; From thence was carriy'd off to bed: John held his heels, and Nan his head. My lady was disturb'd; new forrow! Which Hans must answer for to morrow.

In bed then view this happy pair; And think how Hymen triumph'd there. Hans, fast asleep, as foon as laid; The duty of the night unpaid:

The waking dame, with thoughts opprest, it That made her hate both him and rest: By fuch a husband, fuch a wife! Twas Acme's and Septimius' life: The lady figh'd: the lover fnor'd: The punctual devil kept his word: Appear'd to honest Hans again; But not at all by madam feen! And giving him a magic ring, Fit for the finger of a king: Dear Hans, faid he, this jewel take, And wear it long for Satan's fake: 'Twill do your business to a hair: For long as you this ring shall wear, As fure as I look over Lincoln, That ne'er shall happen which you think on:

Hans took the ring with joy extream;

(All this was only in a dream)

And thrusting it beyond his joint,

'Tis done, he cry'd: I've gain'd my point.

What point, said she, you ugly beast?

You neither give me joy nor rest:

'Tis done.

What's done, you drunken bear?

You've thrust your singer G—d knows where.

ADUTCH PROVERE.

FIRE, water, woman, are man's ruin;
Says wife professor Vander Britin.

By slames a house I hi'rd was lost
Last year: and I must pay the cost.

This spring the rains o'erslow'd my ground:
And my best Flanders mare was drown'd.

A slave I am to Clara's eyes:
The gipsey knows her pow'r, and slies.

Fire, water, woman, are my ruin:
And great thy wisdom, Vander Britin.

PAULO PURGANTI and his Wife: an honest, but a simple pair.

What is this talk? availage a frie

Est enim quiddam, idque intelligitur in omni virtute, quod deceat: quod cogitatione magis à virtute potest qu'am re separari.

Cic. de Off. L. I.

B EYOND the fix'd and fettl'd rules
Of vice and virtue in the schools,
Beyond the letter of the law,
Which keeps our men and maids in awe,
The better fort should set before 'em
A grace; a manner, a decorum;
Something, that gives their acts a light:
Makes 'em not only just, but bright;
And sets 'em in that open fame,
Which witty malice cannot blame.

For 'tis in life, as 'tis in painting:

Much may be right, yet much be wanting;

From lines drawn true, our eye may trace

A foot, a knee, a hand, a face:

May justly own the picture wrought

Exact to rule, exempt from fault:

Yet if the colouring be not there,

The Titian stroke, the Guido air;

To nicest judgment show the piece;

At best 'twill only not displease:

It would not gain on Jersey's eye:

Bradford would frown, and set it by.

Thus in the picture of our minds and the strong back.

The action may be well design'd; with a strong back.

Guided by law, and bound by duty;

Yet want this Je ne scay quo of beauty;

And tho' its error may be such, and some strong and so all.

As Knags and Burge's cannot hit; we be no gain the and T It yet may feel the nicer touch at atol and participated and Of Wicherley's or Congreve's with who concern to but her touch at the control of but the control of the control o

(a)(a)

they paid despite or rot. Streets to material what

What is this talk? replies a friend,
And where will this dry moral end?
The truth of what you here lay down
By fome example shou'd be shown.

With all my heart,—for once; read on.
An honest, but a simple pair
(And twenty other I forbear)
May serve to make this Thesis clear.

A doctor of great skill and fame,

Poulo Purganti was his name,
Had a good, comely, virtuous wife:
No woman led a better life:
She to intrigues was ev'n hard-hearted:
She chuckl'd when a bawd was carted;
And thought the nation ne'er wou'd thrive,
'Till all the whores were burnt alive.

On marry'd men, that dar'd he bad,
She thought no mercy should be had;
They should be hang'd, or starv'd, or stead,
Or serv'd like Romish priests in Swede.
In short, all lewdness she defy'd:
And stiff was her parochial pride.

Yet in an honest way, the dame
Was a great lover of that same;
And could from scripture take her cue,
That husbands should give wives their due.

Her prudence did so justly steer

Between the gay and the severe,

That if in some regards she chose

To curb poor Paulo in too close;

In others she relax'd again,

And govern'd with a looser rein to suppose the severe severe.

Thus the 'frictly did confine to the confine to the (Bleft revolution !) one might fee Eringo roots, and bohea tea. And stroak'd his beard, and squeez'd his hand: Kindly complaind, that after noon He went to pore on books too foon; sales of the land. She held it wholfomer by much, the vd b'voors great at

The doctor understood the call; But had not always wherewithall

The lion's skin too short, you know, (As Plutarch's morals finely show) a might distribute di distribute distribute distribute distribut Was lengthen'd by the fox's tail : we alread to M a fill and And art supplies, where strength may fail.

Unwilling then in arms to meet.

The enemy, he could not beat; He strove to lengthen the campaign, And fave his forces by chicane. Fabius, the Roman chief, who thus

By fair retreat grew Maximus, Shows us, that all the warrior can do, that and figures. With force inferior, is cunclando.

One day then, as the foe drew near, With love, and joy, and life, and dear; Our don, who knew this tittle tattle Did, as a trumpet call to battle;
Thought it extremely a propos, To ward against the coming blow: To ward: but how? ay there's the question; Fierce the affult, unarm'd the baftion,

The doctor feign'd a strange surprise: He felt her pulse; he view'd her eyes;
That beat too fast: these rowl'd too quick:
She was, he said, or would be sick:
He judg'd it absolutely good, That he should purge and cleanse her blood. Spaw waters for that end were got: If they pass'd easily or not,

What matters it? the lady's fever
Continu'd violent as ever.

For a distemper of this kind,

(Blackmore and Hans are of my mind,)

If once it youthful blood infects,

And chiesly of the female sex;

Is scarce remov'd by pill or potion;

Whate'er might be our doctors notion.

One luckless night then, as in bed The doctor and the dame were laid; Again this cruel fever came, High pulse, short breath, and blood in slame. What measures shall poor Paulo keep

With madam in this piteous taking? She like Mackbeth, has murder'd fleep,

And won't allow him rest, tho' waking. Sad state of matters! when we dare Nor ask for peace, nor offer war; Nor Livy nor Comines have shown, What in this juncture may be done. Grotius might own, that Paulo's case is Harder, than any which he places Amongst his Belli and his Pacis.

He strove, alas! but strove in vain. By dint of logic to maintain, That all the fex was born to grieve, Down to her ladyship from Eve. He rang'd his tropes, and preach'd up patience; Back'd his opinion with quotations, Divines and moralists; and run ye on Quite thro' from Seneca to Bunyan. As much in vain he bid her try To fold her arms, to close her eye; Telling her, rest would do her good; If any thing in nature cou'd: So held the Greeks quite down from Galen, Masters and princes of the calling; So all our modern friends maintain (Tho' no great Greeks) in Warwick-lane.

Reduce,

Reduce, my muse, the wand'ring song:

A tale should never be too long.

The more he talk'd, the more fhe burn'd, And figh'd, and toft, and groan'd, and turn'd: At last, I wish, said she, my dear-(And whisper'd fomething in his ear.) You wish! wish on the doctor cries: Lord! when will womankind be wife? What, in your waters? are you mad? Why poison is not half so bad. You'll die before to morrow morning, 'Tis kind my dear, what you advise; a seed on the seed of The lady with a figh replies!

But life you know, at best is pain: And death is what we should disdain. So do it therefore and adieu : 1000 hunter additional and For I will die for love of you. Let wanton wives by death be scar'd: But, to my comfort, I'm prepar'd. Their polyte, it is of the standard to their standard their

THE LADLE.

THE Scepticks think, 'twas long ago,
Since gods came down incognito:
To see who were their friends or foes,
And how our actions fell or rose:
That since they gave things their begining;
And set this whirliging a spinning;
Supine they in their heav'n remain,
Exempt from passion, and from pain:
And frankly leave us human elves,
To cut and shuffle for ourselves;
To stand or walk, to rise or tumble,
As matter, and as motion jumble.

The poets now, and painters hold
This Thesis both absurd and bold:
And your good-natur'd gods, they say,
Descend some twice or thrice a-day;

Condi

Would not avail one fingle furthing:

For when the hero we rehearle,

To grace his actions and our verse;

'Tis not by dint of human thought,

That to his Latium he is brought;

Iris descends by fate's commands,

To guide his steps thro' foreign lands:

And Amphititre clears his way

From rocks and quick-sands in the sea.

And if you see him in a sketch;

(Tho' drawn by Paulo or Carache)

He shows not half his force and strength,

Strutting in armour, and at length:

That he may make his proper figure,

The piece must yet be four yards bigger:

The Nymphs conduct him to the field:

One holds his sword, and one his shield:

Mars standing by afferts his quarrel:

And Fame slies after with a lawrel.

These points, I say of speculation
(As 'twere to save or sink the nation)
Men idly learned will dispute,
Assert, object, consirm, resute:
Each mighty angry, mighty right,
With equal arms sustains the sight;
'Till now no umpire can agree 'em:
So both draw off, and sing Te Deum.

Is it in equilibrio,
If deities descend or no?
Then let th' affirmative prevail,
As requisite to form my tale:
For by all parties 'tis confest,
That those opinions are the best,
Which in their nature most conduce
To present ends, and private use.

Two gods came therefore from above, a second and the Greens, the t'other Jove: The humour was (it feems) to know, the second business and business are business and business and business and business and business a

Could from our own perveriencis case us; and hash on A

Discouring largely on this theme,
O'er hills and dales their godships came;
'Till well nigh tir'd at almost night;
They thought it proper to alight.

Note here, that it as true as odd is,

That in disguise a god or goddess

Exerts no supernat ral powers;

But acts on maxims much like ours.

They fpy'd at last a country farm, is the state of the st Where all was foug, and clean, and warm; For woods before, and hills behind the season of the season at Secur'd it both from rain and wind : Large oxen in the fields were lowing : sunt ? belieft i role Good grain was fow'd: good fruit was growing: Of last year's corn in barns great store; Fat turkies gobbling at the door: And wealth (in short) with peace consented, That people here should live contented: But did they in effect do fo ! out the manufacture in the Have patience, friend and thou shalt know. The honest farmer and his wife, the state that the Two years declin'd from prime of life, Had struggled with the marriage noofe;
As almost ev'ry couple does: Sometimes, my plague! fometimes, my darling! Kissing to day, to morrow snarling;
Jointly submitting to endure
That evil, which admits no cure. Our gods the outward gate unbarr'd: Our farmer met 'em in the yard ; Thought they were folks that loft their way; And ask'd them civilly to stay : Told 'em for supper, or for bed They might go on and be worse sped. So faid, to done; the gods confent; All three into the parlour went: When the war war the They compliment; they fit; they chat;

Fight o'er the wars; reform the flate:

an ald

VOL. I.

A thousand knotty points they clear, and the Till supper and my wife appear.

Jove made his leg, and kis'd the dame:

Obsequious Hermes did the same.

Jove kis'd the farmer's wife, you say.

He did—but in an honest way:

Oh! not with half that warmth and life,

With which he kis'd Amphitryons wife,

Well then, things handsomely were serv'd:

My mistress for the strangers carv'd,

How strong the beer, how good the meat.

How loud they laugh'd, how much they eat,

In epic sumptuous wou'd appear;

Yet shall be pass'd in silence here:

For I should grieve to have it said,

That by a fine description led,

I made my episode too long, which is not been selected to grace my song, and the selec

The grace-cup ferv'd, the cloath away, in a low has Tove thought it time to show his play: Landlord and landlady, he cry'd, on the sale was one too Folly and jefting laid afide, and file borners asserted healt That ye thus hospitably live, and bear normal flector of T .. And strangers with good chear receive, harrow was to Is mighty grateful to your betters, de drive training half And makes e'en gods themselves your debtors. flomit at To give this Thesis plainer proof, Voltage by your essentiating? You have to night beneath your roof A pair of gods: (nay never wonder) a grimmont and a This youth can fly and I can thunder. I'm Jupiter, and he Mercurius, and bran has bell about 120 My page, my fon indeed, but spurious, Form then three wishes, you and madam: you injured? And fure, as you already had 'em,
The things desir'd in half an hour
Shall all be here, and in your pow'r.

Thank ye, great gods the woman fays:
Oh! may your altars ever blaze.
A ladle for our filver dish
Is what I want, is what I wish.

I .uo M

A ladle! cries the man, a ladle! 'Odzooks, Corsica, you have pray'd ill: What should be great you turn to farce: I wish the ladle in your a-

With equal grief and shame my muse. The sequel of the tale pursues: The ladle fell into the room. And fluck in old Corfica's bum. Short-flog no to nad W Our couple weep two wishes past,

And kindly join to form the last.

To ease the woman's aukward pain,

And get the ladle out again. And get the ladle out again.

To have a gurden, madely underfalle?

Baseror to delira, or west st

HIS commoner has worth and parts, and as bank Is prais'd for arms, or lov'd for arts t His head achs for a coronet window win ver yet owild? And who is blefs'd that is not great? And works of

Some sense, and more estate, kind heav'n To this well-lotted peer has giv'n : Das . coo arafaq not What then? he must have rule and sway; sale in a l'

And all is wrong, will he's in play us and bas am to I

The mifer must make up his plumb, and as and I And dares not touch the hourded fum; 101.103 191 bah The fickly dotard wants a wife, and in ode should of To draw of his last dregs of life, not monoi sorred as ?

Against our peace we arm our will : " soot it work Amidst our plenty, fomething still grow with salam o'T For horses, houses, pictures, planting, and at the tal To thee, to me, to him is wanting , 2007 2 2010 2010 T That cruel fomething unpoffers'd un descrices to a roll Corrodes, and leavens all the reft. and or om symmet o'T That fomething, if we could obtain, Would foon create a foture pain: 100 of about on all And to the coffin, from the cradle, a sale rate stant!) 'Tis all a wish, and all a ladle; it bus sound you main o'T

10

Hear.

nettributed dwell with days or leve.

Written at PARIS, 1700. in the beginning of ROBE'S GEOGRAPHY.

A ladde ! crics che well ! less a T | start

F all that William rules. or Robe Describes, great Rhea, of thy globe; When or on post-horse, or in chaise, With much expence, and little cafe, My destin'd miles I shall have gone, By Thames or Mese, by Po or Rhone. And found no foot of earth my own; Great mother, let me once be able To have a garden, house, and stable: That I may read, and ride, and plant, Superior to defire, or want: And as health fails, and years increase, Sit down, and think, and die in peace. Oblige thy fav'rite undertakers To throw me in but twenty acres: This number fure they may allow: For pasture ten, and ten for plow: Tis all that I would wish, or hope, For me and John, and Nell, and Crop. depend the but.

Then, as thou wilt, dispose the rest (And let not fortune spoil the jeft To those, who at the market-rate which the state of Can barter honour for estate.

Now if thou grant's me my request, To make thy vot'ry truly bleft, it is the state of the st Let curst revenge, and faucy pride To some bleak rock far off be ty'd; Nor e'er approach my rural feat, To tempt me to be base and great.

And, Goddess, this kind office done, Charge Venus to command her fon, (Where ever elfe she lets him rove) To shun my house, and field, and grove Peace cannot dwell with hate or love.

Hear,

Hear, gracious Rhea, what I say; And thy petitioner shall pray.

Written in the beginning of MEZERAY's bistory of FRANCE.

at Line et ale

By law and wit, and fword and gun,
In thee is faithfully recited:
And all the living world that view
Thy work, give thee the praifes due,
At once instructed and delighted.

II.

Yet for the fame of all these deeds,
What beggar in the Invalides,
With lameness broke, with blindness smitten,
Wish'd ever decently to die,
To have been either Mezeray,
Or any monarch he has written?

III.

It strange, dear author, yet it true is,
That down from Pharamond to Louis,
All covet life, yet call it pain;
All feel the ill, yet shun the cure;
Can sense this paradox endure?
Resolve me, Cambray, or Fontaine.

IV.

The Man in graver tragic known
(Tho' his best part long since was done)
Still on the stage desires to tarry;
And he who play'd the Harlequin,
After the jest still loads the scene,
Unwilling to retire, tho' weary.

Written

Mean, gracions Risea, what I fay-

Written in the nouveaux interests des PRINCES de l'EUROPE.

B LEST be the princes, who have fought For pompous names, or wide dominion; Since by their error we are taught.

That happiness is but opinion.

ADRIANI MORIENTIS ad animam fluam.

to be due to the free to the west off

A NIMULA, vagula, blandula,
Hospes, comesque corporis,
Quae nunc abibis in loca,
Pallidula, rigida, nudula?
Nec, ut soles, dabis joca,

By Monsieur FONTENELLE.

M A petite ame, ma mignonne
Tu t'en vas done, ma fille, et Dieu sçaçh où tu vas
Tu pars seulette, nue, et tremblotaiste, helas!
Que divendra ton humeur solichonne,
Que deviendront tant de jolis ébats?

I M I T A T E D.

POOR little, pretty, flutt'ring thing,
Must we no longer live together?
And dost thou prune thy trembling wing;
To take thy flight thou knows not whether!
Thy humorous vein, thy pleasing folly
Lies all neglected, all forgot:
And pensive, wav'ring, melancholy
Thou dread'st and hop'st thou know'st not what.

A passage in the MORIE ENCOMIUM of ERASMUS imitated.

Thou, like the Bapaik, flore the God was fest

In a wful pomp, and melancholy state,

See settled Reason on the judgment seat;

Around her croud Distrust, and Doubt, and Fear,

And thoughtful Foresight, and tormenting Care;

Far from the throne, the trembling Pleasures stand.

Chain'd up, or exil'd by her stem command.

Wretched her subjects, gloomy sits the queen;

Till happy Chance reverts the cruel scene;

And apish folly with her wild resert.

Of wit and jest disturbs the solemn court.

See the fantastic minstrelfy advance,
To breathe the song, and animate the dance, and blest the usurper! happy the surprize!
Her mimic postures catch our captive car;
Her jingling bells affect our captive car;
And in the sights we see, and sounds we hear,
Against our judgment the our sense employs:
The laws of troubl'd Reason she destroys:
And in their place rejoices to indite the surprise of mirth, and plans of loose desight.

To Dr. SHERLOCK, on his PRACTICAL DISCOURSE concerning DEATH.

FORGIVE the muse, who in unhallow'd strains. The saint one moment from his God detains: For sure, whate'er you do, whate'er you are, 'Tis all but one good work, one constant pray'r: Forgive her; and intreat that God, to whom Thy savour'd vows with kind acceptance come, To raise her notes to that sublime degree, Which suits a song of piety and thee.

Wond'rous good man! whose labours may repel.
The force of fin, may stop the rage of hell:

. THEM I

Thou, like the Baptist, from thy God was fent The crying voice, to bid the world repent.

Thee Youth shall study, and no more engage
Their flatt'ring wishes for uncertain Age;
No more with fruitless care, and cheated strife;
Chase sleeting pleasure thro' this maze of life;
Finding the wretched all they here can have,
But present food, and but a suture grave:
Each, great as Philip's victor son, shall view
This abject world, and weeping, ask a new.
Decrepit Age shall read thee, and confess,
Thy labours can asswage, where med'eines cease:
Shall bless thy words, their wounded soul's relief,
The drops that sweeten their last dregs of life:
Shall look to heav'n, and laugh at all beneath:
Own riches gather'd, trouble; same a breath;
And life an ill, whose only cure is death.

Thy even thoughts with so much plainness flow,
Their sense untutor'd Infancy may know:
Yet to such height is all that plainness wrought;
Wit may admire, and letter'd Pride be taught:
Easie in words, thy style in sense sublime:

On its bleft steps each age and fex may rise:
'Tis like the ladder in the Patriarch's dream,

Its foot on earth, its height above the skies.

Diffus'd its virtue, boundless is its pow'r:

'Tis publick health, and universal cure:

Of heav'nly manna 'tis a second feast,

A nation's food, and all to ev'ry taste.

To its last height mad Britain's guilt was rear'd:

And various Death for various crimes she fear'd.

With your kind work her drooping hopes revive:

You bid her read, repent, adore, and live:

You wrest the bolt from Heaven's avenging hand;

Stop ready Death, and save a sinking land.

O! fave us still: still bless us with thy stay;
O! want thy heav'n, 'till we have learnt the way.
Refuse to leave thy destin'd charge too soon;
And for the church's good, defer thy own.

O! live; and let thy works urge our belief;
Live to explain thy doctrine by thy life;
'Till future Infancy, baptiz'd by thee,
Grow ripe in years, and old in piety;
'Till Christians, yet unborn, be taught to die.

Then in full age, and hoary holinefs
Retire, great teacher, to thy promis'd blifs:
Untouch'd thy tomb, uninjur'd be thy dust,
As thy own fame among the future just;
'Till in last founds the dreadful trumpet speaks:
'Till Judgment calls; and quicken'd Nature wakes:
'Till thro' the utmost earth, and deepest sea
'Untouch'd the utmost earth, and deepest sea
'Till thro' the utmost earth, and deepest sea
'Till thro' the utmost earth, and deepest sea
'Untouch'd the utmost earth, and deepest sea
'Till thro' the utmost earth, and d

CARMEN SECULARE, for the year 1700. To the KING.

Aspice, venturo latentur ut omnia saclo:
O mihi tam longa maneat pars ultima vita.
Spiritus, et quantum sat erit tua dicere sacta!
Virg. Eclog. 4.

Thy elder look, great Janus cast
Into the long records of ages past;
Review the years in fairest action drest
With noted white, superior to the rest;
Æras deriv'd, and chronicles begun
From empires founded, and from battles won:
Show all the spoils by valiant kings atchiev'd,
And groaning nations by their arms reliev'd;
The wounds of patriots in their country's cause,
And happy pow'r sustain'd by wholsome laws:

In comely rank call every merit forth; and has a swil ! O Imprint on ev'ry act its flandard worth: dislam of agil The glorious parallels then downward bring, it is the To modern wonders, and to Britain's king. With equal justice and historic care Their laws, their toils, their arms with his compare: Confess the various attributes of fame and and and and Collected and compleat in William's name is b souosall

To all the lift ning world relate, in small a wo year A (As thou dolt his flory read) and abaged find at Il The That nothing went before for great, a mongon lift. And nothing greater can fucceed. The bard parties Prestabline

Thy native Latium was thy darling care, Prudent in peace, and terrible in war : The boldest virtues that have govern'd earth From Latium's fruitful womb derive their birth.

Then turn to her fair-written page : From dawning childhood to establish'd age, The glories of her empire trace;

Confront the heroes of thy Roman race: And let the justest palm the victor's temples grace,

The fon of Mars reduc'd the trembling fwains, And spread his empire o'er the distant plains; But yet the Sabins violated charms Obscur'd the glory of his rising arms. Numa the rights of strict religion knew: On ev'ry altar laid the incense due;

Unskill'd to dare the pointed spear, Or lead the forward youth to noble war. Stern Brutus was with too much horror good, Walter Holding his Fasces stain'd with filial blood. Fabius was wile, but with excels of care; He fav'd his country, but prolong'd the war; While Decius, Paulus, Curius, greatly fought, wood?

And by their drice examples taught in antirious bath How wild defires thould be controul'd, shoow ad I And how much brighter virtue was, than gold : and bank

They

They scarce their swelling thirst of same could hide; And boafted poverty with too much pride vone abun bak Excess in youth made Scipio less rever'd : is and being id And Cate duing, feem'd to own, he fear'd oblish but Julius with honour tam'd Rome's foreign foes: But patriots fell, e'er the Dictator rofe. And while with clemency Augustus reign'd; The monarch was ador'd; the city chain'd. The chief full dying, or the VI wets

With justest honour be their merits drefter and and that I But be their failings too confest; , out of a series at the Their virtue, like their Tyber's flood on noisdo out T. Rolling, its course design'd the country's good: But oft the torrent's too impetuous speed From the low earth tore some polluting weed: And with the blood of Jove there always ran an read Hill Some viler part, fome tincture of the man. the street little and the fur rivals his for arestonic.

Few virtues after these so far prevail, But that their vices more than turn the scale: Valuor grown wild by pride, and pow'r by rage, Did the true charms of majesty impair: Rome by degrees advancing more in age, Show'd fad remains of what had once been fair: 'Till heav'n a better race of men fupplies;' And glory shoots new beams from westeren skies.

Turn then to Pharamond, and Charlemain, And the long heroes of the Gallick strain; Experienc'd chiefs, for hardy prowefs known, And bloody wreaths in vent'rous battles won. From the first William, our great Norman king, The bold Plantagenets, and Tudors bring, Illustrious virtues, who by turns have rose, In foreign fields to check Britannia's foes. With happy laws her empire to fustain; And with full pow'r affert her ambient main; But sometimes too industrious to be great, Nor patient to expect the turns of fate, X. Deferior

They: open'd camps deform'd by civil fight: somet wolf And made proud conquelt trample over right : 10 100 Disparted Britain mourn'd their doubtful fway at it should And dreaded both, when seither would obey. how and VIE Sold housed this sollet

From Didier and imperial Adolph trace The glorious offspring of the Naffau race, ive describe ad I Devoted lives to publick liberty; The chief still dying, or the country free. Then fee the kindred blood of Orange flow, From warlike Cornet, thro' the loins of Beau; Thro' Chalon next, and there with Naffau join, From Rhone's fair banks transplanted to the Rhine. Bring next the royal lift of Stuarts forth, and and all a Undaunted minds, that rul'd the rugged north; 'Till heav'n's decrees by rip'ning times are shown; 'Till Scotland's kings ascend the English throne; And the fair rivals live for ever one.

Janus, mighty deity, the trigger of the Be kind; and as thy fearthing eye Does our modern flory trace, Finding some of Stuart's race Unhappy, pass their annals by: No harsh reflection let remembrance raise: Forbear to mention what thou canst not praise: work be A But at thou dwell'ft upon that heav'nly * name, To grief for ever facred, as to fame, Oh! read it to thyself; in silence weep; And thy convulsive forrows inward keep; Lest Britain's grief should waken at the found; And blood gush fresh from her eternal wound.

Whither would'st thou further look? Read William's acts, and close the ample book : Perule the wonders of his dawning life How, like Alcides, he began; and how hat

With infant patience calm'd feditious strife, and most self And quell'd the foakes which round his cradle ran.

. MARY.

X. Describe

X.

Describe his youth, attentive to alarms,
By dangers form'd, and perfected in arms:
When conqu'ring, mild; when conquer'd, not disgrac'd;
By wrongs not lessen'd, nor by triumphs rais'd:
Superior to the blind events
Of little human accidents;
And constant to his first decree,
To curb the proud, to set the injur'd free;
To bow the haughty neck, and raise the suppliant knee.

XI.

His opening years to riper manhood bring;
And see the heroe perfect in the king;
Imperious arms by manly reason sway'd,
And pow'r supreme by free consent obey'd:
With how much haste his mercy meets his foes;
And how unbounded his forgiveness flows:
With what desire he makes his subjects bless'd,
His savours granted ere his throne address'd:
What trophies o'er our captiv'd hearts he rears,
By arts of peace more potent, than by wars:
How o'er himself, as o'er the world, he reigns,
His morals strength'ning, what his law ordains.

XII.

Thro' all his thread of life already fpun, Becoming grace and proper action run: The piece by Virtue's equal hand is wrought, Mixt with no crime, and shaded with no fault: No footsteps of the victor's rage Left in the camp, where William did engage: No tincture of the monarch's pride Upon the royal purple fpy'd: His fame, like gold, the more 'tis try'd, The more shall its intrinsic worth proclaim; Shall pass the combat of the searching slame, And triumph o'er the vanquish'd heart, For ever coming out the same, And losing nor its lustre nor its weight. Vol. I. XIII. Janus

Janus be to William just; To faithful hiltory his actions trust: Command her, with peculiar care To trace each toil, and comment ev'ry war: His faving wonders bid her write In characters diffinctly bright; That each revolving age may read The patriot's piety, the hero's deed: And still the fire inculcate to his fon Transmissive lessons of the king's renown; That William's glory still may live; When all that present art can give, The pillar'd marble, and the tablet brass Mould'ring, drop the victor's praise: When the great monuments of his pow'r Shall now be visible no more: When Sambre shall have chang'd her winding flood; And children ask, where Namur stood;

XIV.

Namur, proud city, how her tow'rs were arm'd! How the contemn'd th' approaching foe 'Till she by William's trumpets was alarm'd, And shook, and funk, and fell/beneath his blow. Jove and Pallas, mighty pow'rs, Guided the hero to the holtile tow'rs. Perseus seem'd less swift in war, When, wing'd with speed, he flew thro' air. Embattel'd nations strive in vain The hero's glory to restrain: Streams arm'd with rocks, and mountains red with fire In vain against his force conspire. Behold him from the dreadful height appear! And lo! Britannia's lions waving there.

XV.

Europe freed, and France repell'd The hero from the height beheld: He spake the word, that war and rage should cease: He bid the Mæse and Rhine in safety flow;

And dictated a lasting peace
To the rejoicing world below.
To rescu'd states, and vindicated crowns
His equal hand prescrib'd their ancient bounds;
Ordain'd, whom ev'ry province should obey;
How far each monarch should extend his sway:
Taught 'em how clemency made pow'r rever'd;
And that the prince belov'd was truly fear'd.
Firm by his side unspotted honour stood,
Pleas'd to consess him not so great as good:
His head with brighter beams frir Virtue deck't,
Than those which all his num'rous crowns resect:
Establish'd Freedom clap'd her joyful wings;
Proclaim'd the first of men, and best of kings.

XVI.

Whither would the muse aspire
With Pindar's rage, without his fire?
Pardon me, Janus, 'twas a fault,
Created by too great a thought:
Mindless of the god and day,
I from thy altars, Janus, stray,
From thee, and from myself born far away.
The fiery Pegasus disdains

To mind the rider's voice, or bear the reins When glorious fields and opening camps he views;

He runs with an unbounded loose:

Hardly the muse can sit the headstrong horse;

Nor would she, if she could check his impetuous force;

With the glad noise the cliffs and vallies ring;

While she thro' earth and air pursues the king.

XVII.

She now beholds him on the Belgic shore; Whilst Britain's tears his ready help implore, Dissembling for her sake his rising cares, And with wise silence pond'ring vengeful wars.

She thro the vengeful ocean now Views him advancing his auspicious prow; Combating adverse winds and winter seas, Sighing the moments that defer our ease;

and

L 2

Daring to weild the scepter's dang'rous weight,
And taking the command, to save the state:
Tho' ere the doubtful gift can be secur'd,
New wars must be sustain'd, new wounds endur'd.

XVIII.

Thro' rough Hibernia's camps, the founds alarms, And kingdoms yet to be redeem'd by arms; In the dank marshes finds her glorious theme; And plunges after him thro' Boyn's fierce stream. She bids the Nereids run with trembling haste, To tell old Ocean how the hero past. The god rebukes their fear, and owns the praise Worthy that arm, whose empire he obeys.

XIX.

Back to his Albion she delights to bring The humblest victor, and the kindest king. Albion with open triumph would receive

Her hero, nor obtains his leave:
Firm he rejects the altars she wou'd raise;
And thanks the zeal, while he declines the praise.
Again she follows him thro' Belgia's land,
And countries often sav'd by William's hand;
Hears joyful nations bless those happy toils,
Which freed the people, but return'd the spoils.
In various views she tries her constant theme;
Finds him in councils, and in arms the same:
When certain to o'ercome, inclin'd to save,
Tardy to vengeance. and with mercy, brave.

XX.

Sudden another scene employs her sight:
She sets her hero in another light:
Paints his great mind superiour to success,
Declining conquest, to establish peace:
She brings Astrea down to earth again,
And quiet, brooding o'er his suture regin.

XXI.

Then with unweary'd wing the goddess foars
East, over Danube and Propontis' shoars;
Where jarring empires ready to engage,
Retard their armies, and suspend their rage;
'Till William's word, like that of fate, declares,
If they shall study peace, or lengthen wars,
How sacred his renown for equal laws,
To whom the world defers its common cause!
How fair his friendships, and his leagues how just,
Whom ev'ry nation courts, whom all religions trust.

XXII.

From the Mæotis to the northern fea. The goddess wings her desp'rate way; Sees the young Muscovite, the mighty head, Whose sovereign terror forty nations dread, Inamour'd with a greater monarch's praise, And passing all the earth to his embrace: She in his rule beholds his Volga's force, O'er precipices with impetuous fway Breaking, and as he rowls his rapid course, Drowning, or bearing down, whatever meets his way. But her own king she likens to his Thames, With gentle course devolving fruitful streams: Serene yet strong, majestic yet sedate, Swift without violence, without terror great. Each ardent nymph the rifing current craves: Each shepherd's pray'r retards the parting waves: The vales along the bank their fweets disclose: Fresh flow'rs for ever rise: and fruitful harvest grows.

XXIII.

Yet whether wou'd th' adventurous goddefs go?
Sees she not clouds, and earth, and main below?
Minds she the dangers of the Lycian coast,
And fields, where mad Bellerophon was lost?
Or is her tow'ring flight reclaim'd,
By seas from Icorus's downfal nam'd?

Vain is the call, and useless the advice: To wife persuasion deaf and human cries,

Yet upward she incessant slies;
Resolv'd to reach the high empyrean sphere,
And tell great Jove, she sings his image here;
To ask for William an olympic crown,
To Chromius' strength, and Theron's speed unknown:
'Till lost in trackless fields of shining day,

Unable to discern the way,
Which Nassau's virtue only could explore,
Untouch'd unknown, to any muse before,
She, from the noble precipies thrown,
Comes rushing with uncommon ruin down.

Glorious attempt! unhappy fate!

The fong too daring, and the theme too great!

Yet rather thus she wils to die,

Than in continu'd annals live, to sing

Than in continu'd annals live, to fing
A fecond heroe, or a vulgar king;
And with ignoble lafety fly
In fight of earth, along a middle fky.

XXIV.

To Janus altars, and the numerous throng,
'That round his temple press,
For William's life, and Albion's peace,
Ambitious muse reduce the roving song.
Janus, cast thy forward eye
Future, into great Rhea's pregnant womb;
Where young ideas brooding lie,
And tender images of things to come
'Till by thy high commands releas'd;
'Till by thy hand in proper atoms dress'd,
In decent order they advance to light;
Yet then too swiftly sleet by human sight;
And meditate too soon their everlasting slight.

XXV.

Nor beaks of ships in naval triumph born, Nor standards from the hostile ramparts torn, Nor trophies brought from battles won, Nor oaken wreath, nor mural crown Can any future honours give

To the victorious monarch's name:
The plenitude of William's fame
Can no accumulated flores receive.
Shut then, auspicious god, thy facred gate.
And make us happy, as our king is great.

Be kind, and with a milder hand,
Closing the volume of the finish'd age,
(Tho' noble 'twas an iron page)

A more delightful leaf expand,

Free from alarms, and herce Bellona's rage:
Bid the great months begin their joyful round,
By Flora fome, and fome by Ceres crown'd;

Teach the glad hours to scatter, as they fly,
Soft quiet, gentle love, and endless joy:
Lead forth the years for peace and plenty fam'd,
From Saturn's rule, and better metal nam'd.

XXVI.

Nor dread the bold invaders hand;

Nor dread the bold invaders hand;

From adverse shores in safety let her hear

Foreign calamity, and distant war;

Of which let her, great Heav'n, no portion bear.

Betwixt the nations let her hold the scale:

And as she will, let either part prevail:

Let her glad vallies smile with wavy corn:

Let sleecy slocks her hills adorn:

Around her coast let strong defence be spread:

Let fair abundance on her breast be shed:

And heav'nly sweets bloom round the goddess' head.

XXVII.

Where the white towers and ancient roofs did stand,
Remains of Wolfey's or great Henry's hand,
To age now yielding, or devour'd by stame;
Let a young phenix raise her tow'ring head:
Her wings with lengthen'd honour let her spread;
And by her greatness shew her builder's fame:
August and open, as the hero's mind,
Be her capacious courts design'd:

Let ev'ry facred pillar bear

Trophies of arms, and monuments of war,
The king shall there in Parian marble breathe,
His shoulder bleeding fresh: and at his feet
Difarm'd shall lie the threat'ning Death:
(For so was saving Jove's decree compleat,)
Behind that angel shall be plac'd, whose shield
Sav'd Europe, in the blow repell'd:
On the sirm basis, from his oozy bed;
Boyn shall raise his laurel'd head;
And his immortal stream be known,
Artfully waving thro' the wounded stone.

XXVIII.

And thou, imperial Windsor, stand enlarg'd, With all the monarch's trophies charg'd:

Thou, the fair heav'n, that dost the stars inclose, Which William's bosom wears, or hand bestows
On the great champions who support his throne,
And virtues nearest to his own.

XXIX.

Round Ormond's knee, thou ty'st the mystic string,
That makes the knight companion to the king.
From glorious camps return'd, and foreign fields,
Bowing before thy sainted warrior's shrine,
Fast by his great forefather's coats, and shields
Blazon'd from Bohun's, or from Butler's line,
He hangs his arms; nor fears those arms should shine
With an unequal ray; or that his deed

With paler glory should recede, Eclips'd by theirs, or lessen'd by the same Ev'n of his own maternal Nassau's name.

XXX.

Thou smiling see's great Dorset's worth confest, The ray distinguishing the patriots breast: Born to protect and love, to help and please; Sov'reign of wit, and ornament of peace, O! long as breath informs this sleeting frame, Ne'er let me pass in silence Dorset's name; Ne'er cease to mention the continued debt, Which the great patron only would forget And duty, long as life, must study to acquit.

XXXI.

Renown'd in thy records shall Ga'ndish stand,
Asserting legal pow'r, and just command:
To the great house thy favour shall be shown,
The father's star transmissive to the son.
From thee the Talbot's and the Seymour's race
Inform'd, their sire's immortal steps shall trace:
Happy may their sons receive

The bright reward, which thou alone can'il give:

XXXII.

And if a god these lucky numbers guide;
If sure Apollo o'er the verse preside;
Jersy, belov'd by all (for all must feel
The instruction of a form and mind,
Where comely grace and constant virtue dwell,
Like mingl'd streams, more forcible when joind)]
Jersy shall at thy alters stand;
Shall there receive the azure band,
That fairest mark of favour and of same,
Familiar to the Villier's name,

XXXIII.

Science to raife, and knowledge to enlarge,

Be our great master's suture charge;

To write his own memoirs, and leave his heirs

High schemes of government, and plans of wars;

By fair rewards our noble youth to raise

To emulous merit, and to thirst of praise

To lead them our from ease ere opening dawn,

Through the thick forrest and the distant lawn,

Where the sleet stag employs his ardent care;

And chases give them images of war.

To teach them vigilance by false alarms;

Inure them in seign'd camps to real arms;

Practise them now to curb the turning steed,

Mocking the soe; now to his rapid speed

To give the rein, and in the full career, To draw the certain fword, or fend the pointed spear.

XXXIV.

Let him unite his subjects hearts,

Planting societies for peaceful arts;

Some that in nature shall true knowledge found;

And by experiment make precept found;

Some that to morals shall recall the age,

And purge from vitious dross the sinking stage;

Some that with care true eloquence shall teach,

And to just idioms six our doubtful speech:

That from our writers distant realms may know

The thanks we to our monarch owe;

And schools profess our tongue through ev'ry land,

That has invok'd his aid, or blest his hand.

XXXV.

Let his high pow'r the drooping Muses rear.
The Muses only can reward his care;
'Tis they that give the great Atrides' spoils:
'Tis they that still renew Uysses' toils:
To them by smiling Jove 'twas giv'n to save Distinguish'd patriots from the common grave;
To them great William's glory to recall,
When statutes moulder, and when arches fall.
Nor let the Muses, with ungrateful pride,

The fources of their treasure hide:
The heroe's virtue does the string inspire,
When with big joy they strke the living lyre:
On William's same their sate depends:
With him the song begins: with him it ends.
From the bright essuence of his deed
They borrow that resected light,
With which the lasting lamp they seed,
Whose beams dispel the lamps of envious night.

XXXVI.

Through various climes, and to each distant pole In happy tides let active commerce roll: Let Britain's ships export an annual sleece, Richer then Argos brought to ancient Greece: Rerturning loaden with the shinning stores, Which ly profuse on either India's shores. As our high vessels pass their wat'ry way, Let all the naval world due homage pay; With hasty reverence their top-honours lower, Confessing the afferted power,

To whom by fate 'twas given with happy fway
To calm the earth and vindicate the fea.

XXXVII.

Our pray'rs are heard our master's sleets shall go As far as winds can bear or waters slow, New lands to make, new Indies to explore In worlds unknown to plant Britannia's pow'r; Nations yet wild by precepts to reclaim, And teach 'em arms and arts, in William's name.

XXXVIII.

With humble joy and with respectful sear
The list'ning people shall this story hear,
The wounds he bore the dangers he sustain'd,
How far he conquer'd. and how well he reign'd;
Shall own his mercy equal to his same,
Enquiring how and when from heav'n he came;
And form their children's accents to his name.
Their regal tyrants shall with blushes hide
Their little lusts of arbitrary pride,

Nor bear to fee their vassals ty'd: When William's virtues raise their opening thought, His forty years for publick freedom fought, Europe by his haud sustain'd,

His conquest by his piety restrain'd And o'er himself the last great triumph gain'd.

XXXIX.

No longer shall their wretched zeal adore
Ideas of destructive power.

Spirits that hurt' and godheads that devour:
New incense shall they bring, new alters raise,

And

And fill their temples with a stranger's praise;

When the great father's character they find

Visibly stampt upon the heroe's mind;

And own a present deity confest,

In valour that preserv'd, and power that bless'd.

XL.

Through the large convex of the azure sky
(For thither nature casts our common eye)
Fierce meteors shoot their arbitary light;
And comets march with lawless horror bright:
Those hear no rule, no righteous order own;
Their influence dreaded, as their ways unknown:
Thro' threaten'd lands they wild destruction throw,
'Till ardent prayer averts the public woe:
But the bright orb that blesses all above,
The sacred sire, the real son of Jove,
Rules not his actions by capricious will;
Nor by ungovern'd power declines to ill:
Fix'd by just laws he goes for ever right:
Man knows his course, and thence adores his light.

XLI.

O Janus! would intreated fate conspire
To grant what Britain's wishes would require;
Above, that sun should cease his way to go,
Ere William cease to rule and bless below:

But a relentless destiny
Urges all that e'er was born:
Snatch'd from her arms, Britannia once must mourn
The demi-god: the earthly half must die,
Yet if our incense can your wrath remove;
If human prayers avail on minds above;
Exert, great god, they int'rest in the sky;
Gain each kind pow'r, each guardian deity,

That conquer'd by the publick vow,
They bear the dismal mischief far away:
O! long as utmost nature may allow,
Still be our master's life thy happy care:
Still let his blessings with his years increase:

I

To his laborious youth confum'd in war, and range and Add lasting age, adorn'd with peace: Let twisted olive bind those laurels fast, Whose verdure must for ever last.

XLII.

Long let this growing Æra bless his sway: And let our fons his prefent rule obey: On his fure virtue long let earth rely, And late let the imperial eagle fly, To bear the heroe thro' his father's fky. To Leda's twins, or he whose glorious speed, On foot prevail'd, or he who tam'd the fleed: To Hercules, at length absolv'd by fate From earthly toil, and above envy great; To Virgil's theme, bright Cytherea's fon. Sire of the Latian, and the British throne:

To all the radiant names above, Rever'd by men, and dear to Jove. Late, Janus, let the Naffau-star 1800 and hered? New-born, in rifing majesty appear, To triumph over vanquish'd night, And guide the prosp'rous mariner With everlasting beams of friendly light.

CARMEN SECULARE, Latine redditum Per THO. DIBBEN, & Trin: Coll: Cant.

-Ego dis amicum, Seculo festas referente luces, Reddidi carmen-

A N E Bifrons, priscos a tergo respice lapsi Annales ævi, felicesque ordine longo Evolvas fastos, quos cætera tempora fupra Conspicuos albo, sec'lis monumenta futuris Urbis fundatæ, et parti posuere triumphi. Aggredere infignes spoliis, lauroque decoros Enumerare duces, quos nobilis ira gementem Impulit ulcisci populum; qui facra cruore

Vot. I.

lura

Jura patrum sanxère suo; sceptrisve potiti Miserunt lætum placidis sub legibus orbem.

Agmine perpetuo feries ornata laborum "
Procedat; suus omnis honos, sua debita quemque
Laus inscripta notet: tum nostra ad tempora casus
Insignes ducas, famamque et fata parentum
Mirac'lis oppone novis, regique Britanno.
Dumque side, curaque pari per singula curris;
Dum varios recolis populos, variosque labores;
Et studia, et leges, pugnataque prœlia seris
Temporibus mandas; tute ipse satebere, Jane,
Omnium in Auriaco cumulari nomine samam:
Et dicis orbi attonito; nil secula tale
Prima tulere hominum, nil majus postera reddent.

Vertice sublimi surgat, tua maxima cura.

Bello et pace potens Latium: fortissima corda,

Egregios rerum dominos dabat Italia tellus,

Felix prole virum; soccundam hanc aspice gentem,

Romanosque tuos; huc vertere, et altius omnem

Nascentis prima repetens ab origine regni

Expedias famam; pulchro in certamine pubem

Oppone Ausoniam; et cedat sua palma merenti.

Si potuit ferro Latii turbare colonos Palantes Mavorte satus, si rustica late Regna domare armis; raptæ fine more Sabinæ, Surgenti famæ, coeptisque ingentibus obstant. Sacra Deum, fanctasque aras, et templa tueri Cura Numam subiit: sed frigida dextera bello. Non hastam torquere sciens, ensemque rotare Fulmineum, juvenumque manus armare frementum. Confilis, esto, Fabii Romana vigebant Arma: at res omnes gelide tardeque ministrans, Dilator nimium fapiens ingrata trahebat Bella. Quid immani patrem pietate cruentum Ultorem Brutum referam, fortesque sub armis Amilium, Decium, Curium? Tot magna animorum Nos exempla monent, qua possit lege libido Frænari, et quantum cedat virtutibus aurum : Hos quoque fed nimium gaudens popularibus auris. Hos rapit ambitio, tumidoque superbia fastu Oftentans Ostentans humilesque casas, parvosque penates. Sit quanquam illustris, primos inglorius annos Scipiades egit: nec mens invicta Catonis Semper erat, tunc fassa metum, vel visa fateri, Cum cessit fato, et lucem indignata refugit. Julius externos frustra domat, omnia Romæ Sabjiciens, Romamque sibi; surgitque triumphans Afflictos cives super, oppressumque senatum. Imperium lene Augustus, patriamque subactam Mollia vinc'la pati justi: sed vincula passa est, Purpureum cultu insolito venerata tyrannum.

Fas veterum laudes justis celebrare triumphis: Fas etiam errores, atque omnia ferre fub auras. Stare loco impatiens magna fele impete versat Vivida vis animi, patrii ceu Tybridis unda, Cui nunc lene fluens rigat agros dulcis aquæ fons; Vortice nunc rapido volvit se turbidus amnis; Et limo castas obscoeno pollute undas: Diis quanquam geniti, atqui invicti viribus effent, Mortalem infecto fash sunt sanguine matrem. Decolor ex illo vițiis dominantibus ætas Degenerare aufa est: rumpit vine'la omnia miles Acer, acerba fremens; majestatemque verendam Effrænis violat rabies; jam segnior annis Deficit illa olim rerum pulcherrima Roma; Heu! vix agnosces veteris vestigia formæ; Donec gens divûm, nati venientibus annis, Heroum novus ordo datur, nova lumina furgunt; Hesperioque dies melior procedit olympo.

Aspice ut insignis spoliis Pharamondus opimisIngreditur, Magnusque aquilis qui lilia junxit
Carolus; inde alii, quos Gallica terra triumphis
Dives alit, genus acre virum, spectataque bello
Pectora. Sed major nunc rerum apparet imago:
Sanguinez en! lauri, victriciaque arma Wilhelmi
Normanni: viden' externis quanta intonet oris
Tudorum manus armipotens, et nomina magna,
Plantagenum metuenda domus! quid plurima Virtus
Amborum potuit, te, victrix Anglia, testor,
Quam labor heroiim imperio maria omnia circum

2

Afferuit

Asseruit, sundansque armis et legibus ornans:
Felix, si nunquam regnandi dira cupido
Cognatas acies paribus concurrere telis
Egisset, patriæque in viscera vertere vires:
Illa assicta sedet, variis incerta triumphis,
Cui det colla jugo, quem sit passura tyrannum.

Quo desideri soboles, quo Cæsar Adolphus,
Nassoviique alii rapiunt, celeberrima proles?
Omnes illustres, omnes in utrumque parati,
Aut patriam tutari, aut certæ occumbere morti,
Hos juxta Auriacus pleno sluit agmine sanguis,
Imortale genus: primusque en! martius auctor
Corniger: inde heros qui Bello a corpore nomen
Obtinuit; nosco crines, frontemque venustam
Francigenæ juvenis; domus hinc Chalonia mixta est
Nassoviis; sedesque novas, Rhenumque bicornem
Inde petit, linquens Rhodanum, ripamque sonantem.

Jamque Stuartiadum feries longissima regum
Emicat. Illa diu magna ditione tenebat
Esfrænem populum, et duris regna horrida glebis:
Donec fata deûm, et lustris labentibus ætas
Scotorum manibus transcribi sceptra jubebant
Anglica; seceruntque omnes uno ore Britannos.

Atque hic, magna deus, cum res scrutabere nostras. Sis bonus O! passinque oculos per cuncta ferenti Si quid forti tibi occurrat de gente Stuartum Infelix; (utcunque ferent ea fata minores) Pro patria, obtestor, pro majestate Britanni Imperii, nihil ingratum, nihil acre dolores Obductos vulgare sinas: preme, Jane, tenebris, Quae laudare nequis; teque ad meliora referves. Utque erit ad * NOMEN ventum, quod flebile semper, Semper honoratum, (fic, dii, voluistis) habemus; Supprime fingultus, fubmiffa et voce dolores Hos compesce, tuo ne docta Britannia luctu Ire iterum in lachrymas, iterum gemebunda querelam Integret infandam; stilletque cruore recenti Æternum crudele patens sub pectore vulnus. Quo jam raptus abis? Naffovi, Jane, labores MARIAE. Aggredere

Aggredere O! magnos, atque amplum claude volumen. En! infans victor, nutu dum temperat iras Turbati populi; jacet en Tirynthius alter; Ardentesque hostes, et sibila colla tumentes Sternit; et in cunis infans se vindicat heros. En! quantis tollit se rebus firmior ætas? Quales primitiæ juvenis, bellique ferocis Dura rudimenta, et primis nova gloria in armis? Sublimis marte adverso, mitisque secundo, Eventus omnes, et incluctabile fatum Subjecit pedibus: non mens elata triumphis, Non depressa malis; sed in omnia pectus honestum Fertur idem, fatis contraria fata rependens. Dum curas hominum, dum spes contemnit inanes, Fortunæque vices cæcas; quocunque cadat res, Hoc animo fixum fedet, æternumque fedebit,

" Parcere subjectis, et debellare superbos. En! totum heroem, maturum, et sceptra tenentem Contemplare virum: en! ut justa fulminet ira Terrarum egregius vindex; placidusque volentes Per populos det jura; infelto et leniat hosti Pectora flexanimus victor; mitisque jacentum Dat vitam lachrymis! quo pectora fida fuorum Amplecti studio properat? quam totus in illis? Quam curas pater indulgens descendit in omnes? Nec regem pudet officio certare priorem. Hac arte, O bellis ingens, ingentior alma Morum temperie, devincis corda benignis Affueta imperiis: longos hac arte triumphos, Maxime victor, agis, cum teque, animosque tuorum, Pacatumque regas æquis virtutibus orbem. Per varias vitæque vices, operumque colores Idem cautus honos, metuens et gratia culpæ, Puraque simplicitas tota descripta tabella Effulgit; constansque sibi servatur ad imum. Victoris castra ingrederis? certamina nulla Cum victis, belli nulla horrida signi cruenta Apparent infixa agris; non militis ardor Turbavit pectus; nec purpura picta superbos Induxit regum fastus: sed sama peric'lo

M 3

dere

Explorata

Explorata (velut fulvum fornacibus aurum)
Emicat innocuo: frustra Vulcania pessis
Circum immane fremit: contemptorique minatur
Flamma suo: cæco contra dominata surori
Ardens spectator virtus, pondusque nitoremque
Illæsum servans; et amico vivit in igne.

Unum, Jane, oro (quando nos nostraque morti Debemur) magni faltem mirac'la Wilhelmi Exsuperare, viramque sinas volitare per ora; Ut nati natorum, et qui nascentur ab illis Virtutem ex illo moniti, pulchrumque laborem. Cognoscant, et sancta procul vestigia adorent. Exoriate aliquis, regis qui gesta Britanni, Fataque fortunasque docens, moresque manusque (Argumentum ingens!) vivis committere chartis Aufis, et ferum producere nomen in zvum; Cum statuz, multo cum victum tempore marmor, Æraque labentunt cum bello fævior omni Invidiosa dies famæ monumenta Britannæ Delebit; tardis cum Sabis flexibus ibit Per terras mutata novas; serique nepotes Quærent, qua stabant immania saxa Namurcæ.

En! urbem, dicent, quæ quondam condidit aftris
Ambitiosa caput; toties quæ pertulit omnem
Irrisi nubem belli; sed non ita sensit
Armatos Britonas; non irrita tela Wilhelmi
Experta est; vastis dum victor turribus instans,
Cum populo, et signis viccoricibus, et magnis diis,
Fundamenta quatit; mortaliaque agmina frustra
Contra Nassovium atque Jovem, contraque Minervam
Tela tenent; medio discrimine cædis et ignis,
Ceu Perseus per aperta volans, ipse arduus arces
Oppositas scandit; frustraque objecta retardant
Flumina, slammarumque globi, scopulique minaces:
En! tandem summis insultans, arcibus heros,
Atque Angli juxta, sulgentia signa, leones.

Et jam finis erat; cum victor vertice ab alto Despexit Gallum attonitum, et tum libera vinc'lo Littoraque, et latos populos; pacemque silenti Indussit selicem orbi: longe audit æther, Et terræ, et fluvii; jamque ibat mollior undis
Mosa; ferusque suas Rhenus compescuit iras.
Continuo leges æternaque sædera certis
Imposuit manus æqua locis; quam singula metam,
Et quem quæque serat dominum, quem quæque recuset
Gens, semel edixit; mirantemque admonet orbem,
Quantus amor populi, quanta et reverentia mitem
Prosequitur regem; comes indivisus amico
Adsta Honos lateri; supra caput explicat alas
Libertas sirmata novas; pulchræque sorores,
Et Virtus et Fama, pari discrimine certant,
Utrum ornare magis regemne, virumne deceret.

Quid loquor? aut ubi fum? quis me per opaca viarum Ire furor fuadet? quos musa assurgit in ausus? Dum vatis furias Thebani concipit (ignes O fi conciperet fimiles!) te, Jane, relinquit, Teque, arasque tuas, ut cœlum et sydera tentet: Demens! quæ nimbos et non imitabile fulmen Pindaricum simulare ausa cst. Da, Jane, furenti, Da veniam Muse, sua quam rapit ampla volantem Materia; et tollit volvens sub naribus ignem Pegafus ardua in aftra; neque audit anhelus habenas. Cum latos campos, immensumque aspicit æquor, Expatiatur equus; vix hæret Musa frementi; Nec scit, qua sit iter; nee si sciat, imperet illi. Saxa per, et scopulos, et depressas convalles Insequitur regem; tellusque sub ungue tonanti Icta gemit; reboant fylvæque, et magnus Olympus.

Nunc casus Musa antiquos, annosque reducit
Præteritos, patriisque virum meditatur in arvis.
Hic Britonum motus cura, lachrymisque suorum,
Consilium vultu tegit; et secum ante peractum
Belli et regnorum volvit sub pectore fatum:
Et mox armatas hyberno sydere classes
Molitur; contraque iras cæsique, marisque
Impavidus grande urget iter: tum sanguine multo
Tutandas Anglorum arces; oblataque regna
Occupat; amisso siutantem errare magistro
Sensit; et ipse ratem turbatis rexit in undis.
Jamque alias hine in lachrymas, alia horrida bella,

46000

10-13

10

187

接続

ant.

194

1

14 45 700

ALIEN.

19-25

100

Per desolatæ regna in selicia Iernes

Diva virum sequitur; sluctusque irrumpit in altos
Bovindæ bello undantis; tum Naidas ad se
Impatiens trepidas vocat; hortaturque sorores
Maturare sugam, quantusque emerserat heros,
Oceano narrare patri: vanum ille timorem
Ridet; eamque manum victis agnoscit in undis;
Imperio dignam pelagi, sævoque tridente.

Hinc pleno Britanum victor subit ostia velo
Stans celsa in puppi: pueri, innuptæque puellæ,
Essus celsa in puppi: pueri, innuptæque puellæ,
Essus celsa in puppi: pueri, innuptæque puellæ,
Essus canunt reduci; sed repulit ille molestum
Officium; poscitque animos, laudesque recusat.
Mox charos iterum Belgas, sedesque suorum,
Et patriam, et toties raptos ex hoste penates
Hospes adit: varii populi, diversaque signa,
Externique duces omnes socia arma ferentes
Communem celebrare ducem; quam tardus ad iram,
Quam placidus victor, sottunatusque laborum
Securus palmæ, dum prædam rejicit heros!

Nunc versæ scenæ discedunt: altera rerum
Nunc surgit facies: alia sub luce videri
Heros grandis amat; successuque altior ipso
Innumeris belli spoliis, partisque trophæis
Pacem lætus emit; jam Virgo reddita terras
Pacatus visit; jamque aurea tempora circum
Felices secura quatit Concordia pennas.

Mox ad Danubium, raucæque Propontidis undam, Eöasque plagas alis audacibus ardens
Musa volat; lethi qua jam discrimine parvo
Stant acies, utrinque necem lugubre minantes:
Hi motus animorum, iræ, infandique paratus,
Compressa belli rabie, suspensa tenentur;
Donec consilia ingentis spectata Wilhelmi
Ostendant, pacemne colant, an in arma ferantur;
Quæ regio in terris, ubi regis sædera sancta,
Aut leges placidæ ignotæ? quæ regna per orbem
(Qualemcunque sidem, dominum quemcunque fatentur)
Communem Auriaco dubitent submittere causam?

Hinc ad Hyperboream glaciem, montesque nivales

Urget

Urget diva viam; qua Moscoviticus altum Fulminat ad Tana'im Cæfar; nutuque tremendo Jura quaterdenis juvenis dat gentibus unus: Hic tamen, hic Cæfar perculfus nomine regis Majoris, non legatis, neque dulce ministris Officium impatiens cessit; se, se ipse, suumque Objecit caput, infidi maris omnia vincens Tædia, dimidiumque orbis post terga relinquens, Tangeret ut sanctam, per quam stetit Anglia, dextram. Hujus in imperio tumidum, magnumque fluentem Cernere erat Volgam; multa cui spumeus unda, Saxofumque fonans, obstantia pondera torrens Aut fecum rapit, aut immiti gurgite mergit. Sed nostrum, sed Musa suum tibi, Tame, tuisque Rivis assimulat regem: non amnis abundans, Sed plenus per opima virûm fortem absque furore Fundit aquam, tardoque procul languore serenam: Quoscunque O! Britonum lambis pulcherrimus agros, Omnia ibi ridere facis; tibi candida Náis Purpureas inter violas, et suave rubentes Vota facit resoluta rosas: te lentus in umbra Labentem expectat pastor: te mollia prata, Te sitiunt croceis halantes floribus horti.

Quo feror? unde abii? tuque, audaeissima Musa, Quo peritura ruis? si formidabile littus, Si Lycios temnas faltus, fataliaque arva, Bellerophontai qua fignavere furores: I, sequere infidos ventos, nova nomina lapsu Subjectis positura undis: ea surda monenti Ardet in astra magis; perque inconcessa Diei Luxuriens spatia æterni, petit intima divûm Sacra, Jovem similemque Jovis, dictura Wilhelmum: Indefessa illi maturos poscit honores; A alanga annual Illi ut Olympiacæ referantur præmia palmæ, Quam velox Theron, quam vastis viribus ingens Sperabat nunquam Chromius: Musam illius ergo Per nitidos orbes lucis, camposque patentes, Dulcis raptat amor: juvat explorare priorum Curæ iter ignotum: fed inextricabilis error. Et cæcæ ambages, quas una resolvere virtus

Nassovii novit, securam, et vana tumentent
Exsuperant longe divam; jamque æthere toto
Præcipitata agitur; jam torti fulminis instar
Fertur; et hortisicis tonat exanimata ruinis,
O cceptum sublime! inschix exitus ausi
Nobilis! O Musa, et vires pro nomine tanto
Exiguæ! sed sic potius cecidisse juvabit
Audentem, quam vena humili inseriora secutam
Radere iter medium, tutasque extendere pennas.

Nunc ad te, et tua facra, pater, turbamque sonantem (Matres atque viros) que circum plurima clausas Fusa fores, pacem Britonum, vitamque Wilhelmi Ardens implorat, nunc ambitiosa vagantes Musa modos revocet: tuque O! qua secula fronte Jane vides ventura, rheæ genetricis in alvum Descendas, partus ubi semina prima suturi, Et teneræ species, Simulachraque carcere clauso Mixta jacent; donec magnum per inane coacta Mox durare jubes, et rerum sumere sormas. Tum tua vox divine autor, tua cæca relaxat Spiramenta manus; justis emissa siguris Dum vestit junctura decens et amabilis ordo. Sed nimium brevis hora sugam meditata perennem Transt: et æternam repetunt nascentia noctem.

Non de navali surgentes ære triumphi, Captivi currus ereptaque ab hoste trophæa; Non civilis honos quercus, non umbra coronæ Muralis, laurique novum decus addere regi Angliaco possunt; fatis illum conscia virtus, Gestaque sublimem tollunt: ad sydera raptim Vi propria nituntur, opisque haud indiga nostræ. Nunc ergo, ut populus felix cum regi potenti Fortunis paribus furgat; compagibus arctis Claudantur belli porte : et jam, mystice custos, Mitior O! jam, dive, precor, melioribus orbis Auspiciis, aliosque dies, aliumque tenorem Tandem habeat, jubeas; hic ferrea definat ætas (Magna, efto, fed ferrea erat) faffusque metallum Pulchrius, annorum se gratior explicet ordo. Haud iterum pavidos bellum turbabit agrestes;

At fecura quies, at mollis fomnus, amores Jucundi, suavesque joci cum dulcibus horis Perpetuum ducant orbem; hoc à cardine rerum Paulatim incipiant magni procedere menfes : Atque his flava Ceres, his formolifima Flora Aspiret; surgatque novo gens aurea sec'lo.

Immunis belli, dextræque innixa Wilhelmi Terra Britanna sui sedeat ; spectetque ruinas, Et cladem, et lachrymas, quarum pars nulla futura eft. Externas; iræque hominum mileretur inanis, Illa inter motas fatum immutabile gentes Dispenset; vincantque ille quas vincere mavult: Sic noto celfo tuti fub matribus agni Balatu implebunt colles: fic vallibus imis, Irriguos amnes inter, feges aurea in altum Surget; et ipfa fuas mirabitur Anglia meffes : Delicias diva æternas dum pectore pleno Fundet; et ambrofios spirabit vertice odores.

Aulai antique cecis exorta ruinis (Qua turres albas, veterum penetralia regum Wolsei fabricata manu, Henricique labores; Cernere erat) juvenile caput Phœnicis ad instar Regia sublimis tollat, melioribus, oro, Auspiciis; et que fuerit minus obvia flammis. Alta, augusta, ingens, dominoque simillima magno. Pandat se veneranda domus: captiva columnæ Arma ferant facræ, belli monumenta cruenti, Spiculaque, clypeofque, atque horrida fanguine figna: Stabunt et Parii lapides, mediufque Wilhelmus En spirans: humerusque recens a vulnere vivis Rorabit guttis : metuens pro vindice mundi A tergo apparet Genius, capitique minacem Avertit mortem : jacet illa innoxia, inermis (Nam fic consuluit Jovis indulgentia terris) Intrepidi ante pedes herois. Tu quoque magnam Partem opere in tanto, viridi Bovinda reclinans Lecto, habeas, imo senior de gurgite visus Lauriferum quaffare caput: faxum evomit undas; Eternique cadunt cuso de marmore rivi.

es ado no indebita lemen.

Tuque O! quæ famæ fervas monumenta Britannæ,
Regis opus, regumque decus, cape dona tuorum,
Inclyta Winforiæ turris. Tu stellifer æther,
Signa geris, quibus ipse suum et delecta suorum
Pectora distinguit, divisque accedere justit
Nassovius, proprioque pater decoravit honore,

Tu circum Ormondi robustum mystica nectens
Vinc'la genu, potuisti equitem socium addere regi:
Redditus his victor terris, spoliisque potitus,
Suppliciter venerans divi sub Militis aram
Vota facit; veterum juxta decora alta parentum,
Botleros inter, victriciaque arma Bohuni,
Ipse spum clypeum, suaque arma Bohuni,
Ipse spum clypeum, suaque arma supplies
Postibus aptavit, tanti non immemor hares
Nominis aut proavûm dubitans extendere samam;
Utcunque illa novi secum grave pondus honoris
Attulit Ossorida mater Nassovia genti.

Sacvilli tu, diva, latus, tu lumine pectus
Sanctum ornas, ubi dulcis honas, ubi mille placendi
Conjurant artes; labor unus et una voluptas,
Tollere depressos, et sustentare jacentes.
Hos brevis informet fragilis dum spiritus artus,
Indictus nunquam nostris Sacvillus abibit
Carminibus; nunquam labetur pectore chari
Officium capitis; munus quia maximus ille
Confert; collatique olim meminisse recusat.

Jura fidemque patrum, libertatemque Cavendos Afferere audentes, tuus amplo vestit honore, Diva, favor: stabit longum fortuna per ævum Alta domus; patrioque nitebunt sydere nati.

Per te Sancimauri, per te Talbotia proles,
Felices ambo, vestigia magna parentum
Ambo lustrantes, faxum hoc immobile dum tu
Serves, nomina erunt. Tuque, O pars maxima musz,
O decus, O nostrum, cui pulchro in corpore virtus
Emicat, et sincera fides, et gratia morum,
Has, Jersæ, (preces valeant si vatis amici, Si deus hoc carmen, deus hoc inspiret Apollo)
Has tanges aras; hinc cingula sacra decoro
Aptabis lateri, veterisque insignia famæ
Villeriis sueta, et tibi non indebita sumes.

Artibus

Artibus intentum melior tum cura vocabit Heroa Angliacum, mirantem Annalibus orbem Exornare suis, serosque docere nepotes Imperii arcana, et magna exemplaria belli. Hinc, ut virtutem dociles, verumque laborem Cognoscant, laudisque animi accendantur amore; Regis ad exemplum portis se prima juventus Effundens, dum mane novum, dum gramina canent; Per faltus, gelidumque nemus, præruptaque faxa, Nunc cervos turbabit agens; nunc ardua in armis, Et vigil ad vocem, qua fictum buocina fignum Bellica dat, grave martis opus, sub imagine lusus. Paulatim ex tanto affuefcat tolerare magistro: Et nunc altus eques spatiis magna atria circum Curvatis fertur; Juctantia nunc premit ora Bellatoris equi; nunc torto verbere pronus Dat lora, et medio fervens in pulvere, strictum Aut ensem quatit, aut certam jaeit impiger hastam.

Pacis amans, studiisque savens, socia agmina jungant Sancta corona fenum, exemplis monitura minores, Qui virtutis honos, et quid sapientia possit. Hos rerum juvet obscuros penetrare recessus, Et varias causas, naturæ arcana modestæ, Indiciis aperire novis clarifque repertis. Illos degeneri, audentes succurrere secl'o, Cura gravis maneat morum, et labor Hercule dignus, Exonerare repletum immunda forde theatrum. Sermones alii patrios, incertaque verba Ad leges fixas revocent, veneresque decoras; Ut late Angliacis, instructa annalibus orbes Guadeat, et nostram resonet gens, singula linguam, Vindicis ante pedes quecunque effusa Britanni, Miserat aut oppressa preces, aut libera grates. Neglectum in primis carmen, Musamque jacentem Tollat amica manus: nam respondere labori Musa pio novit, regisque rependere amores. Illa patrum cineres fanctos, venerandaque busta Vulgari secernit humo, famamque filenti Vindicat a tumulo: per Musam notus Ulysses Spirat adhuc; coramque virum jam cernere fas est: Mula VOL. I.

Muse Agamemonias palmas, semperque recentes!

Conservare datur lauros: eadem illa Wilhelmi
(Cum statuæ, solidoque arcus de marmore sicti
Desicient) longo nomen sacrum afferet ævo.

Haud vero par officium, partesque premamus
Ingrati alternas; cum nil sine Cæsare pulchrum,
Nil altum Muse labor inchoat: altera junctam
Alterius sic poscit opem, et conjurat amice.

Igneus hine numeris vigor, et eælestis origo;
Hine esfulgentes æterna luce Camænæ,
Informi cedente situ, tenebrisque sugatis,
Invida squallentis vincent oblivia noctis.

Securos Britonum Commercia libera portus
Omni ex parte petent; totum demissa per orbem
Pulchrior hinc Argo, meliori et vellere dives
Annua dona feret; spoliisque redibit onusta,
Indiam in Europam portans, gazamque nitentem,
Quæ dissus jacet, qua sol utrumque recurrens
Aspicit oceanum. Quascunque Britannica pinus
Ingreditur sublimis aquas, submittat honores
Navita quisque suos: puppesque insigne superbum
Inclinent, fasse, quem Tethys omnibus undis
Elegit, dominum; quem vasto immobile fatum
Deltinat imperio, terraque marique potentem.

Audivere preces divi: jamque Anglica classis,
Qua dabit aura viam, tutum per aperta profundi
Curret iter, nova regna petens, nova littora visens,
Ignotumque suis mittens sub legibus orbem.
Alter tum Ganges, atque altera que feret aurum
India Nassovio cedet: populique seroces
Arma, artes, moresque scient, nomenque Wilhelmi.

Suppliciter venerans, demissio lumine stabit
Agmen agreste virum; miramque loquentis ab ore
Historiam eripiens, nunc sama et sata Wilhelmi,
Vulnera, sudorem, palmasque, peric laque discet,
Quæ quibus anteserat dubitans; nunc quantus in armis,
Qualis in hoste suit, quos bello et pace triumphos
Erexit; matres, ut cœlo decidit heros,
Tum natis referent: et vox, quam proferet infans
Prima, Wilhelmus erit: tenebris inhonesta tyranni

Indecores

Indecores capita abscondent, tum dira suorum Spplicia, indignos gemitus, justasque querelas Ferre indignantes; cum conscia fama, pudorque Provocat ad meliora animos, cum bella Wilhelmi Bella quaterdenos læsis pro gentibus annos Confecta audierint, tandemque filentibus armis, (Majus opus) partos felici pace triumphos.

Non dehine hos miseros mysteria dira docebit Barbara relligio: nulla horrida numina finget Vana superstitio, divumque immania monstra; Naffovii virtus cum fe mirantibus offert, Præsentem confessa deum; cum signa decoris Divini, æternæque patent vestigia mentis Herois descripta animis, et vindice dextra, Scilicet horrendi justa fine lege cometæ Incertam lucem Quatiunt, et crine minaces Sanguineo lugubre rubent, triftesque trementi Indicunt iras orbi; nifi publica vota Avertant lævum miseris mortalibus omen. At vero justis mundum qui temperat horis, Vera Jovis proles, coelo purissimus ignis, Non errore vago, cacaque libidine fertur; Certus iter fixum peragit: cursusque diurnos Observant homines, et fanctum sydus adorant.

O Jane, O! divûm si flectere facta liceret; Si parcæ Anglorum precibus, mitescere scirent; Sol iste ante suum cessaret currere cælum, Quam Rex Naffovius terræ se subtrahet orbæ Addendus superis: sed inexorabile numen Omne premit mortale: aderit, volventibus annis, Dira futura dies, et ineluctabile tempus, Cum pars semidei mœsto materna sepulchro Condetur: dominisque suis plorabitur absens. · At vos, O divi, si quid pia vota valebunt, Vos precor, æterni, quorum hæc fub numine tellus, Tuque, O fancte, tuis, bifrons, cælestia firma Pectora confiliis; sociique per æthera divi, Dic, in amicitiam coeant, tecumque Britannum Conjurent servare domum: communibus omnium Orati precibus, magno procul omine triftem,

Dii,

Dii, removete diem; multosque benignius annos
Accumulate sacro capiti: da, Jane, senectam
Immunem curis, placidaque quiete potitam:
Sat bello. Europæque datum est: satis arma juventus
Sensit: et ingentes restatur terra triumphos.
Canitiem novus ornet honos; dum tempora circum
Victrices inter lauros assurgat oliva.

En! hajus, Jane, aufpiciis nascentia longum
Sec'la habeant omen pacis; latique nepotes
Seros jucundis agitent sub legibus annos;
Ante serat cum cælo animam Jovis armiger alto,
Nobile onus, patrioque heros poscatur Olympo;
Ambo ubi Ledæi, ceu qui pedes ibat in hostem,
Geu luctantis equi spumantia qui regit ora;
Magnus ubi Alcides sato, et junonis iniquæ
Sævis ereptus justis; ubi grande Maronis
Argumentum, auctor Latii, reguique Britanni,
Otia agunt: ubi tot radiantia nomina toto
Æthere nota satis, quos omnes æquus amavit
Jupiter, et meritis homines donavimus aris:
Sero, Jane pater, cœlo decus adde patenti
Nassovium sydus, quod amica luce coruscum.
Fulgeat, et dubiis ostendat littora nautis.

te are the distribution of the second second

At you prove the first sent the sent that the sent the sent the sent that the sent the sent that the sent that the sent the sent the sent that the sent the se

为自己的人,但是他们的人,但是是一种人的人,是是这种人的人,是是这种人的人,但是是一种人的人,但是是一种人的人,但是是一种人的人,但是是一种人的人,但是是一种人的人, the or are since the section of the contract o

The Property of the Conference of the Conference in a service that species the transfer

Orac erections, well as fed rational with the

A NO DE

Inscribed to the memory of the Honourable Colonel GEORGE VILLIERS, drowned in the river Play A, in the country of FRIULI, 1703. In imitation of Horace, Ode 28. Lib. 1.

Te maris et terra numeroque carentis arena Mensorem cobibent, Archyta, &c.

131

at.

A

California de la company de la C'AY, dearest Villiers, poor departed friend; (Since fleeting life thus fuddenly must end) Say, what did all thy busic hopes avail, That anxious thou from pole to pole didft fail; Ere on thy chin the springing beard began To spread a doubtful down, and promise man? What profited thy thoughts, and toils, and cares, In vigour more confirm'd, and riper years? To wake ere morning-dawn to loud alarms, And march 'till close of night in heavy arms; To fcorn the fummer funs and winter fnows, And fearch thro' ev'ry clime thy country's foes? That thou might'st fortune to thy fide engage; . That gentle peace might quell Belona's rage; And Anna's bounty crown her foldier's hoary age?

In vain we think that free-will'd man have

In vain we think that free-will'd man has pow'r
To hasten or protract th' appointed hour.
Our term of life depends not on our deed:
Before our birth our funeral was decreed.
Nor aw'd by foresight, nor mis-led by chance,
Imperious death-directs his ebon lance;
Peoples great Henry'stombs; andleadsupHolben'sdance.

Alike must ev'ry state, and ev'ry age.

Sustain the universal tyrant's rage:

For neither William's pow'r, nor Mary's charms

Could or repel, or pacify his arms:

Young Churchill fell, as life began to bloom;

And Bradford's trembling age expects the tomb.

Wildom

Wisdom and eloquence in vain would plead
One moment's respite for the learned head:
Judges of writings and of men have dy'd;
Mecanas, Sackville, Socrates, and Hyde;
And in their various turns the sons must tread
Those gloomy journeys, which their sires have led.

The ancient fage, who did so long maintain,
That bodies die, but souls return again,
With all the births and death he had store,
Went out Pythagoras, and came no more.
And modern As——I, whose capricious thought
Is yet with stores of wilder notions fraught,
Too soon convinc'd, shall yield that sleeting breath,
Which play'd so idly with the darts of death.

Some from the stranded vessel force their way;
Fearful of sate, they meet it in the sea:
Some who escape the sury of the wave,
Sicken on earth, and sink into a grave:
In journeys or at home, in war or peace,
By hardships many, many fall by ease,
Each changing season does its poison bring;
Rheums chill the winter, agues blast the spring:
Wet, dry, cold, hot, at the appointed hour,
All act subservient to the tyrant's pow'r:
And when obedient nature knows his will,
A sty, a grapestone, or a hair can kill.

For restless Proserpine for ever treads In paths unseen, o'er our devoted heads; And on the spacious land, and liquid main Spreads slow disease, or darts afflictive pain: Variety of deaths confirm her endless reign.

On curst Piava's banks the goddess stood,
Show'd her dire warrant to the rising flood;
When what I long must love, and long must mourn:
With fatal speed was urging his return;
In his dear country, to disperse his care,
And arm himself by rest for future war:
To chide his anxious friends officious sears,
And promise to their joys his elder years

Oh! destin'd head; and Oh! severe decree;

Nor native country thou, nor friend shalt see;

Nor war hast thou to wage, nor year to come:

Impending death is thine, and instant doom.

Hark! the imperious goddess is obey'd: Winds murmur; Inows descend; and waters spread Oh! kinsman, friend-Oh! vain are all the cries Of human voice; ftrong destiny replies; Weep you on earth; for he shall sleep below, Thence none return; and thither all must go. Whoe'er thou art, whom choice or business leads To this fad river, or the neighb'ring meads: If thon mayst happen on the dreary shores To find the object which this verse deplores; Cleanse the pale corps with a religious hand From the polluting weed and common fand; Lay the dead heroe graceful in a grave; La Display 100 (The only honour he can now receive) And fragrant mould upon his body throw: And plant the warrior law'rel o'er his brow; Light lie the earth; and flourish green the bough,

So may just heav'n secure thy suture life
From foreign dangers, and domestic strife;
And when th' infernal judge's dismal pow'r
From the dark urn shall throw thy destin'd hour;
When yielding to the sentence, breathless thou
And pale shalt lie, as what thou buriest now;
May some kind friend the piteous object see,
And equal rites perform, to that which once was thee.

PROLOGUE,

Spoken at Court before the QUEEN, on her Majesty's Birth-day, 1704.

SHINE forth, ye planets, with distinguish'd light, As when ye hallow'd first this happy night; Again transmit your friendly beams to earth; As when Britannia joy'd for Anna's birth:

And thou, propitious star, whose facred pow'r Prefided o'er the monarch's natal hour, Thy radiant voyages for ever run, Yielding to none but Cynthia, and the fun: With thy fair aspect still illustrate heav'n : Kindly preserve what thou hast greatly giv'n : Thy influence for thy Anna we implore: Prolong one life; and Britain asks no more: For virtue can no ampler power express, Than to be great in war, and good in peace: For thought no higher wish of bliss can frame. Than to enjoy that virtue still the same. Entire and fure the monarch's rule must prove Who founds her greatuels on her fubjects love :. Who does our homage for our good require: And orders that which we should first defire : Our vanquish'd wills that pleasing force obey : Her goodness takes our liberty away: And haughty Britain yields to arbitrary fway.

Let the young Austrian then her terrors bear, Great as he is, her delegate in war:
Let him in thunder speak to both his Spains,
That in these dreadful isles a woman reigns.
While the bright queen does on her subjects show'r
The gentle blessings of her softer pow'r;
Gives sacred morals to a vicious age,
To temples zeal, and manners to the stage;
Bids the chaste muse without a blush appear;
And wit be that which heav'n and she may hear.

Minerva thus to Perseus lent her shield; Secure of conquest, sent him to the field:

The heroe acted what the queen ordain'd:
So was his same compleat, and Andromede unchain'd,

Mean time admidst her native temples sate. The goddes, studious of her Grecian's sate, Taught them in laws and letters to excell, In acting justly, and in writing well. Thus whilst she did her various pow'r dispose; The world was free from tyrants, wars, and woes: Virtue was taught in verse, and Athens' glory tose with and the definition of the week.

ALETTER to Monsieur Boileau Despreaux; occasioned by the victory at Blenheim, 1704.

— Cupidum, pater optime, vires

Desiciunt: neque enim quivis borrentia pilis
Agmina, nec tracta percuntes cuspide Gallos—

Hor. Sat. 1. L. 2:

and the state of t

SINCE hir'd for life, thy fervile muse must sing.

Successive conquests, and a glorious king;

Must of a man immortal vainly boast;

And bring him lawrels, whatso'er they cost:

What turn wist thou employ, what colours lay.

On the event of that superior day,

In which one English subject's prosprous hand.

(So Jove did will; so Anna did command:)

Broke the proud column of thy master's praise;

Which sixty winters had conspir'd to raise!

From the lost field a hundred standards brought
Must be the work of chance and fortune's fault:
Bavaria's stars must be accue'd, which shone,
That fatal day the mighty work was done;
With rays oblique upon the Gallic sun.
Some Dæmon envying France missed the fight:
And Mars mistook, tho' Louis order'd right.

When thy "young muse invok'd the tuneful nine;
To say how Louis did not pass the Rhine,
What work had we with Wageninghen, Arnhiem,
Places that could not be reduc'd to rhime?
And tho' the poet made his last efforts,
Wurts—who could mention in heroic—Wurts?
But, tell me, hast thou reason to complain
Of the rough triumphs of the last campaign;
The Danube rescu'd and the empire say'd,
Say, is the majesty of verse tetirey'd?

1 1 Show to full earl principle of an ortil

Andt

Epistre 4. du Sr. Boileau Despreaux au Roy.

And would it prejudice thy fofter vein,
To fing the Princes, Louis and Eugene?
Is it too hard in happy verfe to place
The Vans and Vanders of the Rhine and Maes?
Her warriors Anna fends from Tweed and Thames,
That France may fall by more harmonious names.
Canst thou not Hamilton or Lumly bear!
Would Ingoldsby or Palmes offend thy ear?
And is there not a found in Marlbro's name,
Which thou, and all thy brethren ought to claim,
Sacred to verse, and sure of endless same?

Cutts is in meeter fomething harfh to read:

Place me the valiant Gouram in his stead:

Let the intention make the number good:

Let generous Sylvins speak for honest Wood.

And the rough Churchill scarce in verse will stand,

So as to have one thine at his command:

With ease the hard remaining Blenheim's plain,

May close the verse, remembring but the Dane.

I grant, old friend, old foe, (for such we are Alternate as the chance of peace and war)
That we poetic folks, who must restrain
Our measur'd sayings in an equal chain,
Heve troubles utterly unknown to those,
Who let ther fancy loose in rambling prose.

For inflance how, how hard is it for me nome of smoot To make my matter and my verse agree ? The earth back

- In one great day on Hochstet's fatal plain
- French and Bavarians twenty thousand slain;
- Push'd thro' the Danube to the shoars of Styx and Market
- * Squadrons eighteen, battalions twenty fix ;
- Officers captive made and private men, tog poli and be A
- Of these twelve hundred, of those thousands ten. and W
- Tents, amunition, colours, carriages, and an aller and
- Cannon, and kettle-drums'—fweet numbers thefe. do lo
 But is it thus you English bards compose?
 With Runick lays thus tag insipid profe?
 And when you should your heroe's deeds rehearse,

Give us a commissary's list in verle?

ydWiles 4. du fr. Bolton Defreeds an

Why faith Despreaux, there's sense in what you say: I told you where my difficulty lay: So valt, fo numerous were great Blenheim's fpoils, They forn the bounds of verfe, and mock the mufes toils. To make the rough recital aptly chime, Or bring the fum of Gallia's lofs to rhime, 'Tis mighty hard; what poet would essay To count the freamers of my lord mayor's-day? To number all the several dishes drest By honest Lamb, last coronation feast? Or make arithmetic and epic meet, And Newton's thoughts in Dryden's file repeat?

O poet, had it been Apollo's will, That I had shar'd a portion of thy skill : Had this poor breast receiv'd the heavnly beam; Or could I hope my verse might reach my theam; Yet, Bolieau, yet the lab'ring muse should strive, Beneath the shades of Marlbro's wreaths to live Should call aspiring gods to bless her choice; And to their fav'rites ftrain exalt her voice, Arms and a queen to fing; who, great and good, From peacful Thames to Danube's wond'ring flood Sent forth the terror of her high commands, To fave the nations from invading hands, To prop fair liberty's declining cause, And fix the jarring world with equal laws. The queen should fit in Windsor's sacred grove, Attended by the gods of war and love: Both should with equal zeal her smiles implore, To fix her joys, or to extend her pow'r.

LIM

hitch

4 34

20 v al

(80 Brok

a FW

計談

and

ad I

NV.

Scar

On A

品管

TIE.

HEEZ.

MAN

188

But

10

di

Sudden, the Nymphs and Tritons should appear: And as great Anna's fmiles dispel their fear, With active dance should her observance claim; With vocal shell should found her happy name. Their master Thames should leave the neighb'ring shoar, By his strong anchor known, and filver oar; Should lay his enfigns at his fovereign's feet, And audience mild with humble grace intreat. To her his dear defence he should complain, That whilft he bleffes her indulgent reign;

Whilft

Whill furthell feas are by his fleets furvey'd, And on his happy banks each India laid; His bretheren Macs, and Waal, and Rhine, and Saar Feel the hard burthen of oppressive war : That Danube scarce retains his rightful course Against two rebel armies neighb'ring force; And all must weep fad captives to the Sein, Unless unchain'd and freed by Britain's queen. The valiant fov'reign calls her general forth; Neither recites her bounty, nor his worth : She tells him, he must Europe's fate redeem, And by that Labour merit her efteem : She bids him wait her to the facred hall: Shows him Prince Edward, and the conquer'd Gaul; Fixing the bloody cross upon his breast, Says, he must die, or succour the distress'd: Placing the faint an emblem by his fide, She tells him, virtue arm'd must conquer lawless pride.

The hero bows obedient, and retires:
The queen's commands exalt the warrior's fires.
His steps are to the filent woods inchin'd
The great design revolving in his mind:
When to his sight a heav'nly form appears;
Her hand a palm, her head a lawrel wears.

Me, she begins, the fairest child of Jove,
Below for ever sought, and bless'd above;
Me, the bright source of wealth, and power, and same;
(Nor need I say, Victoria is my name)
Me the great father down to thee has sent:
He bids me wait at thy distinguish'd tent,
To execute what Anna's wish would have:
Her subject thou, I only am her slave.

Dare then; thou much belov'd by smiling fate;
For Anna's sake, and in her name, be great:
Go forth, and be to distant nations known,
My suture sav'rite, and my darling son.
At Schellenberg I'll manifest sustain
Thy glorious cause; and spread my wings again
Conspicuous o'er thy helm, in Blenheim's plain.

a be

SEVERAL OCCASIONS: 157

The goddels faid, mor would admit reply; 'mi said ()
But cut the liquid air, and grant the fley.

His high commission is thro' Britain known to the And thronging admies to his standard run,
He marches thoughtful; and he speedy sails:

(Bless him, ye seas! and prosperhim ye gales!)

Belgia receives him welcome to her shores, And William's death with leffen'd grief deplores.

His prefence only must retrieve that loss: some smole W Malbro must be to her what William was, 2000 A

So when great Atlas, from these low abodes Recall'd, was gather'd to his kindred-gods;

Alcides respited by prudent fate, and delian of come of uI roa. er. OT io 17.0

OF

U'IL'

183

948

4 all .

10

21

CIA

NE

ab&

01

G F

11/1

me;

off

T

n.A.

Sustain'd the ball, nor oroop'd beneath the weight.

Secret and fwift behold the chief advance; Sees half the empire join'd, and friend to France: The British general dooms the fight; his fword Dreadful he draws: the captains wait the word. Anne and St. George the charging heroe cries: Shrill echo from the neighb'ring wood replies Anne and St. George-At that auspicious sign The standards move; the adverse armies join, Of eight great hours, time measures out the fands: And Europe's fate in doubtful balance stands: The ninth, Victoria comes: - o'er Marlbro's head Confess'd she sits; the hostile troops recede:-Triumphs the Goddess, from her promise freed.

The eagle, by the British lion's might Unchain'd and free, directs her upward flight: Nor did fhe e'er with stronger pinions foar From Tyber's banks, than now from Danube's shoar.

Fir'd with the thoughts which these ideas raise. And great ambition of my country's praife: The English muse should like the mountain rife. Scornful of Earth and clouds, should reach the skies, With wonder (tho' with envy still) pursu'd by human) a vi m cyes. But we must change the style-just now I said, I ne'er was master of the tuneful trade.

VOL. L.

Or

Or the small genius which any youth doubt boult, In profe and busines lies extinct and loss.

Blefs'd, if I may some younger must exerte;

Point out the game, and animate the slight;

That from Marfeilles to Galais France may know,
As we have conquirors, we have poets too;
And either lawrel does in Bertain grow!

That, tho' amongst outselvest with too much heat.

We sometimes wrangle, when we should debate;

(A consequential ill which freedom draws;
A bad effect, but from a noble cause)

We can with universal zeal advance;

To curb the faithless arrogance of France.

Nor ever shall Britannia's sons refuse

To answer to thy master or thy muse;

Nor want just subject for victorious strains;

While Marlbro's arm eternall lawrel gains;

And where old Spencer sung, a new Edifa reigns.

For the PLAN of a FOUNTAIN, on which is the efficies of the QUEEN on a triumphal arch, the figure of the Duke of MARLBOROUGH beneaths and the chief rivers of the world round the whole work.

Y E active streams, where e'en your waters flow, Let distant climes and furthest nations know, What ye from Thames and Danube have been taught, How Anne commanded, and how Marlbro fought.

Quaeunque æterno properatis, flumina, lapfu, Divisis late terris, populisque remotis Dicite, nam vobis Tamisis narravi et Ister, Anna quid imperiis potuit, quid Marlburus armis.

San In the Mile Arms 1511 of I

THE CHAMELEON.

Provided than impercentializationally need are trained.

S the Chameleon, who is known A To have no colours of his own
But borrows from his neighbours hue
His white or black, his green or blue; And struts as much in ready light, Which credit gives him upon fight; As if the rain-how were in tail MERRY Settl'd on him, and his heirs male: So the young fquite, when first he comes From country school to Will's or Tom's: And equally, in truth is fit

To be a flatesman or a wit; Without one notion of his own, and an abole a? He fanters wildly up and down; ad spenot-stand and A 'Till fome accomaintance, good or bad, Takes notice of a staring lad; it is dool start to W Admits him in among the gang: They jest, reply, dispute, harangue: He acts and talks, as they befriend him, Smear'd with the colours, which they lend him.

Thus merely, as his fortune chances,

His merit or his vice advances.

If haply he the fect purfues, That read and comment upon news; He takes up their mysterious face: He drinks his coffee without lace: This week his mimic-tongue runs o'er What they have faid the week before. His wildom fets all Europe right; And teaches Marlbro when to fight. d Dablos and not !..

Or if it be his fate to meet any villaged acided but With folks who have more wealth than wit; He loves cheap Port, and double bub; And fettles in the Hum-Drum club: He learns how tooks will fall or rife; I wan anotherable Holds poverty the greatest vice; signit.

Thinks

Thinks it the bane of conversation: And fays that learning spoils a nation. But if, at first, he minds his hits, And drinks Champaine among the wits; Five deep he toalts the tow'ring lasses; Repeats you verses wrote on glasses; Is in the chair; prescribes the law; And lies with those he never faw.

MERRY ANDREW.

Setud on him. and his held reale

C LY Merry Andrew, the last Southwark fair (At Barthel'mew he did not much appear; So peevish was the edict of the may'r) At Southwark therefore as his tricks he show'd, To please our masters, and his friends the croud; A huge-neats-tongue he in his right-hand held; south all His left was with a good black-pudding fill'd. With a grave look, in this odd equipage, The clownish mimic traverses the stage: Why how now, Andrew! cries his brother droll, To day's conceit, methinks, is fomething dull: Come on, Sir, to our worthy friends explain, which What does your emblematic worship mean? I was and T Quoth Andrew; Honest English let us speak; Your emble- (what d'ye call't) is heathen Greek! To tongue or pudding thou half no pretence: [] [] Learning thy talent is, but mine is fenfe, That busie fool I was, which thou art now; Defirous to correct, not knowing how; With very good defign, but little wit, Blaming or praifing things, as I thought fit, I for this conduct had what I deferv'd; and and and and And dealing honeftly, was almost starv'd. But thanks to my indulgent stars, I eat; Since I have found the fecret to be great. O dearest Andrew, fays the humble droll, Henceforth may I obey, and thou controll; and amad shi Provided Provided thou impart thy useful skillers document the Bow then, fays Andrew; and, for once, I will. Be of your patron's mind, whate'er he fays, me rave bett Sleep very much; think little, and talk less: Mind neither good nor bad, nor right nor wrong; M But eat your pudding, flave; and hold your tongue.

A rev'rend prelate flopt his coach and fix, and fix To laugh a little at our Andrew's tricks. Front to slot But when he heard him give this golden rule; Drive on, (he cry'd,) this fellow is no fool.

ASIMILE and balanda

No merit in their cam behave came but I

EAR Thomas, didst thou never pop Thy head into a tin-man's shop? There, Thomas, didft thou never fce ('Tis but by way of fimile) and and and TATA A Squirrel spend his little rage, In jumping round a rowling cage? the latent the board The cage, as either fide turn'd up. Striking a ring of bells a-top Mov'd in the orb, pleas'd with the chimes, was add The foolish creature thinks he climbs: But here or there, turn wood or wire, He never gets two inches higher.

So fares it with those merry blades, That frisk it under Pindus, shades.
In noble songs, and losty odes, They tread on stars and talk with gods. And lesions his Still dancing in an airy round, Still pleas'd with their own verses found. Brought back, how fast soe er they go, Always afpiring, always low,

THE FLIES

CAY, fire of infects, mighty Sol, A fly upon the chariot-pole Cries out) what blue bottle alive Did ever with fuch fury drive?

Tell Belzebub, great father, tell, magni most babiver (Says t'other, perch'd upon the wheel) and work was Raile fuch a cloud of duft, as I? rate thous you good?

My judgment turn d the whole debate a solding ban M My valour fav'd the finking flate. Tofs up their heads, and firetch their wings. But let the truth to light be brought ? 1 30 3d andw 10 H. This neither fpoke, nor tother fought; ad) and avend. No merit in their own behav'our; Both rais'd, but by their party's favour.

From the GREEK.

REAT Bacchus, born in thunder and in fire I By native heat affects his dreadful fire. Nourish'd near shady tills and cooling streams, He to the nymphs avows his am'rous flames. To all the breth'ren at the Bell and Vine, in second The moral fays, mix water with your wine.

E'P'I'G'RAAWI'' TO STANDER OF THE STANDER loug Achten

The foodly creaters thinks bet of (3hi)

TRANK carves very ill, yet will palm all the meats; He eats more than fix, and drinks more than he eats. Four pipes after dinner he conftantly fmokes; And leasons his whits with impertinent jokes. Yet fighing, he fays, we must certainly break, And my cruel unkindness compells him to speak; For of late I invite him—but four times a week.

ANOTHER.

O John I ow'd great obligation: But John, anhappily, thought fit To publish it to all the nation:

Sure John and I are more that quit. Live (1100 1917) ON extension from they drive

A THE RESIDENCE OF THE RESIDENCE OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPER

ES, every poet is a fool worrom-os tarly So By demonstration Ned can show it. Happy, could Ned's inverted rule of early van backged Prove every fool to be a poet, and san all has aved of the use the Shine I become

ANOTHER

FIX mags (the leanest things alive) A O 9 A So very hard thou lov'ft to drive: I heard thy anxious coach-man fay, w to night in A (It costs thee more in whips, than hay, as now no Afficience this bow districted in about fivest in value, but the season a To a person who wrote ill, and spake worse against me

They love a near eigeness and their YE, Philo, untouch'd on my peaceable thelf; Nor take it amis, that so little I heed thee: I've no envy to thee, and some love to myself: Then why shou'd I answer; since first I must read thee ? Drunk with Helicen's waters and double brow'd bub. Be a linguist, a poet, a critic, a waged a ci off To the folid delight of thy well-judging clubar son vit f To the damage alone of thy bookfeller Brag: Purfue me with faryes what harm is there in the But from all viva voce reflection forbear There can be no danger from what thou halt print; There may be a little from what thou may'ft fwear.

That if ey love trewe, and contineewe. Onothersame person. od brooms

WHILE faster than his costive brain indites, Philo's quick hand in flowing letters writes: His cale appears to me like honest Teague's, When he was run away with, by his legs. Phoebus, give Philo o'er himself command; and and I' Quicken his fenses, or restrain his hand; Let him be kept from paper, pen, and ink an noowroll So may he ceale to write, and learn to think, insT

Quid sit futurum cras fuge quarere.

OR what to-morrow shall disclose, May spoil what you to-night propose: England may change; or Cloe stray; Love and life are for to-day.

The NUT-BROWN MAID. A POEM written three bundred years fince,

- So very hard choudouth to drivery in a tribit less DE it right or wrong, these men among On women do complayne; y en orom side aller il Affyrmynge this how that it is

A labour spent in vaine,
To love them wele; for never a dele They love a man againe.

For let a man do what he can

Ther favour to attayne; all us a seek of he Yet yf a new do them purfue,

Ther furft trew lover than the trail and the man The

Laboureth for nought; for from her thought

He is a banishyd man, a stood a dauguil a po

I fay not ney, but that all day in to tag in hill and ST It is bothe writ and layde tole agenes the of

That woman's fayth is, as who faythe ; wo was a said I

All utterly decayed.

But nevertheless right good witness both to be seen

I' this case might be layde,

That they love trewe, and contynewe.

Record the Nut-brown Mayde. Which from her love (whan her to prove,

He came to make his mone)

Wold not depart; for in her herte She lovyd but him alone.

Than betwene us, lettens discusse,
What was all the maner Between them too: we wyle also and the stand to I Telle all the peyne and fere. W or alter the part of Duig.

That the was in. Now I begynne, if it was expend with So that ye me answermon only orolled baskrab at Wherefore all ye, that prefent be, badw fol ay well villy I pray you give an careobase ovad tadio landa Alle and welfare to forco was Mc I am the knyght: I come by nyght, Feet in any mende As fecret as I can: Saying, alas! thus standeth the case I am a banishyd man. I can believe, it first NO M O W And thom whar And I your wylle for to fullfylle Hue afterwards your In this wyl not refuse; Trusting to shew, in words fewe, but a said and lade That men have an ill use. (To their own shame) women to blame, and black and And causeless them accole: Therefore to you I answer now, yard bas col I and bas.
Alle women to accuse: As hertely as I ca My'n own heart dere, with you what chere, I pray you tell annone;
For in my mynd, of al mankynde, I love but you alone. Now first that we have My adminis It stondeth fo; a dede is do. ... soros) sell Wherefore moche harm shall grower and od limit I My destiney is for to dey A shameful deth, I trowe, which the shame a But to withdrawe, as an outlaw, And take me to my bowe. And take no round lade Wherefore adew, my own herte trewe: None other red I can; the of ror ; where you was make For I must to the grene wode goe, and it desorted For in my mynd, of Alone, a banishyd man, W O M A N. Hoy and avoi I

O Lord! what is this worldis blyffe, That chaungeth as the mone? or sher noy I I hear you fay farewell: nay, may; in asia sad!

We depart not foo fone:

My fomers day, in lufter way I word in serve add tad I Is derked before the nonerpolar address of Why fay ye fo? wheder word ye good, as the and rad W
Alas! what have ye doesn't as stip now years I. Alle my welfare to forrow and gare
Shulde chaunge, if ye were gon; For in my mynde, of all mankyn de, I love but you alone.
I love but you alone. M A Want Sydneyd a mr I
I can believe, it shall you groeve, And shom what you distrayoe;
But afterwarde your paynes harde, Within a day or tweene.
Shal fone aflake; and ye shal take Comfort to you agayne.
Why should ye nought? for to make thought,
As hertely as I can;
For I must to the grene wode goe, Alone, a banishyd man.
I love but you flower was a least to leave the evol I
Now fifth that ye have shewed to me The secret of your mynde; sheb a sol dishest it
Like as we shall me fynde.
Syth it is fo, that ye wyle goe,
I wol not leve behynde: Shal never be fayd, the Nut-brown Mayde Was to her love unkynd.
Make you redy; for fo am I, may chan the start
For in my mynd, of al mankynde,
Yet I you rede, to take good hede,
What men wyl think and fey; wand vat now used I

Lati

Of yonge and olde it shal be tolde, That ye be gone aways ov and tren son heids I Your wanton wylle, for to fulfylle byate one sisk In grene wode you to plays a seem were said and And that ye myght from your delyton and and Noo lenger make deley our sat , stat sat sare seres e'l' Rather than ye should thus for mention and boy o'll. Be called an ylle woman supposed the first of roll Yet wold I to the grene wode good I , said wild . Alone sa baniloyd meane it county or driew more As colde as any land OW Though it be fonge, of old and yonge, That I shuld be to blame: Theirs be the charge, that speke so large, For an outlawe, this is the smee, um lo gained at For I wyl prove, that feythful lovery if atm tud's It is devoyd of shames or bright oping modey was To part with youther fantes Och albem bed I'vy And fure all thoo that doo not fold to note it all. Trewe lovers an they none ag ... awon I saled and But in my mynde, of all manklynde, rol warb blude I love but you aldgevaletyl tol ; slyvrom on baA Were in your coupy indiger: I counsel you, remember how movement a prologed W It is no mayden's lawe, Nothing to dought, but to reme out To wode with an our west of sweet light light For ye must there, in your hand bered ledel 144 A bowe ready to drawe to mai it shadancow ook And as a theef, thus must ye type, as blod ad o'll Ever in drede and awe at more to and don't ai as ? Whereby to you gree harme may grow; Yet I had lever than, on them a back his replicar That I had to the grene wode goe,

Alone, a banishyd man, and was sould of the back in i care trans a contraction and in

THE CHURCH S	DEA DE .
Ty Is a Wan In Wan MI	Of yonge and olde MA
I think not nay; but as ye faye	That ye be gone as
It is noo mayden's lore;	Your wantoff wille, for
But love may make me for you	fake, ow been al
As I have faid before,	And that we mygnt from
To come one fote, to hunt and	Noo lenger rated
To get us mete in store.	Rather than ye though th
For fo that I your company	Be called an yells wi
May have, I ale no more	Yet wold I to the grent
From which to parte, it makit	myne berte anola
As colde as any fron.
For in my mynde, of al manky	Though it he longe, 'of
CONTRACTOR OF THE PARTY AND ADDRESS OF THE PAR	Theirs be the charge.
For an outlawe, this is the law	e, you to painted at
That men hym take and I	For I myl prove, isbuid
Wythout pytee hanged to bee,	It is descript of long
And waver with the wynd Yf I had neede, As God forbed	e on our distribution and al
What refon coud ye finde	Berg and the office
For fothe I trowe, ye and your	There are a mar near near
Shuld draw for fere behyn	de 30 skingman ni na
And no mervyle; for lytel avay	den not the fort to contract
Were in your council that	18
Wherefore I to the wode wyl	goe.
Wherefore I to the wode wyl Alone a banishyd man.	I counsel you, remember
WOM.	A N.
Full well knowe ye, that wyme	T consided you, remaining to its section of the consider of the consideration of the considera
But febyl for to fight:	of each floor
Noo womanhede it is in deede,	the taismy unit added
To be bold as a knyght.	sen and I do a do
Yet in fuch fere vi that we were	the second of the second with enemy's day and ny	ght; a best as areas are
I worde withitonde, with bow i	n nonge.
To greve them as I mych	City out or had a section
and you to lave, as wymen has	Plone, a bacing
From dethe many one:	the party and the second and the second
For in my mynde, of al mankyn	ide,
I love but you alone.

MAN.

Yet take good hede! for ever I drede, That ye coude not fullein That thorney weyes, the depe valeis,

The snow, the frost, the reyn, The cold, the hete. For drye or wete, We must lodge on the playn; And us above, noon other rofe, But a brake, bush, or twayne, Which foon should grieve you, I believe; And ye wolde gladely than,
That I had to the grene wode goe, Alone, a banifhyd man.

WOMAN

Syth I have here been partnyere With you of joy and blyffe; I must also, parte of your woo

Endure, as reason is Yet am I fure of one pleasure; And, shortly, it is this; That where ye bee, me seemeth, par-day I could not fare amyls. Without more speche, I you beseche, That we were foon a-gone: For in my mynde, of al mankynde, I love but you alone.

MAN.

Yf ye goo thedyr, ye must consider, Whan have ye lust to dyne, There shal no mete be for to gete, Nor drink, bere, ale, ne wine; Ne shetis clene, to lye betwene, Made of thred and twyne; Noon other house, but levys and bowes, To kever your head and myn O myn herte fwete, this ylle dyet Shuld make you pale and wan:

Wherefore VOL. I.

Wherefore I to the wode wal goe,
Alone, a banifhyd man.

WOMAN

Among the wild dere, fuch an archier,
As men fay that ye bee,
We may not fayle of good vitayle,
Where is fo grete plente
And watir clere of the ryvere
Shal be full fwete to me;
With which in hele, I shall right welle
Endure, as ye shall fee.
And er we goe, a bed or two

I can provide anone;
For in my mynde, of all mankyade
I love but you alone.

MAN.

Loo I yet before, ye must do more,

If ye wyle go with me:

As cutte your here, up by your ere,

Your kurtel by the knee.

Wyth bowe in honde, for to withstonde

Your enemys, yf nede be:

And this same nyght, before day-lyght,

To wode-ward wyl I flee.

And yf ye wille al this fulfylle,

Do it shortly as ye can:

Ellis will I to the grene wode goe,

Alone, a banishyd man.

WOMAN.

I shall as now do more for you,

Than longeth to womanhede,

To short my here, a bow to bere,

To shote in time of nede.

O my sweet moder, before all other,

For you have I most drede:

But now adieu I must ensue

Where fortune duth me lede.

All this make ye, and let us fiee:

The day run fast upon;

For in my mynde, of al mankynde,

I love but you alone.

MAN NO Set & off or I the s

Nay, nay, not fo: ye shall not go:

And I shall tell ye why;

Your appetite is to be light

Of love, I wele espite.

For right as ye have fayde to me,
In likewyse hardely

Ye wolde answere, whosoever it were,
In way of company.

It is fayd of olde; fone hote, fone colde;.

Wherefore I to the wode wyl goe,
Alone, a banishyd man,

WOMAN.

Yf ye take hede, yt is noo nede
Such wordis to fay bee me:
For oft ye prey'd, and longe affayed.
Er I you lovid, par-dy.

Er I you lovid, par-dy,

And though that I of auncestry

A baron's daughter bee;
Yet have you proved, how I you loved,

A fquyer of low degree;
And ever shal, what so befalle
To dey therefore anone;

For in my mynde, of al mankynde,
I love but you alone.

MAN.

A baron's childe to be begyled;

It were a curfed dede:

To be felaw with an outlawe,

Almighty God forbede!

It better were, the pore fquyer

Alone to forrest spede;

Than ye shall saye, another daye, was an add the That by that wicked dede with the say and the

Ye were betrayed. Wherefore, good mayde.

Is that I to the grene wode go,

Alone, a banishyd man.

WOMAN.

Whatfoever befall, I never shalle
Of this thing you upbraid:
But yf ye go, and leave me fo,
Then have ye me betraid.

Remember ye wele, how that ye dele;

Be so unkynde, to leave behynde,
Your love, the Nut-brown Maide t

Trust me truely, that I shall dey was to the source of Sone after ye be gone;

For in my mynde, of all mankynde,
I love but you alone.

MAN.

Yf that ye went, ye shall repent;
For in the forest now
I have purveid me of a mayde,

Whom I love more then you.

Another fayrer then e're ye were;

I dare it well avowe:

And of you bothe, eche shulde be wrothe
Wyth other, as I true.

It were myne ese, to lyve in pese:

So wyl I, yf I can:

Wherefore I to the wode wyl go, Alone, a banishyd man.

WOMAN.

Though in the wode, I understode,
Ye had a paramour;
All this may pought remove my though

All this may nought remove my thought,
But that I will be your

And she shall fynde me softe and knyde, And courties every hour,
Glad to fulfylle all that the wylle Commaunde me to my pow'r. For had ye loo, an hundred moo; Yet wolde I be that one: For in my mynde, of all mankynde, I love but you alone.

MAN.

Myne own dere love, I fee the prove, That ye be kynde and trewe; Of mayde and wyfe, in all my lyf, The best that ever I knew. Be merry and glad; be no more fad; The case is changed newe; For it were ruthe, that for your trouth, Ye shulde have cause to rewe. Be not difmayed; whatfoever I fayd To you when I began: I wyle not to the grene wode go; I am no banishyd man.

WOMAN.

Theis tidings be more glad to me, Than to be made a quene; Yf I wer fure, they should endure: But it is often feen, When men wyle breke promyse, they speke... The wordis on the fplene. Ye shape some wyle, me to begyle, And stele fro me, I wene, Then were the case wurs than it was; And I more woo begon; For in my mynde of all mankynde, ... I love but you alone.

MAN.

Ye shall not nede surther to drede:

I wyl not disparage
P 3

You. God defende; fyth you descende
Of so grete a lynage.

Now understande, to Westmerlande,
Whiche is my herytage,
I wyl you bringe; and with a rynge,
By way of maryage
I wyle you take, and lady make,
As shortly as I can.

Thus have ye wone an erlie's fon, And not a banishyd man.

HENRY and EMMA,

A POEM, upon the model of the NUT-BROWN MAID.

To GLOE.

Tho' low my voice, tho' article be my hand)
I take the sprightly reed, and sing, and play;
Careless of what the cens'ring world may say:
Bright Cloe, object of my constant vow,
Wilt thou a while unbend thy serious brow?
Wilt thou with pleasure hear thy lover's strains,
And with one heav'nly smile o'erpay his pains?
No longer shall the Nut-brown Maid be old;
Tho' since her youth three hundred years have roll'd
At thy desire she shall again be rais'd;
And her reviving charms in lasting verse be prais'd.

No longer man of woman shall complain,
That he may love, and not be lov'd again:
That we in vain the sickle sex pursue,
Who change the constant lover for the new.
Whatever has been writ, whatever said
Of semale passion seign'd, or saith decay'd;
Henceforth shall in my verse resuted stand,
Be said to winds, or writ upon the sand.
And while my notes to suture times proclaim
Unconquer'd love, and ever during slame;

O fairest of the sex! be thou my muse:

Deign on my work thy influence to disfuse.

Let me partake the blessings I rehearse,

And grant me, love, the just reward of verse.

As beauty's potent queen, with ev'ry grace
That once was Emma's, has adorn'd thy face;
And as her fon has to my before dealt
That conflant flame, which faithful Henry felt:
O let the flory with thy life agree;
Let them once more the bright example fee;
What Emma was to him, be then to me.
Nor fend me by thy frown from her I love,
Diftant and fad, a banish'd man to rove.
But oh! with pity long intreated crown
My pains and hopes; and when thou fay'st that one
Of all mankind thou lov's; oh! think on me alone.

With mingled waves for ever flow the fame,
In times of yore an ancient baron liv'd;
Great gifts bellow'd, and great respect receiv'd.

When dreadful Edward with successful care
Led his free Britons to the Gallic war;
This lord had headed his appointed bands,
In firm allegiance to his kings commands;
And (all due honour faithfully discharg'd)
Had brought back his paternal coar enlarg'd
With a new mark, the witness of his toil,
And no inglorious part of foreign spoil.

From the loud camp retir'd and noify court,
In honourable case and rural sport,
The remnant of his days he safely past;
Nor found they lagg'd too slow, nor slew too saft,
He made his with with his estate comply,
Joyful to live, but not affraid to die.

One child he had, a daughter chast and fair,
His age's comfort and his fortune's heir.
They call'd her Emma; for the beauteous dame.
Who gave the virgin birth, had born the name.

A CONTRACTOR STATE OF THE SECOND SECO

BOW SERVICE BASE

The

The name th' indulgent father doubly lov'd;
For in the child the mother's charms improv'd.
Yet as when little round his knees she play'd;
He call'd her oft in sport his Nut-brown Maid:
The friends and tenants took the fondling word;
As still they please, who immitate their lord:
Usage confirm'd what fancy had begun:
The mutual terms around the lands were known;
And Emma and the Nut-brown Maid were one.

As with her stature, still her charms encreas'd: Thro' all the isle her beauty was confess'd. Oh! what perfections must that virgin share, Who fairest is esteem'd, where all are fair? From distant shires repair the noble youth. And find, report for once had leffen'd truth. By wonder first, and then by passion mov'd, They came; they faw; they marvell'd; and they lov'd. By publick praises, and by secret sighs Each own'd the general pow'r of Emma's eyes. In tilts and turnaments the valiant strove, By glorious deeds to purchase Emma's love. In gentle verse the witty told their flame, And grac'd their choicest songs with Emma's name. In vain they combated, in vain they writ: and beal and Useless their strength, and impotent their wit. Great Venus only must direct the dart, and sand list Which elfe will never reach the fair one's heart, Spight of th' attempts of force, and foft effects of art. Great Venus must prefer the happy one: In Henry's cause her favour must be shown: And Emma, of mankind, must love but you alone.

While these in publick to the castle came,
And by their grandeur justify'd their same;
More secret ways the careful Henry takes;
His squires, his arms, and equipage for sakes:
In borow'd name, and salse attire array'd,
Oft he finds means to see the beauteous maid.

When Emma hunts in huntsman's habit drest, Henry on foot pursues the bounding beast. In his right hand his beschen pole he bears and sad?

And graceful at his fide his horn he wears.

Still to the glade, where she has bent her way, wo defend the high her decline the high, and shun the brake)

Bids her decline the high, and shun the brake)

And shews the path her steed may safely take,

Directs her spear to fix the glorious wound;

Pleas'd in his toils to have her triumph crown'd;

And blows her praises in no common sound

A falc'ner Henry is, when Emma hawks:

With her of tarfels, and of lures he talks.

Upon his wrift the towr'ring merlin stands;

Practis'd to rife, and stoop at her commands.

And when superior now the bird has flown,

And headlong brought the tumbling quarry down;

With humble rev'rence he accosts the fair;

And with the honour'd feather decks her hair,

Yet still, as from the sportive field she goes,

His downcast eye reveals his inward woes,

And by his look and forrow is exprest,

A nobler game pursu'd than bird or beast.

A sheperd now along the plain he roves;
And, with his jolly pipe delights the groves.
The neighb'ring swains around the stranger throng,
Or to admire, or emulate his song;
While, with soft forrow, he renews his lays,
Nor heedful of their envy, nor their praise.
But soon as Emma's eyes adorn the plain,
His notes he raises to a nobler strain,
With dutiful respect and studious fear;
Lest any careless sound offend her ear.

A frantick gipfey now the house he haunts,
And in wild phrases speaks dissembled wants.
With the fond maids in palmistry he deals:
They tell the secret first, which he reveals:
Says who shall wed, and, who shall be beguil'd;
What groom shall get, and squire maintain the child.
But when bright Emma wou'd her fortune know;
A softer look unbends his op'ning brow.
With trembling awe he gazes on her eye;
And in soft accents forms the kind reply;
That

That the thall prove as fortunate as fair; Ald and id a

And Hymen's choicest gifes are all reserved for her.

Now oft had Henry chang'd his sty disguise,
Unmark'd by all, but beauteous Emma's eyes :
Oft had found means alone to see the dame,
And at her seet to breathe his am'rous stame;
And oft the pangs of absence to remove
By letters, soft interpreters of love;
Till time and industry (the mighty two
That bring our wishes nearer to our view)
Made him perceive that the inclining fair
Receiv'd his vows with no reluctant ear;
That Venus had confirm'd her equal reign,
And dealt to Emma's heart a stare of Henry's pain

While Capid finil'd, by kind occasion bles'd,
And, with the secret kept, the love inceras'd;
The am'rous youth frequents the filent groves;
And much he meditates for much he loves.
He loves: 'tis true; and is below'd again:
Great are his joys: but will they long remain?
Emma with smiles receives his present flame:
But smiling, will she ever be the same?
Beautiful looks are rul'd by sickle minds;
And summer seas are turn'd by sudden winds:
Another love may gain her easie youth:
Time changes thought; and flatt'ry conquers truth.

O impotent estate of human life?

Where hope and fear maintain eternal strife

Where sleeting joy does lasting doubt inspire;

And most we question, what we most defire.

Amongst thy various gifts, great Heav'n bestow.

Our cup of love unmix'd; forbear to throw

Bitter ingredients in; nor pall the draught

With nauseous grief: for our ill judging thought

Hardly enjoys the pleasurable taste

Or deems it not sincere; or fears it cannot last.

With wishes rais'd, with jealouses opprest,
(Alternate tyrants of the human breast

By one great trial he resolves to prove

The faith of woman, and the force of love.

If fcanning Emma's virtues, he may find a sandale ne That beauteous frame inclose a fleady mind, He'll fix his hope, of future joy fecure; and his control And live a flave to Hymen's happy pow'r. But if the fair one, as he fears, is frail; If pois'd aright in season's equal fcale, to Tall his he Light dy her merits, and her faults prevail; His mind he vows to free from am'rous care, The latent milcheif from his heart to tear, Resume his azure arms, and thine again in war.

South of the calle, in a verdant glade A spreading beech extends her friendly shade: Here oft the nymph his breathing vows had heard; Here oft her filence had her heart declar'd As active fpring awak'd her infant buds And genial life inform'd the verdant woods: Henry, in knots involving Emma's name. Had half express'd, and half conceal'd his flame Upon this tree and as the tender mark Grew with the year, and widen'd with the bark Venus had heard the virgin's foft address That as the wound, the passion might encrease. As potent nature fined ber kindly flow'rs, And deck'd the various mead with opening flowers, Upon this tree the ayarph's obliging care Had left a frequent wreath for Henry's hair : Which as with gay delight the lover found: Pleas'd with his conquest, with her present crown'd. Glorious thro' all the plains he oft had gone, And to each frain the mystic honour shown : The gift fill prais'd, the giver fill unknown.

His fecret note the troubled Henry writes : To the known tree the lovely maid invites: Imperfect words and dubious terms express That unforfeen mischance diffurb'd his peace; That he must something to her ear commend, On which her conduct, and his life depend.

Soon as the fair one had the note receiv'd; The remnant of the day alone the griev'd contract

For different this from every former note, and pulsated if Which Venus dictated, and Henry wrote 1 10 1 1 Which told her all his future hopes were laid On the dear bosom of his Nut-brown Maid : 6 341 56A Which always blefs'd her eyes, and own'd her power, And bid her oft adieu, yet added more.

Now right advanc'd. The house in sleep were laid. The nurse experienc'd, and the prying maid; hatte all And last the sprite, which does incessant haunt The lovers steps, the ancient maiden aunt, and amaid. To her dear Henry Emma bends her way, 1100 1100 With quickn'd pace repairing forc'd delay. For love, fantaltic pow'r, that is afraid To stir abroad till watchfulness be laid: Undaunted then, o'er chiffs and valleys strays: And leads his vot'ries fafe thro' pathless ways. Not Argos with his hundred eyes shall find, Where Cupid goes; tho' he poor guide is blind, it had

The maiden first arriving, Sent her eye To ask, if yet its chief delight were nigh? With fear, and with defire, with joy and pain She fees, and runs to meet him on the plain. But oh! his steps proclaim no lover's haste: On the low ground his fix'd regards are cast: His artful bosom heaves diffembl'd fighs : 300 0000 And tears fuborn'd fall copious from his eyes.

With eafe, alas! we credit what we love: His painted grief does real forrow move In the afflicted fair; adown her cheek in the state of th Trickling the genuine tears their current break. Attentive stood the mournful nymph: the man Broke filence first: the tale alternate ran.

above to contrib accidate that the fiction of the us see all b M A N. and har a block a set ?

I want became able the level belowed and will

CINCERE O tell me, hast thou felt a pain, Emma, beyond what woman knows to feign? Has thy uncertain bosom ever strove to the manufacture of I With the first tumults of a real love :

Hast thou now dreaded, and now blest his sway, By turns averse, and joyful to obey? Thy virgin foftness halt thou e'er bewail'd; As reason yeilded and as love prevail'd? And wept the potent god's refiftless dart, His killing pleafure, his ecstatic smart, And hea'vnly poison thrilling thro' thy heart ! If so, with pity view my wretched state; At least deplore, and then forget my fate: To some more happy knight referve thy charms, By fortune favour'd, and successful arms: And only as the fun's revolving ray Brings back each year this melancholy day; Permit one tigh, and fet apart one tear, To the abandon'd exile's endless care. For me, alas! out-cast of human race, Love's anger only waits, and dire difgrace: For lo! these hands in murder are imbru'd; These trembling feet by justice are pursu'd: Fate calls aloud, and haftens me away: A shameful death attends my longer stay: And I this night must fly from thee and love, Condemn'd in lonely woods a banish'd man to rove.

EMMA.

What is our blifs, that changeth with the moon; And day of life, that darkens e'er 'tis noon ? What is true passion, if unblest it dies? And where is Emma's joy, if Henry flies? If love, alas! be pain; the pain I bear, No thought can figure, and no tongue declare. Ne'er faithful woman felt, nor false one feign'd The flames, which long have in my bosom reign'd : The god of love himself inhabits there, With all his rage, and dread, and grief, and care, His complement of stores, and total war,

O! cease then coldly to suspect my love: And let my deed at least my faith approve. Alas! no youth shall my endearments share: Nor day nor night shall interrupt my care: VOL. I.

No future story shall with truth upbraid
The cold indiff'rence of the Nut-brown Maid:
Nor to hard banishment shall Henry run;
While careless Emma sleeps in beds of down.
View me resolv'd, where-e'er thou lead'st to go,
Friend of thy pain, and partner of thy woe;
For I attest fair Venus and her son,
That I, of all mankind, will love but thee alone

HENRY.

Let prudence yet obstruct thy vent'rous way;
And take good heed, what men will think and fay;
That beauteous Emma vagrant courses took;
Her father's house and civil life forsook;
That full of youthful blood, and fond of man,
She to the wood-land with an exile ran.
Reslect, that lessen'd fame is ne'er regain'd;
And virgin honour once is always stain'd:
Timely advis'd, the coming evil shun:
Better not do the deed, than weep it done.
No pennance can absolve our guilty same;
Nor tears, that wash out sin, can wash out shame.
Then sly the sad essects of desp'rate love;
And leave a banish'd man thro' lonely woods to rove.

EMMA.

Let Emma's haples case be falsely told

By the rash young, or the ill-natur'd old:

Let ev'ry tongue its various censures chuse;

Absolve with coldness, or with spite accuse:

Fair truth at last her radiant beams will raise;

And malice vanquish'd heightens virtue's praise,

Let then thy savour but indulge my slight;

O! let my presence make thy travels light;

And potent Venus shall exalt my name

Above the rumours of censorious same:

Nor from the busic demon's restless pow'r

Will ever Emma other grace implore,

Than that this truth should to the world be known;

That I, of all mankind, have lov'd but thee alone.

HENRY.

HENRY

But canst thou wield the sword, and bend the bow? With active force repel the sturdy foe? When the loud tumult speaks the battle nigh, And winged deaths in whistling arrows fly; Wilt thou tho' wounded, yet undaunted stay, Perform thy part, and share the dangerous day? Then, as thy strength decays, thy heart will fail, Thy limbs all trembling, and thy cheeks all pale; With fruitless forrow thou, inglorious maid, Wilt weep thy safety by thy love betray'd: Then to thy friend, by foes o'ercharg'd, deny Thy little useless aid, and coward fly: Then wilt thou curse the chance that made the love A banish'd man, condemn'd in lonely woods to rove.

EMMA.

With fatal certainty Thalestris knew
To send the arrow from the twanging yew:
And great in arms and foremost in the war,
Bonduca brandish'd high the British spear.
Could thirst of vengance, and desire of same
Excite the semale breast with martial stame?
And shall not love's diviner pow'r inspire
More hardy virtue, and more gen'rous sire?

Near thee, mistrust not, constant I'll abide,
And fall, or vanquish, fighting by thy side.
Tho' my inferiour strength may not allow,
That I should bear, or draw the warrior bow;
With ready hand I will the shaft supply,
And joy to see thy victor arrows sly.
Touch'd in the battle by the hostile reed,
Should'st thou (but heaven avert it!) should'st thou bleed,
To stop the wounds my finest lawn I'd tear;
Wash them with tears, and wipe them with my hair;
Blest, when my dangers and my toils have shown,
That I, of all mankind, could love but thee alone.

HENRY.

But canst thou, tender maid, canst thou sustain Afflictive want or hunger's pressing pain?

2

Those

Those limbs in lawn and fostest filk array'd, From fun-beams guarded, and of winds afraid; Can they bear angry Jove? can they refift The parching dog-star, and the black north east? When chill'd by adverse snows or beating rain, We tread with weary steps the longsome plain; When with hard toil we feek our evining food, Berries and accorns from a neighb'ring wood; And find among the cliffs no other house, But the thin covert of some gather'd boughs; Wilt thou not then reluctant fend thine eye Around the dreary waste; and weeping try Tho' then, alas! that tryal be too late) To find thy father's hospitable gate And feats, where eafe and plenty brooding fate? Those feats, whence long excluded thou must mourn: That gate, for ever barr'd to thy return : . Wilt thou not then bewail ill-fated love, And hate a banish'd man, condemn'd in woods to rove?

EMMA.

Thy rife of fortune did I only wed,
From its decline determin'd to recede;
Did I but purpose to embark with thee,
On the smooth surface of a summer sea/;
While gentle Zephyrs play in prosp'rous gales;
And fortune's favour fills the swelling sails:
But would forsake the ship and make the shoar,
When the winds whistle, and the tempests roar?
No, Henry, no: one sacred oath has ty'd
Our loves; and destiny our life shall guide;
Nor wild nor deep our common way divide.

When from the cave thou risest with the day,
To beat the woods and rouse the bounding prey:
The cave with moss and branches I'll adorn,
And chearful sit to wait my lord's return.
And when thou frequent bring'st the smitten deer;
(For seldom, archers say, thy arrows err)
I'll setch quick suel from the neighb'ring wood,
And strike the sparkling slint, and dress the food:

With

With humble duty and officious hafte, I'll cull the furthest mead for thy repast: The choicest herbs I to thy board will bring; And draw the water from the freshest spring: And when at night with weary toil opprest, Soft flumbers thou enjoy'st, and wholesome rest: Watchful I'll guard thee, and with midnight pray'r Weary the gods to keep thee in their care ; And joyous ask at morn's returning ray, If thou halt health, and I may blefs the day. My thought shall fix, my latest wish depend On thee, guide, guardian, kinfman, father, friend: By all these facred names be Henry known To Emma's heart: and grateful let him own, That she, of all mankind, could love but him alone.

HENRY.

Vainly thou tell'st me, what the woman's care Shall in the wildness of the wood prepare: Thou, ere thou goest, unhappyest of thy kind. Must leave the habit, and the sex behind. No longer shall thy comely tresses break In flowing ringlets on thy fnowy neck; Or fit behind thy head, an ample round, In graceful breeds with various ribbon bound: No longer shall the boddice aptly lac'd. From thy full bosom to thy slender waste, That air and harmony of shape express, Fine by degrees, and beautifully less: Nor shall thy lower garments artful pleat, From thy fair fide dependent to thy feet, Arm their chaste beauties with a modest pride, And double ev'ry charm they feek to hide. Th' ambrofial plenty of thy shining hair Cropt off and loft, scarce lower then thy ear Shall fland uncouth: a horfe-man's coat shall hide Thy taper shape, and comliness of side: The short trunk hose shall show thy foot and knee Licentious, and to common eye-fight free: And

And with a bolder stride, and looser air, Market Mingl'd with men, a man thou must appear.

Nor folitude, nor gentle peace of mind, Mistaken maid, shalt thou in forests find: 'Tis long fince Cynthia and her train were there: Or guardian gods made innocence their care. Vagrants and out-laws shall offend thy view: For such must be my friends, a hideous crew By adverse fortune mix'd in focial ill. Train'd to affault, and disciplin'd to kill: Their common loves, a lewd abandon'd pack. The beadle's lash still fragrant on their back: By floth corrupted by diforder fed, Made bold by want, and profitute for bread: With fuch must Emma hunt the tedious day, Affift their violence, and divide their prey: With such she must return at setting light, Tho' not partaker, witness of their night. Thy ear, inur'd to charitable founds, And pitying love, must feel the hateful wounds Of jest obscence, and vulgar ribaldry, The ill-bred question, and the lewd reply: Brought by long habitude from bad to worfe, Must hear the frequent oath, the direful curse, That latest weapon of the wretches wer. And blasphemy, sad comrade of despair.

Now, Emma. now the last reflection make,
What thou would'it follow, what thou must forsake;
By our ill-omen'd stars and adverse heav'n,
No middle object to thy choice is given.
Or yield thy virtue, to attain thy love;
Or leave a banish'd man, condemn'd in woods to rove,

EMMA.

O grief of heart t that our unhappy fates

Force thee to fuffer what thy honour hates:

Mix thee amongst the bad; or make thee run

Too near the paths, which virtue bids thee shun.

Yet with her Henry still let Emma go;

With him abhor the vice, but share the woe:

And fure my little heart can never err Amidst the work; if Henry still be there.

Our outward act is prompted from within;
And from the finner's mind proceeds the fin:
By her own choice free virtue is approv'd;
Nor by the force of outward objects mov'd.
Who has affay'd no danger, gains no praise.
In a small isle, amidst the widest seas,
Triumphant constancy has six'd her seat:
In vain the syrens sing, the tempests beat:
Their flatt'ry she rejects, nor fears their threat.

For thee alone these little charms I drest: Condemn'd them, or absolv'd them by thy test. In comely figure rang'd my jewels shone, Or negligently plac'd for thee alone: For thee again they shall be laid aside; The woman, Henry, shall put off her pride For thee, my cloaths, my fex, exchang'd for thee, I'll mingle with the people's wretched lee; O line extream of human infamy! Wanting the sciffors, with these hands I'll tear (If that obstructs my flight) this load of hair. Black foot, or yellow walnut shall difgrace This little red and white of Emma's face. These nails with scratches shall deform my breast, Left by my look. or colour be express'd The mark of ought high-born, or ever better dress'd. Yet in this commerce, under this disguise, Let me be grateful still to Henry's eyes. Loft to the world, let me to him be known: My fate I can obsolve, if he shall own: That leaving all mankind, I love but him alone.

HENRY.

O wildest thought of an abandon'd mind!
Name, habit, parents, woman left behind,
Ev'n honour dubious, thou preferr'st to go
Wild to the woods with me; said Emma to?
Or did I dream what Emma never said?
O guilty error! and O wretched maid!

Whose roving fancy would resolve the same
With him, who next should tempt her easy same;
And blow with empty words the susceptible slame:
Now why should doubtful terms thy mind perplex?
Confess thy frailty, and avow thy lex;
No longer loose desire for constant love
Mistake; but say, 'tis man with whom thou long'st to rove.

EMMA.

Are there not poisons, racks, and flames, and fwords;
That Emma thus must die by Henry's words?
Yet what could swords or poison, racks or flame,
But mangle and disjoint this brittle frame!
More fatal Henry's words; they murder Emma's fame.

And fall these sayings from that gentle tongue, Where civil speech, and soft persuasion hung; Whose artful sweetness and harmonious strain, Courting my grace, yet courting it in vain, Call'd sighs, and tears, and wishes to its aid; And, whilst it Henry's glowing stame convey'd, Still blam'd the coldness of the Nut-brown Maid?

Let envious jealousie, and canker'd spight
Produce my actions to severest light,
And tax my open day, or secret night.
Did e'er my tongue speak my ungarded heart
The least inclin'd to play the wanton's part?
Did e'er my eye one inward thought reveal,
Which angels might not hear, and virgins tell?
And hast thou, Henry, in my conduct known
One fault, but that which I must ever own,
That I, of all mankind, have lov'd but thee alone?

HENRY.

Vainly thou talk'st of loving me alone:

Each man is man; and all our sex is one.

False are our words; and sickle is our mind:

Nor in love's ritual can we ever find

Vows made to last, or promises to bind.

By nature prompted, and for empire made, Alike by strength or cunning we invade:

When

When arm'd with rage we march against the foe; We lift the battle ax, and draw the bow: When fir'd with passion we attack the fair; Delufive fighs and brittle vows we bear: Our falshood and our arms have equal use; As they our conquelts, or delight produce. The foolish heart thou gav'st, again receive, The only boon departing love can give. To be less wretched, be no longer true: What strives to fly thee, why should'ft thou pursue? Forget the present flame, indulge a new, Single the lovelieft of the am'rous youth; Ask for his vow; but hope not for his truth. The next man (and the next thou shalt believe) Will pawn his gods, intending to deceive; Will kneel, implore, perfift, o'ercome, and leave. Hence let thy Cupid aim his arrows right; Be wife and falfe, shun trouble, feek delight; Change thou the first, nor wait thy lover's flight.

Why should'st thou weep? let nature judge our case, I faw thee young, and fair; pursu'd the chase Of youth, and beauty; I another faw Fairer, and younger; yielding to the law Of our all-ruling mother, I pursu'd More youth, more beauty: bleft viciffitude! My active heart still keeps its pristine flame: The object alter'd, the defire the fame.

This younger fairer pleads her rightful charms: With present power compels me to her arms. And much I fear, from my subjected mind (If beauty's force to constant love can bind) That years may roll, ere in her turn the maid Shall weep the fury of my love decay'd; And weeping follow me, as thou dost now, With idle clamours of abroken vow.

Nor can the wildness of thy wishes err So wide, to hope that thou may'ft live with her. Love, well thou know'st, no partnership allows: Cupid averse rejects divided vows:

Then from thy foolish heart, vain maid, remove
An useless forrow, and an ill-starr'd love;
And leave me, with the fair, at large in woods to rove.

EMMA.

Are we in life, thro' one great error led?

Is each man perjur'd, and each nymph betray'd?

Of the superior sex art thou the worst?

Am I of mine the most compleatly curst?

Yet let me go with thee; and going prove,

From what I will endure, how much I love.

This potent beauty, this triumphant fair,
This happy object of our diff'rent care,
Her let me follow; her let me attend,
A fervant: (the may fcorn the name of friend.)
What the demands, inceffant I'll prepare:
I'll weave her garlands; and I'll pleat her hair:
My busic diligence shall deck her board;
For there at least I may approach my lord)
And when her Henry's softer hours advise
His fervant's absence; with dejected eyes
Far I'll recede, and sighs forbid to rife.

Yet when encreasing grief brings slow disease; And ebbing life, on terms severe as these, Will have its little lamp no longer fed; When Henry's mistress shows him Emma dead; Rescue my poor remains from vile neglect: With virgin honours let my herse be deckt, And decent emblem; and at least persuade This happy nymph, that Emma may be laid, Where thou, dear author of my death, where she With frequent eye my sepulchre may see. The nymph amidst her joys may haply breath One pious figh, reflecting on my death, And the fad fate which she may one day prove, Who hopes from Henry's vows eternal love. And thou forfworn, thou cruel, as thou art, If Emma's image ever touch'd thy heart; Thou fure must give one thought, and drop one tear_ To her, whom love abandon'd to despair:

SEVERAL OCCASIONS.

To her, who dying, on the wounded stone Bid it in lasting characters be known, That, of mankind, she lov'd but thee alone.

HENRY.

Hear, folemn Jove; and confcious Venus, hear;
And thou, bright maid, believe me, whilft I fwear;
No time, no change, no future flame shall move
The well-plac'd basis of my lasting love.
O powerful virtue! O victorious fair!
At least excuse a trial too severe:
Receive the triumph, and forget the war.

No banish'd man, condemn'd in woods to rove, Intreats thy pardon, and implores thy love:
No perjur'd knight defires to quit thy arms,
Fairest collection of thy sex's charms,
Crown of my love, and honour of my youth:
Henry, thy Henry with eternal truth,
As thou may'st wish, shall all his life imploy,
And found his glory in his Emma's joy.

In me behold the potent Edgar's heir,
Illustrious earl: him terrible in war
Let Loyre confess; for she has felt his sword,
And trembling fled before the British lord.
Him great in peace and wealth fair Deva knows;
For she amidst his spacious meadows flows;
Inclines her urn upon his fatten'd lands;
And sees his num'rous herd imprint her sands.

And thou, my fair, my dove, shalt raise thy thought
To greatness next to empire; shalt be brought
With solemn pomp to my paternal seat;
Where peace and plenty on thy word shall wait.
Music and song shall wake the marriage-day:
And while the priess accuse the bride's delay;
Myrtles and roses shall obstruct her way.

Friendship shall still thy evening feasts adorn And blooming peace shall ever bless thy morn. Succeeding years their happy race shall run: And age unheeded by delight come on:

While

While yet superior love shall mock his pow'r:
And when old time shall turn the fated hour,
Which only can our well-ty'd knot unfold;
What rests of both, one sepulchre shall hold.

Hence then for ever from my Emma's breaft
(That heav'n of foftness, and that feat of rest)
Ye doubts and fears, and all that know to move
Tormenting grief, and all that trouble love
Scatter'd by winds recede, and wild in forrests rove.

EMMA.

O day the fairest sure that ever rose!

Period and end of anxious Emma's woes!

Sire of her joy, and source of her delight

O! wing'd with pleasure take thy happy slight,

And give each suture morn a tincture of thy white.

Yet tell thy votary, potent queen of love,

Henry, my Henry, will he never rove?

Will he be ever kind, and just and good?

And is there yet no mistres in the wood?

None, none there is: the thought was rash and vain;

A false idea, and a fancy'd pain.

Doubt shall for ever quit my strengthen'd heart,

And anxious jealousie's corroding smart;

Nor other inmate shall inhabit there,

But foft belief, young joy, and pleafing care. Hence let the tides of plenty ebb and flow, And Fortune's various gale unheeded blow. If at my feet, the suppliant goddess stands. And sheds her treasure with unweary'd hands: Her present favour cautious I'll embrace. And not unthankful use the profer'd grace: If she reclaims the temporary boon, And tries her pinions, flutt'ring to be gone; District and Secure of mind I'll obviate her intent, And unconcern'd return the goods she lent. Nor happiness can I, nor mis'ry feel, From any turn of her fantastic wheel: Friendship's great law, and love's superior pow'rs Must mark the colour of my future hours.

From the events which thy commands create with a limit of the leftings or my forrows date; with and smile of And Henry's will must dictate Emma's fate.

Yet while with close delight and inward pride

(Which from the world my careful foul shall hide)

I see thee, lord and end of my desire,

Exalted high as virtue can require;

With pow'r invested, and with pleasure chear'd;

Sought by the good, by the oppressor fear'd;

Loaded and bless with all the affluent store,

Which human vows at smoaking thrines implore;

Grateful and humble grant me to employ

My life, subservient only to thy joy;

And at my death to bless thy kindness shown

To her, who of mankind could love but thee alone;

W HILE thus the constant pair alternate said,
Joyful above them and around them play'd
Angels and sportive Loves, a numerous crowd;
Smiling they clapt their wings, and low they bow'd:
They tumbled all their little quivers o'er,
To chuse propitious shafts, a precious store:
That when their god should take his future darts,
To strike (however rarely) constant hearts,
His happy skill might proper arms imploy,
All tipt with pleasure, and all wing'd with joy:
And those, they vow'd, whose lives should insitate
These lovers constancy, should share their fate.

The queen of beauty stop'd her bridled doves;
Approv'd the little labour of the Loves;
Was proud and pleas'd the mutual vow to hear;
And to the triumph call'd the god of war:
Soon as she calls, the god is always near.

Now Mars, she said, let same exalt her voice
Nor let thy conquests only be her choice:
But when she sings great Edward from the sield
Return'd, the hossile spear and captive shield
In Concord's temple hung, and Gallia taught to yield:
And when, as prudent Saturn shall compleat
The years design'd to perfect Britain's state,

VOL. I.

Material and and

SITE

The fwift-wing'd power shall take her trump again,
To fing her fav rite Anna's wondrous reign;
To recollect unweary'd Maribro's toils,
Old Rufus' hell unequal to his spoils;
The British feldier from his high command
Glorious, and Gaul thrice vanquish'd by his hand: Clorious, and Gaul shrice vanquished by his hand:

Let her at least perform what I desire:

With second breath the vocal brass inspire:

And tell the nations in no vulgar strain,

What wars I manage; and what wreaths I gain.

And when thy turnalist and thy sights are past;

And when thy laurels at my seet are cast;

Faithful may'll thou, like British Henry prove

And Emma-like let me return thy love.

And Emma-like let me return thy love.

Repower'd for muth, let all thy font appear;

And confrant beauty shall reward their care.

Mara shall'd, and bow'd: the Capid deity

Turn'd to the plorious ruler of the sky;

And thou, the smiling said, great god of days

And tetle; behold my deed, and fing my praise,

As on the British careb, my favirite isle, Thy gentle rays and kindeff infinence finile, Thro' all her laughing fields, and verdant groves, Proclaim with joy these memorable doves, wed so the From ev'ry annual course let one great day,

To celebrated sports and slovel play

Be set side; and in the softest lays

Of thy poetic son, be solemn praise,

And evertalling marks of honour paid, To the true lover, and the Nut-brown Maid. Man will be the been and deliberation is the said to be a series out or bear.

stor to End of the First Volume.

Spoot as fire calle, and pro-

Laura d, the Salman

THE

CONTENTS.

ON Exodus III. 14. I am that I am, an Ode.	written in 1623.
as an Exercise at St. John's College. Cambri	建筑 加州1955年至
To the Counters of Exeter playing on the Lute.	建新疆路路 建设施
Picture of Seneca dying in a Bath, by Jordain, at able the Earl of Exeter's at Burleigh House.
An Ode.	144 · 144 ·
An Epistle to Fleetwood Shephard, Esq;
To the Countels of Dorlet, written in her	Miles. by Ma
Bradbury.	ins in the colds
To the Lady Durlley, on the same Subject.	建筑是新建筑
To my Lord Buckburft, very young, playing w	tha Cat
An Ode.	能理過程器器對中華
A Song.
The despairing Shepherd.	19.50
To the Honourable Charles Montague, E.G.	* 11 State of 31
Hymn to the Sun, fet by Dr. Purcel, and hing !	perare their along thes on New-Year's-day, 1694.	36
flies on New-Year's-day, 1694. The Lady's Looking-Glass.	41
Love and friendship: a Pasteral, by Mrs. Elizab To the Author of the foregoing Pasteral. To a Lady, the refuting to continue a Dispute w	call Silvery
To the Author of the foresoing Pathers	国制型和国际组织中华
To a Lady the refuting to continue a Diffuse w	A STATE STATE OF THE STATE OF
And the second to continue a Dulyan w	国际制造和国际 经验的
ing me in the Argument : an Ode. Seeing the Duke of Ormand's Picture at Sir God	10 - 10 - 10 - 10 - 10 - 10 - 10 - 10 - scang the Dake of Omand's License at 2st Cod	enal description of the second
Celia to Damon,	14. 24. 25. 47.
An Ode prefented to the King, on his Majefty land, after the Queen's Death, 1695.	's Actival in Hal-
land, after the Queen's Death, 1695.	150
In Instalion of Anacreon,
An Ode.	国际和特别的
Ode für la prife de Namur par les armes de Re	TO I A SHARE SHOW
par Monfieur Boilean Deforeaux.	的复数形式 医多种性的
An English Ballad, on the taking of Namur by t	HE WAR OF STREET
Britain, 1695.	50
Presented to the King at his Arrival in Holland	ifter the Discovery of the Conspiracy, 1696. To Cloe weeping.	100
To Cloe weeping.	73
To Mr. Howard. an Ode.
Love difarm'd	新展 对抗发发
Cloe hunting.	经 的证据
	建筑型是15000
Copid and Gasymede.	CONTRACTOR CONTRACTOR
Cupid mistaken.	ALCOHOLD TO A STATE OF THE STAT
Venus miltaken.	11.2
A Song.
The Dove.
A Lover's Anger.
Mercury and Capid
	多数图图 特得服务

CONTENTS

On Beauty: a Ridd The Question: to I		1 S. page. 5
Lifeta's Roply. The Garland. The Lady who offer	ther looking-Glass to	Venus,	1000
Answer to Clos jeals Abetter Answer. Palles and Verns	us, in the fame Style; a Epigram.	the Author fiek.	3
An English Padlock	an in love. a Tale.	Language of the same	4 67 5 9
THE LAGIC,	is Wife: an hones bu	中的代表的研究的主义的特别。	Si di
Written in the Nouv Adriani Morientis ad By Monlieur Fonten	ning of Mezeray's Hifl eaux Interests des Privanimam Suam. edic.	Robe's Geography, 11 ory of France, 11 nces de l'Europe, 11	3 3 4 1 1
Ormen Seculate for	riz Encominin of Era his practical Discours the Year 1700: to t	finus. Imitated. 22 e concerning Death. 2 he King. 22 o. Dibben, e Trint Co	5
An Ode inscribed to Villers, drowned	the Memory of the Ho in the River Piava, in	nourable Colonel George the Country of Frin	3 9 5
Day, 1704. A Letter to Monfieury at Blenheim, 1 For the Plan of a Fo	Boileau Despreaux, o	continued by the Victor
The Chamelion. Merry Andrew. A Simile, The Flies. From the Greek.	BRITISH	Angelds Daign, our services of the contract of	P 0 1
Epigram, Another, Another, Another,	3 NO 74	O as livery the or of the
Quid fit futurom Cras	te ill, and spoke works, fuge quacrere.	A second that the
ALTERNATION OF THE PROPERTY OF	Poem upon the Mo	名40500000000000000000000000000000000000	